Large forces of skilled workmen, under competent foremen, together with modern appliances and ample hauling facilities, permit quick work.

System in all branches reduces the bluster of wrecking to a minimum. Our methods provide safety to abutting property and but slight street encroachment.

We have handled as many as a dozen big contracts simultaneously during a single month.

We guarantee satisfaction and satisfy the architect, builder and owners as to terms.

Write us or call us up and we will have a representative with you promptly on appointment.

Personal and Trade Notes.

BETZ & LONGYEAR, architects, with offices in the New York State Bank Building, Kingston, N. Y., desire catalogs of all building specialties.

J. H. STOTHOFF, of 637 St. Marks av, Brooklyn, has been appointed Long Island representative for the International Motor Insurance Agency and to write policies at exceptionally low rates on Ford cars.

GEORGE H. SOUTHARD, of Brooklyn, president of the Franklin Trust Co., and a director of the New York Fire Insurance Co., the Corn Exchange Bank and other financial institutions, died at New Bedford on Sunday. In early life he was in the lumber business at Newburgh.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION has ordered a public hearing to be held on January 30 on the form of contract for the B. R. T. subway in Manhattan, between Bleecker st and the Queensboro Bridge. The work from the Battery to Bleecker st is already in course of construction.

CASS GILBERT, architect, of New York City, designer of many prominent buildings throughout the country, including the capitol at St. Paul, Minn., and the custom house and the Woolworth Building of New York City, has been elected a member of the Corporation of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

WILLIAM L. BOWMAN, civil engineer, an attorney-at-law, of New York, read a paper on Tuesday afternoon at the annual meeting of the American Society of Engineering Contractors, at 29 West 39th street. His topic was "Legal Hints to Contractors." In the evening the session opened with an address by the incoming president, after which Edward F. Croker, exchief of the New York Fire Department and president of the Croker National Fire Prevention Engineering Company, of New York City, gave a talk, supplemented with lantern slides, on "Fire: Its Effects and Its Prevention."

SAMUEL D. COYKENDALL, one of the foremost business men on the Hudson River, died Jan. 13, aged 76. He was president of the Cornell Steamboat Company, the Ulster & Delaware Railroad Company and the First National Bank of Rondout. He was also interested in the Consolidated Rosendale Cement Company, the Hudson River Bluestone Company, the Kingston Coal Company, the Grand Hotel Company and the Rhinebeck & Kingston Ferry. Mr. Coykendall married a daughter of the late Thomas Cornell, who survives, with the following named children: Edward Coykendall, Frank Coykendall, Thomas C. Coykendall, Harry S. Coykendall, Robert B. Coykendall and Mrs. Kathryn Herzog, of New York.

"New York" Under Waterproof Paint.

The $6,000,000 battleship "New York" left the ways at the New York Navy Yard November 30th last under a coat of "Tockolith," a waterproofing preparation made by Toch Brothers of 320 5th avenue. Under the title "The Protector of the Protector," this firm of paint inventors and manufacturers is sending out to the trade a very attractive folder showing the giant ship passing down the ways of the Navy Yard protected below the water lines with this firm's rust-proof covering. Further information regarding this material will be supplied upon application to the company.

Some Reasons for Failures in the Building Trade.

Some of the more common reasons for the failure of building trade concerns are pointed out in a recent paper by Leonard C. Wason, President of the Aberthaw Construction Company, Boston, Mass. Among these he mentions overhead charges, depreciation of plant, the lack of an accurate accounting system which would show the actual cost of the work performed in detail, and an extraordinarily weak judgment as to credits. The last seems to Mr. Wason to be an almost general weakness of the building trade. It has often been said that any one can get a building erected if he can only occupy a piece of land long enough so that a builder can begin operations.

A Refrigeration Exposition.

The third International Congress of Refrigeration in September will be featured by an Exposition. An association has been organized to manage and finance it and the immense amphitheatre at 42nd and Halsted streets, Chicago, has been engaged. Trackage connection with all of the railways entering Chicago makes magnificent possibilities for a fine exhibition of everything pertaining to refrigeration—cars, machinery of all sorts, fruits, game, poultry, meats, vegetables, eggs, butter and cheese.

This exhibition will be held while between 500 and 600 delegates from Europe and South American countries are attending convention of American ice-makers, meat packers, poultry, game, butter and egg interests.

The officers and directors of this exposition are: President pro tem., William L. Wagner; vice-president, Frank L. Nickerson, and general manager, William E. Skinner, with office at 819 Exchange avenue, Chicago. Directors in addition to the officers are Theo. O. Vilter, John S. Field, F. S. Pilsbry, Arthur Meeker, H. C. Gardner, C. M. Secrist, George S. Haskell, A. D. White and H. W. Hart.

BUREAU OF BUILDINGS.

220 Fourth Av., Manhattan.

Modification—Sections 26 and 39, Building Code.

Bulletin No. 59—1912. In re Application No. 656 New Buildings 1912, premises—377 Fourth Avenue.

In the construction of an eight-story fireproof store and loft building, it is proposed to use the existing southerly brick foundation wall. This foundation wall was built about two years ago for the purpose of underpinning the walls of the then existing building, and is about two feet thick throughout. Under section 26 of the Building Code the thickness should be two feet four inches for about two-thirds of the length of the wall, the remaining third being of legal thickness.

A modification of sections 26 and 39 of the Building Code is requested and hereby granted, to permit the use of the existing foundation wall without lining the same, inasmuch as it is in good condition, is of sufficient strength for the purpose of a foundation wall, and no practical advantage will be gained by the addition of an eight-inch lining.

Condensation Under Concrete Roofs.

Discussing the prevention of condensation under concrete roofs in a recent address Leonard C. Wason, president of the Aberthaw Construction Company, of Boston, says that if the air under a concrete roof is moist and hot, provision must be made to prevent condensation. Even with the best provision it is necessary in some places to provide for adequate ventilation, as dripping will occur whenever the air reaches the dewpoint. A thick concrete slab requires some insulation even under only moderately bad conditions of dampness inside the building. Some of the roofing companies provide roofing felt, which is placed under the regulating waterproofing of the roof surfaces.

"The disadvantages of this felt," Mr. Wason says, "arises from the fact that it is soft, and walking or moving any heavy weight about on it will cut the roofing seriously. There is also the question of the permanence of the materials used in the felt. The cheapest and one of the most efficient methods of insulation is to use on top of the roof slab a filling of porous concrete made up of screened cinders and concrete. W. H. Ham, of the engineering office of Frech & Hubbard, of Boston, specifies as follows for such filling. His object is to get as spongy, porous material as possible and one that will have some cohesion, enough so that the roofing felt can be mopped down on to it, with the hope of its setting in position.

"Cinder fill.—Concrete roofs should be covered with a cinder concrete fill of thickness as shown. This fill to form crickets and other grades as indicated, minimum, however, to be not less than 3 inches.

"Concrete for this work shall be mixed with one part by volume of Portland cement, fulfilling specifications required for other portions of the building work, and not more than ten parts by volume of clean, steam boiler cinders.

"The fill shall be placed as carefully as possible, so as to be left porous. After the fill has set up sufficiently to work over, the top surface shall be trowelled over with a flat coat of mortar to give a proper surface for the tar and gravel or other rolling material.

LAW DEPARTMENT.

Party Wall.

In the case of adjoining houses, the owner of one may alter the party wall between them if he does not improperly increase the burden of his neighbor, or injure the wall; and in the absence of negligence he is not liable for incidental damages.

No recovery can be had for incidental damages caused by the sagging of plaintiff's house and the loosening of the plaster caused by the pounding of defendant's workmen on the beams connecting and running through said house, in the absence of proof that such hammering was excessive.

The Supreme Court, Appellate Term, First Department, decided as above in the case of Mary J. Bicak, respondent, vs. Josephine Runde, defendant. The plaintiff and the defendant owned adjoining houses with a party wall between them. The houses were concededly about fifteen years old. The defendant, desiring to alter her house, cut it completely away from the party wall and moved it a few inches; she then strengthened the party wall, raised it three feet, and re-annexed her house to the altered party wall.

While this work was being carried on some bricks from the party wall were driven through the lath and plaster of plaintiff's house, causing some damage, and very considerable additional damage was caused by the sagging of her house, necessitating considerable repairs. It is not very clear what caused this sagging; but plaintiff claims that, while a small part of the damage may have been caused by the removal of the lateral support accorded by her neighbor's house, the main part of the damage was caused by the pounding of the defendant's workmen on the beams connecting and running through her house. The plaintiff and her husband never saw the workmen at work, and would not testify that this pounding was excessive, but they heard the pounding and formed their own inference that this pounding caused the greater part of the damage.

The appellate court held that the sole possible ground of recovery was that defendant had been guilty of either negligence or trespass. So far as the small damage caused by the dislocation of the bricks was concerned, the proof was sufficient to sustain a recovery either for negligence or trespass, but the larger part of the damage was not connected with these holes. They were, on plaintiff's theory, caused by the hammering on the joists of defendant's house. In the absence, however, of evidence that this hammering was excessive, there can be no recovery for this damage. The defendant had a right to alter her house if she did so without negligence. She shows that, in making the alterations, the workmen were obliged to cut the joists and then to hammer the small pieces remaining in the wall free from the wall.

Elevator Service.

The Otis Elevator Co. of this city is issuing to building managers a little pamphlet illustrating some of the standard elevator lubricants carried by them for use on their elevators. When a big elevator company has the efficiency of its products at stake it is safe to assume that any lubricant or part recommended by such a company has been fully investigated and tested. Engineers declare that most of the wear and tear on elevator equipment is due not so much to inferior material as to the kind of lubricants used in the operation of these devices. To standardize elevator commodities, the Otis elevator service department has been established with factory trained experts in charge, thoroughly familiar with elevator construction and maintenance, where standard oils and lubricants may be ordered. The booklet, "Elevator Service," will be sent upon application at 11th avenue and 26th street.

Book of Pipe Standards.

The 1913 edition of the National Tube Co.'s book of standards will be ready for distribution early in the coming year. The book consists of approximately 600 pages, 4x6½ inches, is leather bound and printed on Canterbury Bible stock. It is a handbook for engineering and building construction use in connection with tubular material, pipe and pipe fittings. It contains data concerning manufacturing sizes, weights, dimensions, test pressures, section joints, physical and chemical properties, bursting, collapsing and column strength of all pipe and tubular goods manufactured by this company. The book also gives information relating to air, gas, water and steam. There is a glossary defining a large number of the terms used in the pipe and fitting trade.

OFFICIAL CREDIT RECORDS

JUDGMENTS.

In these lists of Judgments the names alphabetically arranged and which are first on each line are those of the judgment debtor. The letter (D) means judgment for deficiency, (*) means not summoned. (†) Signifies that the first name is fictitious, real name being unknown. Judgments entered during the week and satisfied before day of publication do not appear in this column, but in list of Satisfied Judgments.

The Judgments filed against corporations, etc., will be found at the end of the list.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

A lien was filed January 10, 1913, against the property of the GEORGIA BUILDING COMPANY by Jacob Caraef, claiming a co-partnership with David Loges and Jacob Hoffman, under the firm name of The Paris Model Painting and Decorating Co. I never heard of Caraef, Loges or the said firm until this lien was filed. I have made no contracts for the painting of my buildings. Jacob Hoffman is employed by me as a day laborer and is paid every Saturday night. He is now overpaid $135. He informs me that there is not and never was in existence any such partnership. I have laid the matter before the District Attorney.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS USED AND RULES FOLLOWED IN COMPILING RECORDS.

Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed omitting all covenants and warranty.

C. a G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given. When the date of drawing is other than in the current year the stated year is given. When both the dates are in the same year the year follows the second date.

The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1912.

T. S. preceding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed or conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

Flats and apartment houses are classified as tenements.

Residences as dwellings.

All Christian names, streets, avenues, states and months are abbreviated when possible, also in some instances names of Banks, Trusts and Insurance Companies.

The number in ( ) preceding the serial number to the right of the date line, at head of this page, is the Index number for the Checking Index.

The Star following names of street or avenue in the Bronx Conveyances, Leases and Mortgages indicates that the property recorded is in the annexed district, for which there is no section or block number.

TENDENCIES IN MODERN DEVELOPING

Large-Scale Methods of Operating Have Brought About Better Designed and Cheaper Houses.

Other Changes of the Last Few Years Have Also Been Very Favorable to Buyers of Suburban Property.

IN the last article of this series a sketch was given of the conditions which have determined the prevailing tendencies in suburban development. It was pointed out that as a consequence of the active suburban movement in 1905 and 1906, followed by the panic of 1907, competition among development companies became severer than ever before. Those companies whose management was most enterprising and which could command sufficient capital inaugurated a systematic policy of creating a demand for their property by making it easier and more attractive to live in the suburbs. They began not merely to sell lots but also to build and sell houses, and once this practice was started they were compelled to make a very careful and intelligent study of the needs of their customers. Every one who has followed the course of suburban development at New York will admit that as a result of this study a real advance has been made, both in the conveniences of suburban life and in the standards of construction and design of suburban houses.

The development company erecting houses for sale was obliged to meet active competition from two sources and a powerful latent competition from a third source. It was obliged to meet the competition of other companies, some of which controlled large capital and were managed by ingenious and able men. It was obliged to meet the competition of the ordinary speculative builder of houses in the newer residential districts of the outlying boroughs. It was obliged, finally, to satisfy many customers who had been accustomed to an exacting standard of convenience established in their mind by long familiarity with New York apartments. The flat, particularly the cheaper sort, is often small and dark; but, from the mechanical point of view, it makes life very easy for the housekeeper, and a housekeeper who has been accustomed to all the latest expedients for economizing labor will not readily return to a method of living which demands a larger expenditure for hired service or a greater exertion of her own strength.

These various sources of competition made it necessary for the development companies to individualize their houses and make them particularly attractive. Their advantage over the speculative builder consisted in the fact that they could offer to their customers houses which were not so monotonous in location and appearance as the ordinary run of houses built in rows. At the same time, these residences must conform to prevailing standards of taste and conveniences; and must be offered at prices which would make a customer believe that, even though he was paying a little more for his dwelling, he was getting more for his money. He was getting a house in which he could take some pride and which was more likely to increase in value.

The consequence was that, as compared to the ordinary speculative builder, the development companies began to employ a higher grade of architectural ability and training. They did not, of course, usually engage the services of high-priced architects, such, for instance, as a man would employ who was building a house in the country at a cost of $50,000. In a few cases architects of this class were employed with some success to design unusually expensive houses, but as a rule their services are not available, both because they charge more than their market value to the company and because they are reluctant to accept conditions which are imposed by the necessity of financial success. In and around New York, however, there are a large number of young and well-trained architectural designers, with plenty of ability and taste, but not over burdened either with money or reputation. They may be practicing themselves in a small way or they may have obtained valuable experience in the employ of their more successful colleagues. In either event, they are glad to do some designing on their own account under certain general conditions imposed by the management of the development companies. It is young men belonging to this class who have been largely responsible for the design of attractive houses erected in such large numbers of late years in many of the suburbs near New York.

These houses undoubtedly are, on the average, better-looking, more conveniently planned, better constructed and cheaper than they would have been in case they had been erected by the individual buyers of suburban lots. In rare instances such buyers might possess enough knowledge about architecture or enough personal taste to secure a house of some distinction of appearance, but for the most part they would depend for their designs on some architectural manufacturing concern or upon a local builder. The young well-trained men usually employed by the development companies would be capable of designing houses far more attractive and less commonplace in appearance. The same statement is true of the plans prepared under the supervision of the company's officers. The art of planning a house is one whose complications increase in proportion to the standard of living of the house owner. The more numerous the demands of owners for conveniences and attractions, the more ingenuity and experience are required, in order to meet the demands with economy of space and expenditure. In the offices of the development companies planning has been reduced to a science, just as it has in the offices of certain apartment house architects in Manhattan. A number of economical types have been developed, capable of many minor variations and tested by long and critical observation of the complaints and approvals of the purchasers of the houses. It stands to reason also that the companies can build cheaper than the individual house owner. They are in a position to buy their materials in comparatively large quantities, to make advantageous long-time contracts, to collect an efficient group of mechanics and, in general, to enjoy all those advantages which the large-scale business man has over his smaller competitor.

An uninformed observer would probably be willing to admit that the development companies would be able to build better looking, more convenient and cheaper houses than would the run of men who bought their lots and erected their own dwellings. He might, however, be sceptical about the statement that the development companies have also improved the standard of construction of suburban residences; and his scepticism would apparently be justified by the notorious fact that men who build houses for sale have very little interest in building houses well. It is, of course, true that the speculative builder has usually been a builder of inferior houses and has done much to debase American standards of construction. But the suburban development companies differ from the ordinary builder, in that their interests lie more in the direction of good than poor construction.

The reader will understand why the development companies might be obliged to build well by comparing their situation with that of an ordinary speculative builder. The latter calculates upon his ability to sell a house which he has erected soon after the construction is finished and thenceforward to be freed from all responsibility. The whole transaction is begun and completed within a comparatively short period of time. On the other hand, the suburban development company is engaged in a continuing business transaction. It controls large tracts, which are sold off little by little and which are often not entirely sold until the end of many years. The buyers of the houses have a chance to test the quality of their construction, and any company which built badly would get a bad reputation and be unable to keep on selling its houses. Moreover, there is another respect in which the development company is differently situated from the ordinary speculative builder. Many of its houses are sold on the installment plan, and the company's relation with the owners of these houses does not terminate for many years. Under such conditions a sound method of construction is essential. A house which developed defects due to poor materials and inferior workmanship would be a source of constant annoyance to the company, and might be productive of quarrels and lawsuits, which would be far from beneficial to its business.

Thus, there can be no doubt that, upon the whole, the changes which have taken place in the business of suburban development since the winter of 1907-1908 have been extremely beneficial to the buyer of suburban property. The companies seeking his patronage could not take it for granted. They have been obliged to make it worth his while to move out into the suburbs, and the means which they have adopted have all tended in the direction of enabling the New Yorker to live more pleasantly, more wholesomely and more economically in the suburbs than has ever been the case hitherto. The consequence is that just at the very time when increasing rents in the center of the city and improved means of transportation promise to stimulate the suburban movement the accommodations which the prospective suburbanite can obtain for a certain amount of money have undergone a substantial improvement.

—The Common Council of the city of Newark has appropriated $401 for a new fire house for Engine Company No. 9. Contracts for the structure have been approved. The original appropriation was $30,000, but when the bids were opened it was found that the lowest amounted to $30,401. E. M. Waldron, of Newark, has been awarded the contract.

—The town of Woodbury, N. J., is going to have a new automobile fire engine combined with ladder truck, chemical engine and hose cart, if the recommendation of Fire Chief C. Walter Shivers is adopted.

PUBLIC UTILITIES AS A BAROMETER OF GROWTH

Work of Suburban Development Companies Reflected in Increased Consumption of Gas and Electricity and in Heavier Street Car and Railway Traffic.

By JOHN L. CONOVER, Jr., Statistician for the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey.

No better barometer of growth of a community can be consulted than the statistics covering the traffic on street car and interurban railway lines and the consumption of water, gas and electricity. When it is found that 1912 exhibits a distinct gain in the use of these services and commodities over 1911, and that 1911 showed a gain over the preceding year, there can be little doubt that the activities of suburban development companies are bringing about a marked increase of population in the metropolitan district of New Jersey.

This district, which comprises the five counties of Bergen, Essex, Hudson, Passaic and Union, and which economically, though not politically, constitutes the sixth borough of New York City, is experiencing a tremendous growth, if statistics prove anything at all. During 1911 the passenger traffic on the street cars and interurban lines of one company showed an increase of 6 per cent. over the year before. The opening of the Hudson and Manhattan tubes between New York and Newark, coupled with other factors, reacted somewhat upon our traffic during 1912; but even so the gain over 1911 was 5 per cent.

In gas consumption, the year 1911 showed a gain of 5.5 per cent., while last year's gain was 8.5 per cent. In our electrical department the gain of 13.5 per cent., reported for 1911, was bettered by 5 points; that is, the gain in the consumption of electricity during 1912 was 18.5.

The great problem common to all prospective home builders and commercial building projectors, whether in the city of New York or in the communities dotting the suburban railroad lines, is to discover the direction of future growth—to buy land and build in the path of progress at the earliest possible moment. In a great community the speculative builder anticipates the residential and commercial housing needs of the immediate future; in the suburbs the pioneering movement is conducted largely by development companies. It is the development companies which, next to improved transportation, are mainly responsible for the rapid growth of the commuting population of east Jersey.

We may say that east Jersey's growth as a "borough" of New York began in earnest less than two decades ago. At that time every town and city was a separate entity. Many of them had their own gas, electric and water plants, and many of them had local trolley lines or depended entirely upon the railroads. Inter-community spirit was not developed, and the result was that the basic commodities of home comfort were of the crudest sort.

As the development of outlying real estate proceeded, extension and improvement of the public utilities were demanded. It became evident that, sooner or later, all that territory lying in New Jersey within a radius of thirty miles from the City Hall in New York would be practically one community; as such, it should enjoy one trolley service, concentrated sources of gas, electricity and, as far as possible, of water.

In the meantime, development companies converted farming districts into city lots, and these have been incorporated into existing town and city limits. All of the communities are now served by an efficient, connected street car and interurban service, running thirty miles west to New Brunswick, there connecting with a high speed trolley line to Trenton, whence another similar trolley proceeds to Philadelphia; thirty miles north to Paterson and thirty miles south to South Amboy.

In every direction new town sites have been laid out, developed and populated. Gas and electricity have been provided, to give the suburbanite all the comforts of apartment house or hotel residence, besides fresh air and plenty of lawn room. Still the development of east Jersey has only just begun

The Public Service Corporation of New Jersey today serves in the metropolitan district a population of 1,689,671, according to estimates based upon the 1910 census, a population which is equal to the population of Brooklyn. Here is a tabulation of the figures relating to our different services, which, as you know, extend beyond the metropolitan counties:

Kind of Service.	Municipalities Served.	Population Served.
Gas	151	1,809,170
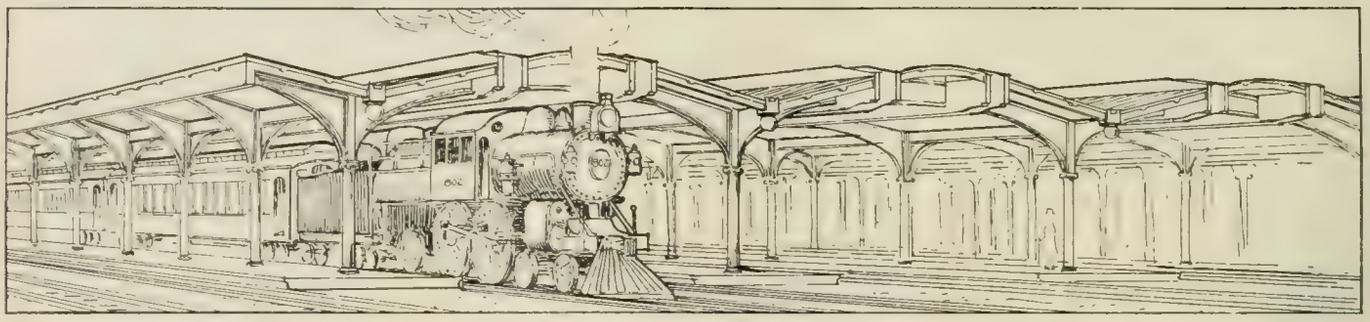
Total	199	2,025,151

Not only has New Jersey developed notably as a commuting district, but it has also developed wonderfully as an industrial community. The unrivaled freight facilities and the excellent street car service, which brings operatives to and from their homes, coupled with New Jersey's advantages as a recreation ground and as a ready source of supplies, open a future for the Metropolitan District superlative in its possibilities.

The Athens of New Jersey.

Montclair is famous as the richest community in New Jersey. It is also the lair of many of the great literary lions of the day, boasting among its population editors of great metropolitan publications and heads of great business enterprises in New York. Its residents are patrons of high-class local musical, art and literary enterprises, making this city stand high as a community of culture and refinement in suburban life, which accounts for the sobriquet of "The Athens of New Jersey." It has a population of 25,000 and lies at an elevation of from 300 to 500 feet above the sea level. From Montclair a resident can glance out of his front window and overlook an area comprising the homes of approximately five per cent. of the population of the United States, for New York and its entire western environs are plainly visible.



NETHERWOOD, A DEVELOPMENT IN PLAINFIELD SUBURBS, MADE POSSIBLE BY PUBLIC SERVICE COOPERATION.

RAILROAD'S SHARE IN SUBURBAN DEVELOPING

How the Jersey Central Cooperates With Commuting Towns and Development Companies in Building Up the Metropolitan District.

By W. C. HOPE, General Passenger Agent, and T. B. KOONS, Vice-President and Freight Traffic Manager

WHEN all is said and done, there is not so very much difference between the business of running a railroad and the conduct of almost any mercantile or commercial enterprise, for, reduced to the final analysis, it is the railroad which tries hardest to give the public what the public wants and the merchant who caters most painstakingly to popular prejudices that achieves the greatest success. The dealer in dry goods, or door mats for that matter, has this or that brand of merchandise for sale; the management of a railroad has transportation to sell; that is about the only difference, unless one excepts the fact that the business man fixes his own prices and varies them as he sees fit while the railroad man, in the matter of rates—and pretty much everything else—bows to government regulation.

To pursue the analogy, the merchant who attempts to do business in a building that is approaching decrepitude or is situated away from the chief centers of trade can expect little else than failure, or, at the best, stagnation. The public will not seek his wares. By the same token, the railroad manager who essays to operate a system that lacks modern facilities cannot help but invite decreasing traffic and diminishing dividends. The public will not patronize his trains. Then there's another influence that contributes largely to success, or the lack of it; that is the personnel of either organization. The department store salesman who serves customers with scant civility does no more to drive business away than the railroad trainman, or station agent, who handles passengers without courtesy or consideration. In short, pleasing the public is a simple business proposition, in railroading as in everything else that concerns the public.

Pleasing the Public.

What, in particular, is the Central Railroad of New Jersey doing to satisfy the public? For one thing, it is spending many millions of dollars to put its system in the highest stage of perfection, for every dollar expended in the erection of new stations, the elevation of tracks, the acquisition of new rolling stock and motive power, is simply a unit in the process of pleasing the public.

Probably the most important of all the improvements under way, or in contemplation, is the construction work now in progress at Jersey City, the consummation of which will approximately treble the size, capacity and efficiency of existing terminal facilities. Take, for instance, the new trainshed which is being erected and which will take the place of the present high arch structure. The new shed—technically known as the improved Bush type—will consist of a series of nine connected arches and a cantilever at each side, the arches being supported by 18-foot fluted iron columns erected on the centre-lines of the concrete platforms. Of these platforms, four will be sixteen feet wide, four eighteen feet wide and two twenty feet wide. The roofs of the spans will be constructed of reinforced concrete with two lines of skylights, five feet wide, over each platform, and one line of skylights over each pair of tracks. Continuous longitudinal ducts, two to each arch, will provide for escape of smoke and gases from the locomotives, preventing them from coming into contact with the steel work and from being diffused throughout the trainshed.

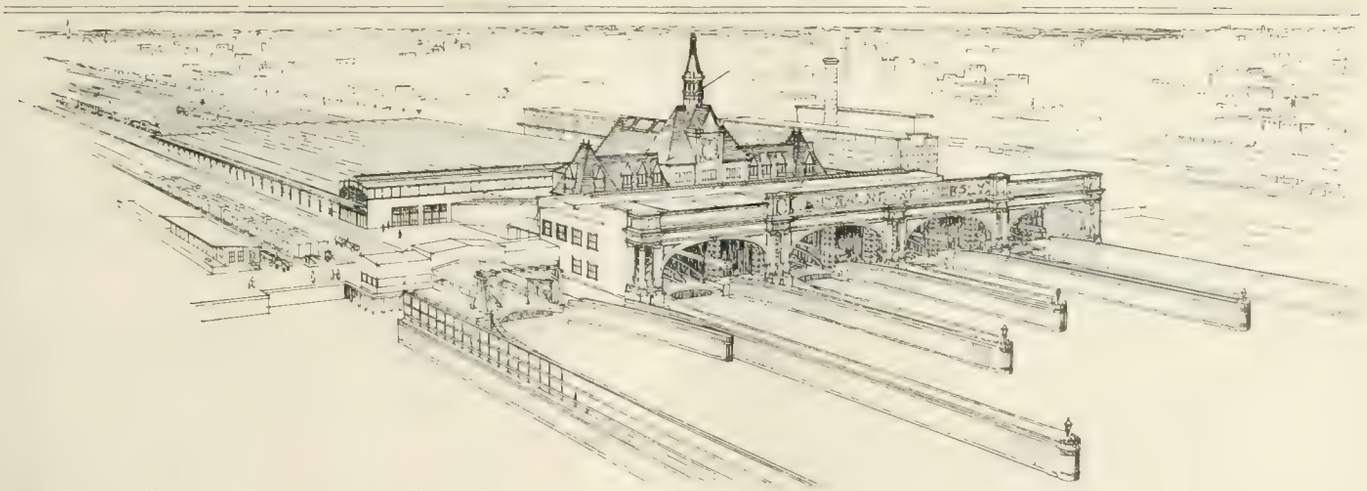
Within the trainshed will be twenty tracks, sixteen of which will be 800 feet long with a capacity of sixteen twelve-car trains; on the remaining four tracks (at the south side of the shed) each 680 feet in length, four ten-car trains may be placed. By way of comparison—the present high arch trainshed covers only twelve tracks, 470 feet long, with a total capacity, figuring seven cars to a track, of eighty-four cars, as against 232 cars which the new trainshed will be capable of housing.

Two-Deck Ferry Service.

Of scarcely less significance than the enlargement of the trainshed will be the installation of a second-deck ferry concourse, which will establish direct communication between the upper decks of ferryboats and all incoming and outgoing trains. Not only will this innovation add greatly to the convenience of passengers, but it will materially reduce the time of transfer between trains and boats.

In a word, it will mean that Liberty street passengers, for instance, may enter the New York Terminal via the bridge over West street, passing through the second-floor lobby and waiting room to the upper deck of the ferryboats, and, without descending the stairs to the lower cabins, leave on the Jersey side direct from the upper decks at the same time that passengers are leaving the lower decks. In like manner will 23d street passengers leave and enter the upper decks at the Jersey City Terminal.

This direct communication between the upper decks of boats and the train will be made possible by means of wide ramps, or gradually inclined runways, connecting the second-deck ferry concourse with the new train concourse. These ramps will be erected to the north and south, respectively, of the present train level passage ways at either side of the station building proper, and, in addition to the ramps, a broad stairway will lead from the second deck ferry concourse to the ground floor lobby into which the present waiting room will be converted. Passageways at either side will connect the lower-deck ferry concourse with the new train concourse which will extend across the eastern end of the trainshed between the baggage-truck "alley" (running at right angles with the ends of the train platforms and tracks) and the waiting rooms and lobby. This concourse will be sixty-four feet wide and 380 feet long.



Another noteworthy innovation will be the operation of the ferry "bridges" by electricity instead of, as under present conditions, by hand power. Individual motors will be used for raising and lowering the bridges, and the hanging overhead gangways from the upper decks of the boats to the second-deck ferry concourse, and for operation of the winches, by which the boats are made fast. In addition to the four new ferry slips, the present south temporary slip will be retained for emergency use.

Adjoining the new slip to the north, and in the spaces between the other slips will be erected four double-deck steel buildings in which will be located the baggage room, United States mail station, ferry waiting room, stationer's department and other offices.

New Electro-Pneumatic Switch System.

Two interesting features of the new terminal will be the substitution of an electro-pneumatic interlocking plant for the operation of the yard switches for the present system, and the installation of a novel and effective method of intercommunication linking all departments of the terminal. By providing a number of additional main line and yard tracks for incoming and outgoing trains and for light engines and "dead head" train movements, the new interlocking plant will so facilitate the dispatching of the trains as to treble the efficiency of the terminal in this respect, while the new system of intercommunication, the basis of which will be electric signals, supplemented by the telautograph and telephone, will also contribute to increased facility in the dispatching of both trains and ferryboats.

While work on the passenger station is being pushed the construction of one of the largest engine terminals in the country is well under way. It will be south of the main line tracks in the vicinity of Communipaw Station, and will consist of two roundhouses of a total capacity of sixty-six engines, a 1,600-ton capacity coaling station, an extensive ashpit, as well as a large machine shop, storehouse, and other facilities.

The scope of improvements also includes the complete reconstruction of the passenger train yard to the north of the present main line tracks and the merging of it with a new yard, which will extend over the entire area now occupied by the present round houses, giving the combined new yard a length of nearly a mile.

The new terminal will in every sense be a union station, for after May 1 it will be used by trains of four railroads—the New Jersey Central, the Philadelphia & Reading, the Baltimore & Ohio and the Lehigh Valley.

Tube Connections Some Day.

Apropos the terminal facilities of the eastern end of the New Jersey Central system, the interesting question arises, How about tube connections? There is no doubt that some day such a connection with the metropolis will be a thing accomplished, yet to-day the manner of its accomplishment presents a problem too stubborn and complex to permit even a suggestion as to the mode of its possible adjustment. However, due provision has been made in the Jersey City terminal improvement plans in anticipation of the final solution.

One of the severest handicaps which is encountered in the operation of a railroad is the obstruction to traffic due to open drawbridges; it is also one of the most difficult to overcome. The navigation laws of the nation say that because the rivers were flowing tranquilly through the land eons before the invading of railroads had the hardihood to attempt to cross them, the craft that ply these peaceful streams must therefore have precedence over any and all trains. Thus it is that a train load of a thousand or more passengers must possess its collective soul in patience—while a brick-laden scow crawls sedately and defiantly through an open draw—under such impetus as a snail-like tugboat can impart. Even the wildest imagination can scarcely picture the pleasure of that portion of the public subjected to delays of this character.

Elevating the Newark Branch.

With a view to eliminating at least some of these vexatious interruptions of traffic on the Newark and New York Branch of the Central, the entire right of way of the railroad from a point half a mile west of the Passaic River to the West Side Avenue Station (now above grade) will traverse an embankment sufficiently high to more than double the present clearance of the intervening bridges spanning the Passaic and the Hackensack. In brief, this elevation of the railroad will mean that approximately 90 per cent. of river craft will be able to pass under the bridges without necessitating the opening of the draws, all of which will reduce to a minimum the number of drawbridge detentions.

A similar remedy has already been applied to that section of the Perth Amboy Branch crossing the Elizabeth River, while in connection with this particular work a new station—one of the largest and handsomest on the road—has been erected above grade just south of Elizabeth avenue. It has been in service for several weeks. Eventually the elevation of the Perth Amboy Branch will be continued northward to Elizabethport station and the intersection of the main line tracks. Just how the details will be worked out has not been definitely determined but the purpose of doing away with that intersection at grade will in some way be accomplished. This work will involve the building of a new and modern Elizabethport station on two levels, while incidentally, the elevation of the tracks wiping out street crossings at grade will permit the rescinding of the municipal ordinance compelling slow speed over this entire stretch of track. That means several minutes slipped off present schedules.

Among other new stations provided for in the program of improvements, one is being built at Westfield on the south, or eastbound side of the tracks, while the present stone structure, with added shelter platforms, will be retained as the westbound station.

Encouraging Expansion at Bound Brook.

Then at Bound Brook, the grade of the tracks will be raised several feet and a new double station will be built on the new grade.

The present passenger train yard and engine terminal at Roselle is destined to pass into oblivion, for a new and larger yard and round house near Cranford station will shortly be in shape for service. One result of this improvement will be the extension of the train runs now terminating at Roselle—Roselle Park farther west to Cranford, incidentally giving the latter the benefit of some forty additional trains.

It seems to be a generally accepted truth that there is no element entering more potently into the growth and prosperity of a suburban community than the quality of its transportation facilities. The efficiency of train service on the New Jersey Central has beyond question been a determining factor in the development of New Jersey Central suburbs. The train service—the facilities which travellers twice daily or transient demand and enjoy—have always been good; they will be even substantially better when the improvements outlined shall have been completed, while their effect upon the communities interested cannot fail to be far-reaching in the benefits so derived. All of which will come as a sequel to pleasing the public.

Making Freight Facilities Count.

It should be of more than ordinary interest to the general public to know, and in fact study, the rapid and enlarged developments in the way of additional facilities on the C. R. R. of N. J. for the better accommodation of both passenger and freight traffic. Improvements in the way of new and enlarged stations, tracks, safety appliances and pier facilities are going on, involving a very large expenditure, all for the benefit of the public.

Dealing especially with the handling of freight traffic, constant efforts are made in every direction to increase already established superior advantages which are fully evidenced by the many important industries located along said line and new ones added constantly.

It may not be amiss to point out the fact that is possibly not as yet generally known except by shippers located on the road, that the C. R. R. of N. J. is a part of every trunk line operating between points in the west and New York waters. In this respect its position differs entirely from any other of the great carriers operating in the territory referred to, giving advantages to shippers and manufacturers the choice to select whatever route they find desirable to forward their commodities to and from the West, South, or New England territory. In addition, there are close working arrangements with the coastwise steamships via New York, as well as for European and Far East ports, or to the Orient. These unrestricted transportation facilities naturally are helpful to those who are located along this line, and undoubtedly are contributing factors for the rapid enlargement of many industries and their constant increase of production.

With the completion of the extensive improvements at Jersey City for the better handling of all classes of traffic and with the additional and new docks that are now being constructed along most modern lines as rapidly as it is possible, facilities of a character for the handling of traffic to and from vessels or for the harbor of New York will be of that extent that upon completion of all that has been undertaken and is in contemplation it will mean the finest and most extensive means of handling traffic by any road reaching New York waters.

The close proximity of one of the greatest commercial centers of the world should be a further consideration. This feature, we feel, is fully appreciated by those who are already located along the C. R. R. of N. J., and should be of more than ordinary interest to those who are seeking locations in the way of manufacturing sites, or otherwise. There are still many favorable locations that offer advantages for manufacturing and residential purposes.

Those who study in detail what has been briefly referred to will, we feel, learn to their satisfaction that the same energy and efforts that are put forth in the referred-to extensive improvement for the better handling of all classes of business equally applies to enlarged and corresponding train service, both on account of passenger and freight traffic, which cannot be excelled by any railroad. A suggestion may be permitted which is, to watch the rapid industrial progress along this road, corresponding with the broad and liberal policy of this company.

—The city of Plainfield, with a population of 23,000, has only eleven saloons which pay an annual license fee of $1,200 each. North Plainfield, and adjoining borough with a populatiton of 5,000, has seven saloons, which pay a license fee of $250 each. An effort to increase the number of licensed saloons in Plainfield is arousing a storm of protest.

THE "SIXTH BOROUGH"

Metropolitan District in New Jersey Has a Population Exceeding That of Brooklyn.

THE Metropolitan District of New Jersey, comprising the five counties of Bergen, Essex, Hudson, Passaic and Union, constitutes economically the sixth borough of New York. Its communities aggregate a population exceeding that of Brooklyn, with its 1,604,351 inhabitants. In 1890 the population of all of New Jersey was only 1,444,933. In 1910 the total population was 2,537,167, about 200,000 more than Manhattan had. The total population of the Metropolitan district proper in New Jersey is 1,689,671.

The following statistics, classified according to "service districts," were obtained from John L. Conover, Jr., statistician for the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey. All of the towns are within the metropolitan district, comprising the five commuting counties within thirty miles of New York.

Essex Division.

Belleville, 9,891; Bloomfield, 15,070; Caldwell Borough, 2,236; Cedar Grove, 2,409; Chatham, 1,874; East Newark, 3,163; East Orange, 34,371; Essex Fells, 442; Florham Park Borough, 558; Glen Ridge, 3,260; Hanover Township, 6,228; Harrison, 14,498; Irvington, 11,877; Kearny, 18,659; Madison, 4,658; Millburn, 3,720; Montclair, 21,550; Morristown, 12,507; Morris Township, 3,161; Newark, 347,469; North Arlington, 437; North Caldwell, 595; Orange, 29,630; Roseland, 486; South Orange Township, 2,979; South Orange Village, 6,014; Springfield, 1,246; Summit, 7,500; Verona, 1,675; West Caldwell, 494; West Orange, 10,980. ESSEX, THE HEART OF THE COMMUTING AREA

What the Mayor of Montclair Has Done to Keep Up the High Standard of His Community—Progress in The Oranges and Other Commuting Zones.

By J. J. CRAWLEY.

ESSEX COUNTY, the heart of the East Jersey commuting zone, meets every requirement the home-seeker may have. If he desires to be within easy reach of theatres and lecture halls, by railway or motor car, Newark, with its luxurious apartment houses and finely appointed residences, has first claim upon his attention. If, on the other hand, he seeks quiet, fresh air and a distinctive social atmosphere, Montclair bids him welcome. For an unspoiled rural environment Short Hills, Caldwell, Essex Fells, Milburn and Chatham offer inducements that are unexcelled anywhere in the neighborhood of New York city.

HOME COMFORTS THE APARTMENT HOUSE CANNOT SUPPLY.

You ask whether I think the wonderful growth of East Jersey in recent years will continue? I can best reply to that question by inviting you to make a survey with me of Essex County in 1912.

First among the residential towns are the Oranges, Bloomfield, Glen Ridge, Montclair, Essex Fells, Caldwell, Chatham, Short Hills and Milburn. All these are within an hour's ride by train from New York, and are served by the "Road of Anthracite." The social life, character of schools, number of churches and remarkably high civic ideals found in these municipalities entitle them to the attention of the New Yorker seeking to establish his home free from all city influences.

It is small wonder, then, that even though general economic conditions should be undergoing a change which makes for unsettlement in the average community, these towns should be forging ahead. All this is a development of recent years, but principally of 1912, when the communities in question experienced their greatest growth as commuting communities.

This is evidenced by the reports of local real estate brokers, who, one and all, state that the building operations of 1912 have added enormously to the tax income of the county and State. The County Park Commission was wise enough to foresee a few years ago that, if park sites were not soon purchased prices would soon be prohibitive. The commission acted promptly, so now the entire county is well provided with beautiful natural parks, which will insure to this section of Northern New Jersey first place as a recreation ground.

Last year the demand for high-class property was excellent, coming mainly from those who were not interested in speculation, but in building houses and improving their neighborhoods. The advent of the cheap speculator and builder was frowned upon, notably in the case of Montclair, where ordinances were passed which made it almost impossible for this class of developer to do business in the town.

In this connection, it might not be amiss to refer specifically to the class of development which was the feature of the year in Montclair.

In the accompanying illustrations some of the newer development enterprises are presented. They show strictly high-class types of building, one of the houses being in the Georgian and the other in the Elizabethan style of architecture. They were designed by A. F. Norris of New York and Montclair. These two pictures typify the general character of building construction for residence purposes that has made Montclair conspicuous among New Jersey surburban communities. They reflect not only the trend of progress, but also the degree of public spirit with which Mayor Ernest C. Hink is embued, for it is largely to him and to other leading members of the community, that the sobriquet of "The Athens of New Jersey" has been earned for Montclair by its officials in office, its merchants and its residents.

Population Figures Tell the Story.

An idea of the growth of this section of Northern New Jersey may be had when one learns that in Montclair, during the last ten years, the increase in population was 50 per cent, from 14,000 to 21,500; business frontage on the main thoroughfare is now sold at a price equivalent to $32,000 an acre.

Ten years hence the increase in population of Northern New Jersey during the census decade will be nearer 100 per cent than 50 per cent, and Montclair, the Mountain Town, will be well represented in the showing.

A HIGH TYPE OF DEVELOPMENT IN MONTCLAIR.

HOBOKEN AND JERSEY CITY CHANGING

A Complete Modern Sewer System Planned.—McAdoo Tunnels Have Caused An Upbuilding of the Bergen Section of Jersey City.

HOBOKEN and Jersey City, although they adjoin each other, are as distinct as the hands. The former has a population, according to a census taken in 1910, of 70,324 persons, and it covers an area of 837 acres or slightly more than a square mile; while Jersey City is much larger, comprising a population of 267,779 persons and embodying an area extending from the Hoboken City line south to Bayonne and to and including Greenville, Bergen, Hudson and Lafayette on the west. Both cities are traffic served by the Hudson & Manhattan Railway Company or what is commonly known as the McAdoo Tunnels. The ferry traffic between Hoboken and Manhattan has not materially decreased, but the ferry traffic between Jersey City and Manhattan has suffered consequent on the tunnel running through Jersey City and the trains in it stopping at various stations there. In Hoboken the tunnel ends at the river front and connections are made with the various parts of the city by trolley cars which come to the stairs of the tubes. There is a special reason for the continuity of traffic on the Hoboken ferry and that is the Lackawanna Railroad, which has its terminus in Hoboken, issues its commutation tickets between given points on its system and Manhattan; and, inasmuch as the ferry service is included in the commutation cost the railroad figures accordingly in the cost of ferry maintenance. Besides, there is heavy vehicular traffic between Manhattan and Hoboken. Both Hoboken and Jersey City are very old municipalities. The Stevens family, which founded Stevens Institute of Technology, originally owned the greater part of Hoboken, including all of its frontage on the North river. Jersey City was settled largely by the Holland Dutch, and many of the prominent families there to-day bear Dutch cognomens.

Status of Hoboken.

As Hoboken grew in population and importance the Stevens family sold the major part of its land within the city proper and within comparatively recent years the family has transferred its ownership of its waterfront to a corporation known as the Hoboken Land & Improvement Company, which has been largely instrumental in the development of the city's coast line. There is about 1¾ miles of waterfront to Hoboken. The surface of the city generally is quite flat, sloping back gradually to an elevation of only a foot or two above high tide, the only deviation in this uniform surface being the hill know as Castle Point, overlooking the river about midway between its north and south boundaries. Here the old Stevens Castle and Stevens Institute are situated. Cooperating with the Hoboken Land & Improvement Company in the development of Hoboken's commercial advantages is the Hoboken Railroad, Warehouse & Steamship Connecting Company, which is leased for a long period to the Hoboken Manufacturers Railroad Company. This railroad meets the demand for shipping facilities from one part of the city's waterfront to another part, and its tracks extend from the North German Lloyd piers between 3d and 4th streets, to 15th street extended, and then west four blocks and north three blocks where it connects directly with the Erie Railroad. This river front road also serves the Holland-America, the Wilson and the Scandinavian-American line piers. The Hoboken Land & Improvement Company owns most of the water front of Hoboken, including the piers of the Holland-America line. It may not be generally known, but it is a fact, that the widest and longest pier in New York Harbor is on the Hoboken shore front. The Holland-America pier is 150 feet wide and the north side of the Scandinavian-American line pier is more than 1,000 feet long. The steamship companies own a total of three plots, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company one plot, the American Warehouse & Trading Company one plot (foot of 12th street), the Tietjen & Lang Dry Dock Company one plot (in the cove), while the remainder, excepting the ferry slip, is owned by the Hoboken Land & Improvement Company; and it is some of the most valuable waterfront in the world. The company does not want to sell its waterfront holdings and none has been sold since 1904. The property is leased to the occupants for long terms, the owning company making the necessary improvements; and it is asserted that it gets back the cost of the improvements within twenty years as well as having a good investment.

Meeting Demand for Expansion.

About 75 per cent. of the area of Hoboken is improved; and, the bulk of the vacant land lies in the lowest part of the city. This section was known originally as the meadows and it extends from Branch 1 of the Hoboken Manufacturers Railroad Company, from about Garden street north of 14th street, running west and south to a junction with the Lackawanna Railroad. With the exception of a few scattered buildings, this part of the city is now dormant and it is badly in need of a sewerage and drainage system. Hoboken is bounded on the north and west by the lines of an old creek and none of the city is included in the high hill to the rear of it. The Hoboken Land & Improvement Company has created what might be characterized as a "Small Bush Terminal," on the shore of the cove at Garden and 15th streets, in the form of a 10-story concrete building, 100x200 feet in size; and this building is rented in whole floors, half floors and quarter floors. It is connected not only with water shipping, but with all the railroads touching the North River.

At 14th street, Hoboken, the city has been connected during the past year, by an immense viaduct highway, with the high hill back of it. It is one of the notable municipal improvements.

The greatest drawback to Hoboken at the present time is the lack of a complete sewer system. The present system is complex and in places the sewers have settled three to four feet below their proper position. Most of the sewage empties into the Hudson river at 15th street, 14th street, 11th street, 3d street and Ferry street, while a large amount is emptied into the canal just south of the city line. A number of small independent outfalls discharge into the Hudson River from small areas. Practically

HOBOKEN IS A WELL KEPT, ORDERLY, PROGRESSIVE CITY.

SHALL WE TAX THE UNEARNED INCREMENT?

Professor Johnson Justifies the Work of the Mayor's Commission—Henry Bruere Explains How the German Tax Works—No Occasion, He Thinks, for the New Device.

PROF. JOS. FRENCH JOHNSON, dean of the School of Commerce of the University of New York, thinks that a great deal of unnecessary excitement has arisen over the plan to tax the unearned increment of land, recommended by the Mayor's Commission on New Sources of City Revenue. Professor Johnson is one of the Commission. He thinks that, notwithstanding the furore that the proposed measure has created, especially among real estate men, the commission did the best it could under the circumstances. He thinks also that the tax measure, if adopted, will accomplish its purpose with very much less economic strain than its opponents have predicted; in fact that any disturbance that may result will be temporary and insignificant, compared with the ultimate benefit.

The dean's manner, as he discussed the matter in his quiet office in the University building on Waverly Place yesterday, was one of convincing simplicity. Whatever might be the merits or demerits of the commission's tax scheme, there could be no question of the fact that to Dean Johnson it represented a rational, sincere effort to solve a very difficult problem.

"I would like first to emphasize an important point," said the Dean. "Many criticisms by real estate men of the proposed measure have found fault with the commission for what seems to be considered an application of the Single Tax theory. And what is even more curious, I have received a number of letters from real estate men commending the wisdom of applying the Single Tax method—what they are pleased to term the doctrine of Henry George. For it appears that a man may be engaged in the real estate business and yet be a single taxer.

A Word About the Single Tax.

"Now the doctrine, to put it simply, that the land is the chief source of wealth, rather than its products—such, for instance, as gold and silver—was not original with Henry George. Economists have held this to be so for a long while. Adam Smith recognized it. So did John Stuart Mill. Indeed, the doctrine is two hundred years old, originating with the physiocrats in the 17th century. Henry George merely carried it to its greatest extremes. And let me emphasize the point that I am not a single taxer, and that so far as I know, the other members of the commission are not. At any rate, we did not approach the matter from the single tax point of view at all."

"Is the tax based on the foreign plan of taxing unearned increment—let us say, the German method? What are the essential differences?"

"To some extent, yes," said the Dean. "We considered foreign measures of the same general nature, both the English and German. But we discarded certain features as being unsuitable to our case. I do not at the moment recall all of the details of the German increment tax, but its principal features are that the tax is collected when the property is sold and that it is a graded tax ranging, I think, between ten and thirty per cent. based on the length of time the property has been held by the last owner. We discarded that feature as being too complicated.

"The tax was tried some ten years ago in some of the German municipalities and about three years ago was adopted as a federal tax. Owners at first attempted to evade the law by incorporating, and when amendments made that recourse impossible the attempt was sometimes made to avoid the tax by making wash sales. We have improved upon this feature by basing the tax upon the assessed value."

"You consider the tax, then, eminently just in spite of complaint of already heavy taxes?"

"Let me answer first as to the tax itself.

Landlords As Slot Machines.

"So far as the complaint comes from owners of improved property, it cannot bear very close inspection. There seems to be a remarkable unanimity among owners of improved real estate that they pay all the tax levied against their property. Indeed, that opinion seems to be quite commonly held. I find it even quite difficult to get some of the students here to realize that the tenant pays the taxes. The landlord, of course, pays a proportion of them, but not by any means all. Further than that, the rent question is entirely in the hands of the tenants. The landlords are, in effect, just so many slot machines. The tenants wish to go to a certain neighborhood, to a certain apartment. That is why they go there. And one tenant pushes the $70 slot and another the $80 slot. The landlord does not fix the rent.

Touches Only the Prosperous.

"As regards vacant land, does it not seem reasonable to suppose that a man would rather find himself in the position of being required to pay the tax than not to pay it? Would you not rather pay $100 more in taxes because your land had increased by $10,000 in value, than escape the tax because your land had not increased?

"Finally, is it not plain that the tax will relieve owners of property when values are depreciating—as, for instance, in this vicinity—by shifting the burden to those who are better able to bear it, that is, those whose land is increasing in value?

"And, of course, with regard to the somewhat childish criticism that the framers of the measure seem to have overlooked the necessity for making up to owners, by some sort of rebate, when land decreases in value, the less said about it the better. It has nothing to recommend it but its originality.

"When land ceases to increase, the increment tax ceases automatically.

Other Sources Considered.

"In fairness to the commission I ought to say that we did not come immediately to the point of taxing the unearned increment of real estate. We thought of other things, but had to abandon them. We could not touch incomes, because the federal government will soon do that. The State has already utilized inheritances.

"We considered a tax on business, such for instance as hotels, theatres and so forth; and, personally, I am not sure that that would not be a good thing. But we finally dismissed it on the theory that it might injure business.

"We considered the habitation tax, a tax on rents, graded according to what a man pays to his landlord for residential accommodations. But we thought it inquisitorial, un-American. And so we come perforce to the unearned increment tax. We did to the best of our ability, under the circumstances, what the commission was asked to do."

As to Modern Thought.

"Is that another way of saying that the proposed tax measure is a sort of compromise forced upon the commission by an antiquated and inadequate system of taxation?"

"That is practically so. But the commission as a whole unanimously and without any reservation whatever believes in a tax on the unearned increment."

The questioner was still inquisitive on one point, so he asked:

"Is the preponderance of scientific opinion more in favor of the community benefiting from the unearned increment, than it was a decade ago?"

"I think so."

Henry Bruere Explains the German Tax.

Henry Bruere, director of the Bureau of Municipal Research, was abroad this year, and, among other things which he studied was the German method of taxing the unearned increment on land. In explaining that he takes a fling at the 1 per cent. plan recently proposed. Mr. Bruere, it should be added, speaks for himself, and not as a representative of the Bureau of Municipal Research. He says:

"No one may safely venture an opinion on the efficacy of the new method of taxation until that method is given an adequate trial. The increment tax suggested by the revenue commission accepts a principle now recognized in the tax laws of Germany and England, but modifies the method of its application.

The German Plan.

"In Germany and in England the increment tax is levied once and for all at the time of the transfer of the property. The tax is based on selling values. In the revenue commission proposal, it is a continuing levy on the increase in value of the land as determined by assessment over the assessed value of 1912. The tax is to be based on the assessor's estimate of increased value. So long as the increase in value is maintained, the tax continues. If it disappears, the tax is discontinued.

"The increment tax is a compromise, a modification of present methods of taxation which disregard the increase in value of property due to community growth, except in so far as that increase is included in the assessed valuation of property for the purpose of general taxation. The taxing power under the existing system is not used to check speculation in real estate, to affect the availability of lands now held for speculative purposes, nor to reduce the burdens of the rent payer. Taxation under the existing system is for revenue purposes only and has no corrective purposes. The single tax advocates aim to use the power of taxation not only for revenue purposes, but to protect the users of

BUILDING MANAGEMENT

Conducted by Raymond P. Roberts, Building Manager for the American Real Estate Company.

John C. Knight, manager of the big Metropolitan Life Building, pointed out the other day an interesting tendency in the profession of building management. The universities and technical schools, he said, are sending out annually from their engineering departments more graduates than there is room for in the engineering professions proper. The best that the majority of such graduates can expect in these professions is a position as draughtsman at, say, $15 a week, and the prospect of advancement is anything but encouraging. A knowledge of engineering, particularly of structural engineering, makes a good educational foundation for the business of building management. This profession is consequently attracting young engineering graduates, especially in Western cities. It offers important administrative positions at good salaries, both as heads of technical departments in big real estate offices and as responsible managers of individual skyscrapers, the property, frequently, of wealthy corporations. In view of the growing demand for building managers of technical training, at least two educational institutions have under consideration plans for establishing building management classes in connection with their engineering courses. Mr. Knight happens to know about these institutions because interested members of their faculties have sought his advice. And, by the way, the Record and Guide has just been on a similar errand to Mr. Knight, for he is quite the right person to go to for broad-gauge professional ideas on building management. In two or three weeks it is hoped to make an interesting announcement in this column as a result of our little journey to the Metropolitan Life Building.

Joseph H. Booth, the author of the very suggestive leading article appearing on this page, may not be as widely known among our readers as are the real estate men who have contributed the earlier articles. A word of introduction may therefore be appropriate here, although it would not be needed in any publication, local or national, devoted to the plumbing trade. Mr. Booth, who is in business at 516 Columbus avenue, is a lecturer in the Twenty-third street Y. M. C. A., and was for years an instructor in a technical school.

The fact may not be generally known, at least the present writer didn't know it until this week, that one of the great lending institutions employs outside specialists to inspect all the construction work on buildings on which it makes building loans. The idea is to make sure through specialists of recognized authority that, in the first place, the plans and specifications of a building on which a loan is made are what they should be and that, in the second place, they are strictly adhered to. The institution, in short, guards itself against the perfunctory, or worse, inspections of public officials and eliminates such temptations as would arise if a salaried employee of its own were entrusted with the supervision of a great number of structural operations. Of course, the cost of the inspections falls upon borrowers, but this cost is small in proportion to the benefit received. The fact that specialists of independent standing and authority have acted as inspectors for the lending institution serves as a guarantee of sound construction to prospective buyers. That inspections of the kind in question are worth something as a guarantee is evident. In one instance, the sum of $20,000 had to be spent to make good a departure from plumbing specifications passed by the Building Department. The main purpose of the lending institution is to see that it has no loans on buildings that are not first class in the matter of both fire protection and sanitation, recognizing that the tendency of the Legislature and the city departments is to exact costly structural improvements in buildings that modern public sentiment regards as unsafe. If the owner is called upon unexpectedly to lay out a heavy sum for alterations, his ability to pay interest on his mortgage is affected. To be safe, therefore, the lending institution, whose building loan is, according to present custom, changed into a "permanent" loan on the completion of the building, insists upon standards of construction that are really in advance of the requirements of the existing building laws. The motive may be purely commercial, but it works to the advantage both of the real estate market and of the community as a whole.

CORRECTING HOT WATER TROUBLES

Lukewarm Discharge at Fixtures is Often Caused by Return Pipes of Insufficient Capacity—Clogging Through Chemical Effects of High Water Pressure.

By JOSEPH H. BOOTH.

AN instantaneous supply of hot water is no longer deemed a luxury, but is a daily necessity. The old segregated manner of living is passing away. Communities of tenants, frequently equal in number to a good sized village, now live under one roof. Their demands for service furnish a problem which must be studied scientifically by physicist, engineer and experienced mechanic.

Disputes between landlords and tenants over the hot water supply have been decided in the courts on broad grounds. The judiciary has refused to make hair-splitting decisions. It has sided with tenants in that they have a right to a good supply of hot water, but it has likewise sided with landlords where it has been proved that they have done everything in their power to better existing conditions. Since there is something to be said on both sides, the question cannot be treated lightly, and causes, effects and remedies must be looked into carefully.

Poor Delivery.

The source of trouble, especially in the newer buildings, can in many an instance be traced to a "robbing Peter to pay Paul" process. The architect and engineer in drawing up the plans make every provision for a plant which will meet all contingencies. Instead of allowing these plans, as originally drafted, to be carried out, it often happens that the contractor and owner "get together" to make a "saving" in cost. The contractor will suggest that by "duplicating" a plant which is giving satisfaction in such and such a building, a great saving will be made; and the suggestion is accepted without considering whether the conditions under which the plant will have to work in the new building are the same as in the old. The architect and engineer are instructed to modify the specifications, in order that the contractor may install his "equally as good" plant. After the work is finished and the apartments are leased, the plant fails to meet demands. This often necessitates the substitution of a new plant.

A common source of complaint is the poor delivery of hot water to fixtures. Tenants find water discharging at a temperature as low as 60° F., and are compelled to waste ten to thirty gallons before warmer water is supplied. This may be accounted for by the fact that the water cannot be returned naturally to the heater and circulation kept alive.

This is frequently caused by the practice of cross-connecting several hot-water risers under cold roofs to a small return pipe of about one-tenth the sum of the areas of the risers. It is a physical impossibility for this return properly to perform its functions; so the water practically becomes "dead." Often pipes are not braced and sag like clotheslines. Then again they are not covered and the water looses all its heat before returning to the heater. One common bad practice is the bushing down of the sizes of tappings in heater, storage tank and fittings, which creates friction and retards the whole plant's efficiency. The natural expansion of pipes is, likewise, in many cases unconsidered, and breaks inevitably result. If a long stretch of pipe is run, a loop or some allowance in the fittings must be made.

Too High for the Heaters.

The ever-increasing altitude of buildings has brought about conditions that a great many heaters, perfectly capable a few years ago, cannot stand. This applies especially to cast-iron heaters. The water is generally supplied in such buildings from the roofs, and when it reaches the heaters, has acquired great pressure. Coupled to this, is the added tension which the heaters must stand from the sudden change in temperature. The water coming to the heaters cold is immediately passed over the fireboxes, which are very hot, a neutralization takes place with such suddenness that the cast iron cannot withstand cracking and explosions occur. The manufacturers no longer guarantee these heaters to withstand the excessive force and pressure, but still claim their usefulness. A heater must be used, in each such instance, which can bear this tension and carry a working pressure up to one hundred and twenty-five pounds. Many times a system is clogged and does not leave a free passage of water. The hydrostatic pressure necessary makes a condition in which water will not boil at its ordinary temperature. The high temperature of the boiling point forces out lime and magnesium salts, which salts get into the circulating arms and couplings of the heater and clog up the system, retarding circulation throughout the plant. Constant attention must, therefore, be given to cleanliness.

Calling in the Doctor.

The effect of the foregoing hot water trouble has been to make the lot of the manager an unhappy one. Tenants pour troubles into his ears, the source of which is lack of hot water. In desperation, he calls in Dr. "Butt," the plumber, who opens the mouth of the firebox and sees evidence of a state of indigestion on the part of the heater. He sees congestion of the ashpit and stoppage of the alimentary canal, and proceeds to start a reaction by light osteopathic treatment. His overworked subject improves little under the light treatment, and, although the appetite for coal is good, there seems to be a poor assimilation. Dr. "Butt" proceeds to purge the whole system of what he felt deep in his heart was only a little rust. The subject by this time is pretty weak, being suddenly called upon to do its former work; it is not up to the strain, and cracks a rib.

Then "specialists" are called in, who proceed to condemn the whole plant, each recommending his individual specialty, usually a mechanical device.

What was originally a simple hydrostatic problem has now become a complex one in hydraulics. The remedy is to call in a plumber of modern education and training who not only understands the mechanics of plumbing but the theory and physics as well. Such a man studies the plant and the conditions under which it must work. A good heater of ample capacity is installed and the flue put in condition. He considers the natural tendency of water to circulate. He so arranges the plant that this tendency will be allowed full sway. Sometimes the adjustment or addition of loops or connections will do the work.

As an instance of what the application of physics will do, I may cite a case where there was very little hot water supply because the original plant was improperly constructed and where two additions have been made to it. The heaters would not do their work. Supposed experts had condemned the whole plant. Their remedy was worse than the disease. They suggested such drastic changes that the tenants rebelled and the owners were in desperation, for it meant the disruption of the entire system. I remedied the trouble by simply changing a few connections, thereby accelerating the circulation of the "dead" water. The plant is now giving full satisfaction to everyone concerned.

New Trus-con Catalog.

Architects and building managers may now obtain the second edition of the "Trus-con" products catalog, describing water-proofing, damp-proofing and packing paints manufactured by the Trus-con laboratories at Detroit, Mich. This catalog, handsomely illustrated, contains some information regarding water-proofing of steel and concrete that should have a place in all architects' reference libraries. Copies may be obtained by addressing the company at Detroit.

NEW THINGS

An Elevator Door Lock.

An elevator door locking device which is applicable to any sliding door, and which has the added distinction of locking in the jamb, is being introduced by the Reliance Elevator Door Hanger

Company, of 1 Madison avenue. All the working parts are stopped by rubber cushions, and all fittings are of composition bronze on steel plates. The lock can be furnished to operate from both the inside of the elevator shaft and the outside, by key.

Some New Electrical Devices.

The Western Electric Company, of 463 West Street, gives in its Bulletin of Progress for 1913 a full report of the new things it has introduced, and which are now being put upon the market. Included in the list are the following devices pertaining to building equipment:

Intercommunicating telephones having a new type of desk set for private line and for outlying station use in master and intercommunicating systems. It is a self-contained instrument having a push button in the stem for signaling other stations and a buzzer in the base.

A switchboard apparatus, known as sectional unit types No. 1800, with magneto, and No. 1801, with central battery lamp signal boards, for small magneto offices and private exchanges.

New standard types of convertible switch boards. No. 1246 is a non-multiple using combined jacks and signals. No. 1013 is a plain combination of jack and signal board and the No. 1040 uses lamp signals. The new feature in regard to these switchboards is that all can be used for either magneto or central battery service, or both, without changing any of the apparatus. This permits small users to change from magneto to central battery gradually at a minimum of expense.

Included in the switchboard improvements for the 1913 market is the No. 194 "line and cut-off" relay for subscriber line use. It is smaller and more compact than the old standards and has the same efficiency. It is also notable for the accessibility of the contact springs, its positive action and the fact that there are no knife-edge or gravity-operated contacts.

The loud speaking telephone has been developed for use in conveying orders or inquiries in noisy rooms from department offices. These loud-speaking telephones are adapted for use in paging in hotels, railroad stations and amusement parks. They are also adaptable for annunciator work of all kinds.

Automobile telephones permitting easy communication in limousine automobiles between passengers and chauffeurs have been improved.

A new type of telephone arm known as No. 1046 is especially designed for use in offices. It is a self-contained arm having a desk stand body with transmitter and receiver at the upper end. It is so arranged that in whatever position the arm may be the desk stand portion is always vertical. The other type, No. 1048, is of the lazy tone principle. It is also self-contained. Both types may be arranged for mounting on a roll top or flat top desk or on walls. A telephone bracket, known as No. 1047, and similar to the 1048 arm, but arranged to take a desk stand of standard design, has also been placed upon the market. A double arm of the No. 147 type, known as No. 247, has been designed for use where there are both independent and Bell service or where there is more than one telephone system in use in offices or buildings.

In power apparatus, improvements have been perfected and have been concentrated largely in the new Western Electric-Sturtevant vacuum cleaners. The 1913 models are made in three durable and three stationary types of different sizes. They are electrically operated. The cleaners of the large volume, high velocity type use a centrifugal fan and are a great improvement over the low volume, high vacuum types.

A New Refuse Destructor.

The entrance into any business field of a new enterprise or a novel piece of apparatus for performing any specified work is always of interest. The remarkable progress made in sanitary engineering education has developed a demand for improved methods of handling and disposing of worthless refuse, and of the economic utilization of such parts f this waste as may be available for sale or for other purposes. The Griscom-Russell Company, of 90 West street, has an improved refuse destructor, in the form of a high temperature furnace for the disposal of all municipal refuse and industrial waste which is said to have exceptional merit.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Testing for Crown Sheet Blisters.

What is a good method of testing for crown sheet blisters?

Answer.—Blistering is a defect in wrought iron plates which is developed when the plates are exposed to a too intense heat. The plate, instead of being solid, becomes laminated in spots; that is, the layers of iron develop impurities between them through the formation of latent pyrites. These impurities are poor conductors of heat. The hammer test is the best method of finding them.

Pumping Hot Water.

Can you inform me why it is a pump will not lift hot water?

Answer.—Pumps are now manufactured which lift hot water. The reason the average pump refuses to raise heated water is because condensation of steam destroys the absolute vacuum, and it is difficult to keep packing properly lubricated in hot water. If you obtain suitable heads and use heavy packing and heavy lubricant with automatic feed cup, you will find hot water can be raised.

Steam Turbine Efficiency.

Can you advise me whether the steam turbine direct-connected generating set is considered as economical for isolated plant work as the simple high speed engine sets?

Answer.—The steam turbine is more economical, as it does not take more than one-half as much floor space, has very few parts to wear out, and requires very little attention after starting. It is considered better than the simple high speed engine, especially in large units.

The Albany correspondents are beginning to show a keen appreciation of the humor in the rapid transit situation. The humor, in fact, is broad enough; but the cost may come pretty high.

The contribution by Henry Bruere to the discussion of the unearned increment tax, which appears on another page, is of special value because it gives authentic information concerning the workings of the German tax as a corrective social measure. We commend it to the special attention of those who favor the tax primarily as an instrument of reform.

The chairman of the dinner committee of the Real Estate Board of Brokers, Elisha Sniffin, announces as speakers at the banquet to be held at the Waldorf-Astoria on Saturday evening, February 1, George McAneny, William R. Willcox and William McAndrew. Reservations for over seven hundred seats have been asked for. The committee promises a fine dinner, and we have no hesitation in forecasting a very jolly evening.

The Minnesota State Art Society, of which Mr. Maurice I. Flagg is Director, has formulated a novel and interesting plan to improve the architecture of the farm houses of Minnesota, according to "Art and Progress." A competition will be instituted by the society among all Minnesota architects for designs for a farm house to cost $3,500, which shall combine utility with beauty. Five hundred dollars will be given in cash prizes besides which there will be a medal and at least one diploma. The prize winning plans are to be the property of the State Art Society, and will be placed at the service of the farm house builders.

Peril to Real Estate in the Rapid Transit Crisis.

During the past week the danger to the Dual Subway system, which the Record and Guide was first to point out, has become acute. Its enemies have thrown their cards on the table and have indicated plainly their line of attack. After having been out-voted and out-argued in New York City, they have carried their case to Albany. Taking advantage of the election of a new Democratic Governor, who is closely associated politically with Mr. Hearst, they are trying to obtain from Mr. Sulzer the appointment of a chairman of the Public Service Commission who will undo the work of the past seven years. There are two members of the present commission who are hostile to the proposed contracts and the addition of a third would turn the control of the commission over to the enemies of the Dual System.

At the present writing no unequivocal proof has been published that they will be successful. Governor Sulzer has not committed himself one way or the other. There is some evidence that he would like to place himself on record in opposition to the contracts without actually making himself responsible for their rejection. If this should be his state of mind, the friends of the Dual System ought to be able to make a strong political argument in favor of the adoption by Mr. Sulzer of a non-committal position. The Governor should be made to realize clearly the situation in which he would be placed in case he fills Mr. Willcox's place with an avowed enemy of the Dual System. He would upset the settlement of one of the most difficult and complicated problems in the world, which has been reached only after the most disheartening and costly delays.

The interests, convenience and health of many thousands of people in every borough of Greater New York hang upon the building of the Dual System. All these people will be angry and resentful in case the settlement is upset. On the other hand, there is no practicable alternative plan in sight. If the opponents of the Dual System do succeed in defeating it, they have no substitute which would be anything like as popular and useful. The additional mileage that the city itself could afford to build would be small compared to the new mileage offered by the Dual System, and the additional routes would derive no benefit from connections with existing rapid transit lines. The inevitable result would be a long delay, and the ultimate substitution of an alternative plan which would be far less popular and would benefit much fewer people. Any public official who made himself responsible for such a result would suffer severely in the face of public opinion. The thousands of voters who were injured would have long memories and would not hesitate to make their displeasure felt.

When one considers the inevitable consequences of the defeat of the Dual System, it is incredible that any responsible public servant can make himself responsible for incurring them. The Record and Guide hardly dares to predict what the result would be of a failure to sign up the contracts within the next few weeks. In every direction the health and comfort of the inhabitants of New York are imperilled by the lack of adequate means of communication. Every additional month of delay costs the city an incalculable amount in loss of human energy and in commercial efficiency. Finally, the one thing that is keeping up real estate values is the benefits which are expected to follow from the completion of the new system. Its defeat would demoralize the real estate market, and would cause widespread loss and disaster. Real estate owners are depending on the Dual System to bring back to them some of the prosperity of which they have been deprived by recent increases in taxation.

The friends of the Dual System should fight tooth and nail on its behalf. If it is possible to have the contracts ready for signature before the expiration of Mr. Willcox's term, they certainly should be made ready. There is not the slightest need or reason for any delay which is not required by the legal technicalities. The whole matter has been discussed ad nauseam and all the details have received the most patient and prolonged consideration. Indeed, the city's officials have by their insistent attempts to save to the city a few hundred thousand dollars delayed the consummation of the bargain, and by their delay have cost the city many times the amount of the saving. If it had not been for such needless delays, the existing crisis would have been avoided. They have every justification at present to close the bargain before February 1, and it is sincerely to be hoped that they will get together and do so.

But in the meantime the property owners of New York should not be idle. They should make the Governor understand how serious the consequences would be of the defeat of the Dual System. They should hold local meetings all over the city and address remonstrances to him. If necessary, a general mass meeting should be held for the same purpose. They should address letters to him personally and send delegations to see him. He should not be allowed to make the mistake of replacing Mr. Willcox by an enemy of the Dual System without clearly understanding what the consequences will be both to himself and to the City of New York.

The Future of Fourteenth Street.

During the past week Mr. George A. Hearn published in the daily papers a plea for the old retail district between 14th and 23d streets, Sixth avenue and Broadway. In his statement he gives many apparently good reasons to prove that this district should be as available as ever for retail trade. He points out that over 2,000,000 people live in New York and in New Jersey south of the line of 14th street. He shows that the new subway system will connect this population more efficiently than ever before with the old retail district, and his conclusion evidently is that the recent exodus from this district is unreasonable.

There is much truth in what Mr. Hearn says. If those retail shops which remain in the old district can hold out until the new subway system is in operation, their existing locations may prove to be as desirable as ever. But it must be remembered also that no conceivable change in conditions will enable the old retail district to recover the ground which it has lost. Fifteen years ago there was concentrated in the small district bounded by 14th and 23d streets, Sixth avenue and Broadway a very large proportion of the better and bigger retail stores in New York. A few of them had strayed off up Broadway and Fifth avenue, but not many. Since then this district has lost almost all of the more expensive special shops, of which Tiffany & Co. is the best type. It has lost also the better class of drygood stores, of which the best examples are Altman's and Stern's. It has even lost one large department store, viz: R. H. Macy & Co.

None of these will ever be regained. The retail district needed more room. The patrons of the better class of the retail stores did not like the increasing proximity of the wholesale trade. It was natural that this class of trade should seek a district of its own in and around Fifth avenue. The old retail district is bound to lose the few high-grade shops which still remain within its limits. None of the changes recommended by Mr. Hearn can affect this result and no action by the city in the past could have kept stores like Altman's in their old location. The only question is, will the district bounded by 14th and 23d streets, Broadway and Sixth avenue keep the cheaper class of trade which still remains to it?

This question cannot be answered with any confidence. On the whole, it seems probable that if the new subway system is completed according to schedule the old district will hold its own. No other stores competing with R. H. Macy & Co. has as yet followed its example, but the possibilities should be faced that eventually some such change may take place. The tendency towards concentration in a city like New York is very powerful. The degree of concentration in the retail trade which existed fifteen or twenty years ago will not be repeated, but it is possible that economic causes may bring about more concentration than that which now exists. If the stores now located on Sixth avenue betwen 14th and 23d streets and on 14th street were all moved to Sixth and Seventh avenues, between 23d and 40th street, they would certainly transact a larger gross business than they do at present. A shopper would find it more convenient to go from one store to another and would be more likely to have his needs completely satisfied. Just how powerful this tendency will be remains to be seen, but if during the current year some of the firms now situated south of 23d street do not move the Record and Guide will be very much surprised. Their difficulty is to find an available location which is not too expensive. Probably sites on Seventh avenue not too far from 34th street would meet their needs most completely, particularly in view of the rapid development of the mail-order business with New York as its centre. This class of business finds it convenient to be near the new uptown post-office and in a location in which the street traffic is not congested. The district immediately west of Seventh avenue suits its purpose admirably, and a considerable development of this class of trade in the neighborhood mentioned may be expected. Montgomery Ward & Co. the large mail order house of Chicago is to open a branch in New York, and its selection of a location will constitute a very interesting indication of prevailing tendencies.

—The Jersey Central has no tunnel facilities in New York City, but the speed of its trains and the excellent service rendered gives patrons of its lines transportation quicker than other roads with tunnels give. The Central Railroad is equipping its express trains with new "800" type of locomotives capable of maintaining a speed of 75 miles an hour.

—The members of the Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers will hold their seventh annual dinner at the house of the Brooklyn Club this Saturday evening. Next Saturday evening the New York brokers will dine at the Waldorf Astoria.

—More than 700,000 persons are employed in the factories of New York City, and more than one-half of the clothing for both men and women worn in this country is manufactured here.

THE INCREMENT TAX.

land from unjust imposition by the owners of the land. The single tax recognizes the use of land as a necessary element in every human enterprise, and aims through the power of taxation to prevent excessive charges for this use.

"The increment tax as worked out in England and Germany and now proposed for New York City, adopts the single tax theory merely for the purpose of increasing public revenue. It justifies an additional tax on certain real estate on the theory that the value of that real estate has been increased through community growth. It seems to me an illogical tax because it does not have the courage of its convictions. If the increase in value is due to community growth, the whole increase should be appropriated for community purposes. If the increase is due in part as real estate operators will claim to 'farsightedness in investment,' to 'frugality,' to 'prudence' and to other qualities which have enriched many traders in real estate and impoverished others, then the increment tax penalizes enterprise and unjustly discriminates against the man who makes his investment in real estate after 1912, the year taken as the basis for determining the valuations upon which the increment is to be figured.

Method of Assessing.

"For the purpose of comparison it may be worth while to review the increment tax as now established under the German Imperial law. A tax of varying amounts depending upon specific conditions is levied on the increase in the value of the property, as determined by the selling price, compared with the price at the last transfer. Preceding sales as far back as 1885 are taken into consideration. For transactions prior to that time, 1885, values are assumed. All charges for improvements made during the time of holding are deducted from the total sales price, and the difference between the actual purchase price and the actual sales price, minus the cost of the improvements, is the basis on which the increment tax is levied. No tax is levied in the case of inheritance or transfer as a gift. Generally if the sales price does not exceed 20,000 marks ($3,000) for improved property, or 5,000 marks ($1,250) for unimproved property, no tax on the unearned increment is levied. This is to exempt small holdings of a non-speculative character. But even these holdings are taxed if the income of the person selling the property exceeds 2,000 marks annually, or if dealing in real estate is a regular part of his business.

"The tax amounts to from 10 per cent. to 30 per cent. of the increased value, depending upon the ratio of the increase over the purchase price. Thus, 10 per cent. of the increase is taxed if the increase over the purchase price does not exceed 10 per cent. and 30 per cent. is levied if the increase equals 290 per cent. The tax decreases 1 per cent. for every year the property was held by the transferrer, the idea being that the longer the tenure the less likelihood that the investment was of a speculative character. Of the total tax the Empire receives 50 per cent., the State in which the property is located 10 per cent. and 40 per cent. to the city. Cities may themselves add an additional tax on the increment, but the special municipal tax may not exceed 100 per cent. of the amount received by the city from the Imperial levy, and in no case may both Imperial and municipal tax exceed 30 per cent. of the total increase in value.

"How this tax operates from a revenue standpoint is indicated by the following table showing the return per capita and the percentage of the total tax receipts derived in 1910 from the increment tax in nine German cities:

City.	Per capita. Mks.	Per capita. Mks.	% of total. Tax receipt.
Berlin	1,000,000	.49	1.1%
Frankfurt	600,000	1.59	2.5
Schonberg	500,000	3.02	6.9
Essen	250,000	0.94	2.4%
Breslau	250,000	0.48	1.3
Wilmersdorf	200,000	2.01	3.5
Coln	194,400	.36	.9
Wiesbaden	180,000	1.67	3.3
Hanover	150,000	0.51	1.6%

An Adverse Criticism.

"Last summer Dr. Albert Sudekum of the Reichstag, who participated in the drafting of the increment tax law in Germany, stated to me that the operation of the law had proved unsatisfactory. In the first place, the increment derived from it is uncertain because no one can foresee what sales are to be made. This defect is overcome by the New York plan. In the second place, he claims the law has failed to operate advantageously as a social measure for correcting the evil of land speculation. He states that in urban transfers the tax is shifted to the transferee and in rural transfers it is met by the transferrer. It does not reduce the value of property, and therefore it does not make the rental burden easier upon the backs of the poor.

"The English law is similar to the German law, except that there is a flat rate of 20 per cent. on all increments of land values revealed by sales, as compared with 1909 valuation. I have no first hand information as to how the law is operating in England.

Does Not Make for Social Reform.

"My view of the New York proposal is that it will not probably materially disturb real estate values and will probably produce a considerable revenue. There does not seem to me to be any occasion for increasing revenues through this device. The city is still far away from the constitutional limitation of taxation on the present basis. If there are evils in connection with the investment in real property in New York City, if there are disadvantages resulting from land speculation, measures should be taken to check these evils and to permit the community to participate in the growth of land values to the extent that this growth is to be credited not to personal enterprise but to the community itself. Unless the increment tax proposed will decrease illegitimate land speculation, unless it will reduce the charge for the use of land to the renter, and particularly to the small business man and the tenement house dweller, this particular measure does not seem to me to have any greater significance than any other proposal for taking money out f private pockets and putting it into the public treasury. As a revenue measure it may be entirely legitimate. As a measure of social reform it seems neither fish, fowl nor good red herring."

JERSEY CITY—HOBOKEN.

all the existing sewers are on the combined plan, that is they receive both the surface water from the streets and the sewage from buildings and factories. The low level of the city has made its present sewerage system a difficult problem. There are practically now five separate systems called one. To remedy this matter the city administration realizes its bounden duty; and it has called in James H. Fuertes who is prominent as a consulting engineer and who had much to do with laying out a sewer system in Brooklyn. His plan, which yet awaits acceptance, is a system of combined sewers to receive both the sewage and storm water of the unsewered part of the city; the rebuilding of several of the existing sewers; the reduction of the area tributary to certain of the existing sewers by diverting some of the sewage therefrom to the new sewers; the extension of the outfalls, for the dry weather flow of sewage, to the pierhead line; the provision of arrangements for properly flushing the sewers, the establishment of grit chamber and automatically cleaned screens at the outfalls; the diversion of the sewage from the canal and from slips and docks along the river front. The estimated cost of establishing this new sewer system would be $76,840,000 and the annual cost of maintenance and operation about $4,300, exclusive of interest and sinking fund charges, or about $38.15 0annually, including these items at 4½ per cent. and ½ per cent. annually.

The finest residential part of Hoboken is in the Castle Point Terrace section, adjacent to the college, where there are many costly homes which are remindful of the west side of Manhattan. The greater part of the tenement section of Hoboken is west of Garden street or the west half of the city. Running the length of the city is Washington street, which is a wide business thoroughfare penetrated by trolley cars. Hoboken recently remodeled its City Hall; and the city is noted for its clean streets. It has its municipal problems and difficulties which some attempted to remedy at the last session of the Legislature, but Governor Wilson disapproved the plan proposed and said that he favored the commission form of government for Hoboken. It may get it.

Conditions in Jersey City.

Jersey City is witnessing rapid changes consequent on the McAdoo Tunnel penetrating the city, it having stations at Exchange place, Henderson street, Grove street and Summit avenue; and it is within easy reach of Newark by fast electric trains. These stations have tended to cause an extensive upbuilding of the Bergen section which embraces Jersey City Heights. Numerous fine apartment houses have been built, more are in course of construction and even two fine apartment hotels have been erected in this part of Jersey City. Hundreds of persons who formerly resided in Manhattan are now domiciled here, where apartment house rents are lower. Good houses are renting at $50 a month and upward. One apartment house is now in course of construction that will accommodate 60 families.

As a result of the movement of population to the Bergen section new business centers are being established in Jersey City. In the past Montgomery street and Newark avenue were the busy retail trade streets; but now Jackson avenue and Central avenue are becoming shopping thoroughfares. Merchants claim, too, that the easy accessibility to Manhattan by way of the tunnel has made it very convenient for residents of Jersey City to go to Manhattan and shop in the large stores there; and most of these stores have delivery routes in Jersey City. Jackson avenue runs from Hoboken to Bergen Point and a trolley road is operated along its length.

In the west section of Jersey City is a new county park which was acquired and laid out by Hudson county. This breathing spot embraces 207 acres and cost $689,664.13. It was formerly known as the Jersey City Baseball Grounds. It is connected with a grand boulevard that runs through Jersey City. The park fronts on the Hackensack river. The water supply of the city comes from Boonton, N. J., 30 miles away.

Although property values in Montgomery street and in Newark avenue have been impaired by the movement in the Bergen section of Jersey City there are hopes that a restoration of the old time activity will take place in those thoroughfares. In the vicinity notable improvements are taking place. The government is building a costly granite and steel Post Office building on the east side of Washington street, from York to Montgomery street, and a new County Court House has been built on Newark avenue at City Hall place. There are many banks, trust companies and well filled office buildings downtown yet and these, together with the new Post Office tend to save "the face of things." Jersey City is gridironed with trolley roads that lead to and from it in all directions; and these connections necessarily make it a center to be reckoned with. The trolley companies reduced the running time and the service to the foot of Montgomery street, or the Jersey City ferry; but petitions resulted in their running every third car to the ferry near which is a tunnel station to downtown and uptown Manhattan.

BUILDING MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

Coal in Better Condition—Completed Lumber Inventories Show Stocks Lower at Mill Than Was Expected—Stronger Tone in Building Metals—Managers Find General Stiffening Tendency in Building Supply Market—Rubber Prices Advance—Steel Sheets in Higher Trend—The Annual Gnybco Meeting.

THE building material market this week was featured by an attempt to boost the prices of black and galvanized sheets, making the quotation $2.90 per 100 pounds for No. 29 black and $4.15 for 100 pounds for the same size galvanized sheets.

New business in structural steel has been larger, proportionately, than for several other kinds of steel products. Not only have building operations been very heavy all over the country for a number of months, but there has been such a demand for this kind of steel that many orders are coming out now that had been withheld because of the inability to get deliveries within a reasonable time. Another factor has been the mild winter in nearly the whole country which has enabled construction work to proceed, and some orders have been placed at this time that otherwise would have been credited to spring or summer business.

Very little new business has been booked in wire and wire products, but an improvement is looked for within a few weeks.

In the coal market, heavier orders are being placed by suburban factories and mills for bituminous grades during the present shortage in anthracite. This is having an effect of keeping anthracite prices steady, and it is believed that the stress in this department is rapidly being overcome.

Lumber mills have been taking inventories and have found that their mill stocks are much lower than they had figured, owing to the mild winter weather conditions, which have permitted such a large volume of construction work to proceed.

In the common brick department the mild weather has permitted navigation to continue up the Hudson River later than at any period since 1810, and it is very evident that, were it not for the shortage of steel in the market at the present time, heavy brick consumption would have seriously depleted available stocks long before this.

The prices of general building supplies showed a decided upward tendency this week. In the paint market, however, there was a slight difference because of the fact that linseed oil and lead are running at a low price level.

At the annual meeting of the Greater New York Brick Company, held this week, the present officers were reelected as follows: John B. Rose, President; A. E. Aldridge, Vice-President; Robert Main, Treasurer, and Frank De Noyelles, Secretary. I. J. Rose was elected to membership on the Board of Directors to succeed his father, the late Alonzo Rose and Edwin Brockway was elected a member of the executive committee to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late director. Reports showed that there was a reserve shed supply of North River brick amounting to 304,000,000 on Jan. 1, as against 289,000,000 at a corresponding period in 1912.

LIGHT DEMAND FOR BRICK.
Fronts in a Stronger Tone as Mild Weather Conditions Continue.

BRICK is in light demand in this market. In New Jersey the call for common brick is much stronger in proportion to the market than it is here. Front brick is reporting an unusual winter movement, but prices have remained fairly steady. The steel situation is still having a retarding effect upon sales at the wholesale market as shown by the fact that only 24 barge loads were sold last week.

Official transactions for North River brick transactions for last week with records covering corresponding week last year follow:

WIRE ROPE IN HEAVY DEMAND.
Quotations with Discounts on Elevator Specifications.

WIRE rope prices are running without change in spite of the recent advance announced by the American Steel & Wire Company. The demand is exceptional for elevator requirements owing to more vigorous inspection of elevators in this city and vicinity by casualty and other companies. A discount to the larger trade is 42½ and 5 per cent. from list, for galvanized and 50 and 5 per cent. for bright. Prices follow:

BUILDING SUPPLIES FIRM.
Managers Find General Stiffening Tendency in Most Lines.

PRICES of general building supplies while steady on quotation are nevertheless showing a stiffening tendency, especially in engine room requirements. Bismuth is quoted in this market by jobbers for small lots at $2.25 per pound; brass sheets, 18½c.; brass rods, 18¼c., and half guaranteed solder, 32c.; zinc sheets, 10¼c.; manganese bronze rods, 18¾c.; manganese bronze in crucible form, 16¾c. The following quotations are current on iron pipe sizes of brass tubes:

Linseed oil is quoted by jobbers at 47 and 48 cents for American seed city, raw; 48 and 49 cents for city, boiled, American seed, and 70 cents for raw Calcutta seed.

In the paint market there has been no change in prices, although the tendency as shown by the foregoing linseed oil prices is still upward.

The year has started out well, with paint requirements as shown by orders filed by the general trade; and in view of the fact that this is the eve of the busy season in the paint and varnish business, it is expected that new price levels wherever decided upon will be fully maintained. Quotations for paint ingredients now current in New York seem to indicate that prices will not run, however, to excessive limits. These quotations follow: White lead in oil in 100, 250 and 500-lb. kegs is 7¼ to 7½c. per lb.; in 25, and 50-lb. kegs, 7¾c. per lb. Red lead and litharge, in 100 lb. kegs, 6¼c. to 7¼c. per lb.

Colors in oil are quoted at the following prices per lb.: Lamp black, 12 to 14c.; Chinese blue, 36 to 46c.; Prussian blue, 32 to 36c.; Van Dyke brown, 11 to 14c.; Chrome green, 12 to 16c.; Raw and Burnt Umber, 11 to 14c.

RUBBER PRICES ADVANCE.
This May Affect Prices of Fire and Other Hose and Some Building Supplies.

RUBBER showed a higher price this week as the result of recent general stiffening in this department. The fact that trading was not especially active leads to the impression that the supply is somewhat curtailed. It was reported on Wednesday that the advance in price was made to induce manufacturers of hose, mats, packing and automobile tires to come into the market instead of holding off for a drop, which for some reason, had been predicted as a result of alleged surfeiting of supplies at mills and general withdrawal of orders. The advance is expected to be permanent.

Some reason for this rumor may be found in the fact that statistics of rubber importation during 1912, in the opinion of one prominent dealer, showed greater activity on the part of the manufacturers of rubber products than ever before, so far as the buying of the crude material was concerned. Whether the several thousand extra tons taken in the course of 1912 were put to work, or whether they are what might be called an "invisible supply" and, therefore, detrimental to the present activity of the market is the source of no little speculation.

COAL IN BETTER CONDITION.
More Bituminous Being Used in District Than Heretofore.

F. E. SAWARD, editor of the Coal Trade Journal, gives consumers an encouraging survey of the market. The fact that bituminous coal has made up in part for the scarcity in anthracite coal has led suburban manufacturers and some railroads to use soft coal where boiler conditions permit, and this practice, in consequence, has created a less divided demand here in the New York market. In his review Mr. Saward says:

"While the year 1911 disappointed those who expected it to keep up the record-breaking habit of the American coal trade and fell slightly behind the figures for 1910, the year 1912 saw so great a tonnage produced that it not only establishes definitely a new trade record for itself, but, as one might say, has something to spare for the deficiencies of 1911. All this has been achieved despite a serious interruption of the operation of the anthracite mines, and more or less unsettlement of bituminous matters in the spring, pending settlements in one district and another, following the general settlement arrived at in Cleveland at the opening of the spring season.

"The bituminous output has made up for any shortcomings in the anthracite tonnage, and the large production thereof has been achieved naturally enough in view of the increase in manufacturing and railroad traffic and in foreign trade, as well as in the multiplication of usage for various public utilities such as gas and electric companies, which are using a constantly increasing tonnage of coal. Demand having been brisk in all directions, once it was well established that the political campaign was not to be the unsettling factor that it has been in some presidential years, it followed as a matter of course that the output of bituminous coal amounted high above 460,000,000 tons, and with anthracite showing a total production of more than 80,000,000 net tons, it seems safe to set down a total of 540,000,000 net tons and more as the year's output, overtopping by fully 40,000,000 tons the high mark established in 1910."

LUMBER INVENTORIES COMPLETE.
Results Show Stocks Are Lower at Mill Than Was Expected.

WITH the completion of inventories at the lumber mills, marked surprises have resulted among the trade centering around New York. In the hardwood departments stocks are particularly low. The greater stress is laid on plain oak, but other woods are reporting considerable demand. Large consumers of hardwoods are evidently following out the plan of steady purchases, which indicates that some mills have contracted far in advance on volume. Not in many years has the outlook been so promising in respect to this department as now.

REAL ESTATE NEWS OF THE WEEK

Fifth Avenue Parcel Sold to a Shoe Firm—Smith Baptist Church Sells to a Greek Congregation.

Beside the sale of a Fifth avenue holding, this week, to a firm of shoe dealers who are following the uptown movement of fine retail trade, there were several important sales in the West Side and a good corner sale on Washington Heights, while Levi P. Morton sold some fine apartment houses in Harlem. Other Harlem transactions indicate considerable interest in real estate in that part of the city. The Bronx was not lacking in good sales.

The number below 59th street was 11, against 10 last week. The sales north of 59th street aggregated 20, compared with 24 last week.

From the Bronx 17 sales at private contract were reported, against 20 last week.

The amount involved in the Manhattan and Bronx auction sales this week was $1,102,791, compared with $213,146 last week, making a total since January 1 of $3,792,134. The figure for the corresponding week last year was $903,547, making the total from January 1, 1912, $2,961,508.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

Manhattan—South of 59th Street.

UNION SQ. WEST.—Wm. F. Decker and Wm. Maucher sold through Douglas Robinson, Chas. S. Brown & Co. to Lowenfeld & Prager the 11-sty brick and stone Decker Building at 33 Union Sq. West, on a plot 30.6x150, with a right-of-way in the rear to 16th st.

CATHARINE ST.—The firm of Leonard J. Carpenter sold for the estate of Howard Crosby to Lowenfeld & Prager 57 and 59 Catharine st and 3 Monroe st, three old buildings, on a total plot 47.9x99.7x irregular, forming the northeast corner of the two streets.

EAST BROADWAY.—Lowenfeld & Prager bought from the estate of Howard Crosby 205 East Broadway, a 4-sty building, on a lot 25x87.6.

HENRY ST.—Irving Bachrach, with H. Bloom, sold for the estate of Jacob Korn 198 Henry st, a 5-sty tenement, with stores, on lot 25.1x100, between Jefferson and Clinton sts.

ST. MARK'S PL.—The McVickar, Gaillard Realty Co. sold for the estate of Carroll Bryce the 4-sty loft building, on plot 26x120, at 6 St. Mark's pl, to David Wasser. J. & C. Port represented the buyer. The buyer intends to erect a modern Turkish and Russian bath.

STANTON ST.—Thornton F. Turner and others as trustees resold 80 Stanton st, a 5-sty tenement, on lot 21.3x65, to Mrs. Edna Koppleman. The property was acquired by the sellers as plaintiffs in a foreclosure sale on Tuesday.

14TH ST.—The Duross Co. sold for Robert J. and Sarah S. Collier the five 4-sty dwellings at 304 to 312 West 14th st, on plot 100x98x irregular, located 100 ft west of 8th av, and adjoining the New York County National Bank building at the southwest corner of 8th av. The property, which has been held at $115,000, it is said, will be improved with two elevator apartment houses. The sellers recently conveyed the property at 253 to 257 West 14th st to Samuel Kilpatrick.

27TH ST.—Edward A. Kohn sold 232 West 27th st, a 4-sty building on lot 25x98.9. The property is located between 7th and 8th avs.

29TH ST.—Horace S. Ely & Co. sold for James L. Delaney 551 West 29th st; for John J. Sheehan, No. 553, adjoining, and for Martha W. Mellen, No. 555. These are three 4-sty buildings, each on lot 16.8x98.9. The combined site, measuring 66.8x98.9, has been purchased by W. & J. Sloane, who will erect an addition to their warehouses, which adjoin on the west the plot acquired.

29TH ST.—Albert B. Ashforth and Horace S. Ely & Co. sold for Mary E. Byrnes, Josephine MacDonald and Irene McDermott 549 West 29th st, a 4-sty building, on lot 16.8x98.9.

32D ST.—William H. Seaich and associates, who are building a 12-sty commercial structure at 38 to 42 East 32d st, bought from the estate of Frank B. Mesick the interior strip at the rear of the site, size 15.7x9.5, for light protection.

34TH ST.—The trustees of the Amity Baptist Church have arranged to sell the church property at 308 to 312 West 34th st, extending through to 315 West 33d st, to a Greek Orthodox congregation of which Father Lazarus is the pastor. The property is located 150 ft west of 8th av and has a frontage of 75 ft on 34th st and 25 ft on 33d st.

5TH AV.—Henry G. Trevor sold the 6-sty store and loft building at 588 5th av, on plot 27.6x100, located between 47th and 48th sts, known as the Rovert building. The property was formerly Columbia College leasehold, the fee of which was purchased by the present seller in 1905. It is assessed by the city at $380,000, and present selling price is said to be a little under $450,000. Frank Brothers, shoe dealers, are the buyers. John N. Golding was the broker.

10TH AV.—The Kenton Realty Co. sold 848 10th av, a 5-sty building on lot 25.2x80.6, between 56th and 57th sts.

Manhattan—North of 59th Street.

73D ST. Henry D. Winans & May sold for Mrs. Alice H. Hoadley 62 East 73d st, a 5-sty American basement dwelling, on lot 17x102.2, located 66 ft. west of Park av. The buyer will occupy the house.

69TH ST.—Pease & Elliman sold for Edwin A. Richard and Miss Elvine Richard the 4-sty dwelling at 12 East 69th st, on plot 40x100.5, 230 ft east of 5th av. To the west of this house are the residences of P. A. Valentine, Ogden Mills, Mrs. E. H. Harriman, Mrs. Charles Stickney, while to the south are Harry Payne Whitney, Mrs. Anson and Mrs. George Bliss. The buyer intends to change the house to an American basement and will occupy it. This is the most important private dwelling sale since the sale of the Ernesto Fabbri residence at 11 East 62d st to Charles Steele, but it is a little more unusual than that sale in the fact that all cash is to be paid, whereas the Fabbri sale was part trade. The buyer is a prominent New Yorker who at present lives further downtown.

81ST ST.—Slawson & Hobbs sold for the Lyman Rhodes estate 156 and 158 West 81st st; also for Annie S. Kissam the adjoining parcel, at No. 160. The property consists of three 4-sty dwellings on plot 56.3x102.2, located between Columbus and Amsterdam avs, and has been purchased by the Wesley Realty Co., John W Kight, president. The site adjoins the Church of the Disciples of Christ, and will be improved with a 9-sty apartment house, the first multifamily dwelling in this block. The apartments will be laid out in suites of four and five rooms and bath.

95TH ST.—R. E. L. Mordecai sold for James A. Farley to Klein & Jackson the plot 100x100.8, on the south side of 95th st, 100 ft. east of 5th av. Opposite this plot Ernest G. Fabbri and Mrs. Mary Carhart recently bought sites upon which to build 50-ft. dwellings adjoining the corner of 5th av, which is towned by Gen. Lloyd S. Bryce. To the north of this corner on the avenue Miss Helen O. Brice is erecting a dwelling. Justice James W. Gerard is also erecting a residence on 5th av, just south of 95th st.

96TH ST.—John W. Brice sold through Duff & Conger to Jas. A. Farley 58 to 66 East 96th st, five 5-sty single flats, on a plot 100x100.8.

111TH ST.—Wm. Reitman sold for Wm. V. Eberhart, two 6-sty elevator apartment houses at 249 and 251 West 111th st, between 7th and 8th avs, each on lot 72x100.11, for about $140,000.

112TH ST.—I. Rosenthal sold for M. Dasch the 3-sty private dwelling 243 West 112th st, on lot 18x111 to J. Frankle for occupancy.

114TH ST.—The Heathcote Holding Co., H. B. Davis, president, sold Heathcote Hall, a 9-sty apartment house, on plot 100x100.11, at 605 West 114th st, to the New York Real Estate Security Co. The building was held at $450,000 and is located 125 ft. west of Broadway. It was erected in 1910 from designs by Schwartz & Gross.

BROADWAY.—Franklin Pettit, trading under the name of the Leicestershire Realty Co., sold to an investor St. James Court, a 7-sty elevator apartment house at the southeast corner of Broadway and 92d st, covering a plot fronting 108 ft. on Broadway, 125 ft. on 92d st, and having irregular rear lines. Mr. Pettit bought the property from S. E. and M. E. Bernheimer last April. The price at that time was reported to be about $400,000. The Bernheimers had owned the building practically since its erection, about 11 years ago.

BROADWAY.—The Realty Holding Co. bought from the Bull Estate, the northwest corner of Broadway and 145th st, 100 ft on Broadway and 150 ft on the street. This is one of the few remaining plots in this section that has not been improved. The Realty Holding Co. gave in part payment the 7-sty fireproof office building at 133 to 137 Front st, occupying the entire block front between Pine and De Peyster sts. The transaction involves about $600,000, Charles E. Williams being the broker. The 145th st plot has most excellent transportation facilities, having the subway station at the corner and the 145th st crosstown cars nearby. This transaction, no doubt, is but the forerunner of an improvement of the plot with a 12-sty, high-class apartment house.

BROADWAY.—Levi P. Morton sold to the New York Real Estate Security Co. the block front in the west side of Broadway, between 140th and 141st sts, improved with two 6-sty elevator apartment houses, having a frontage in the avenue of 200 ft. and being 90 ft. in each street, and known as Ellerslie Court, North and South. The structure was recently erected from designs by Gross & Herbener. The McVickar, Gaillard Realty Co. and Frederick Zittel & Sons were the brokers.

CLAREMONT AV.—The Heathcote Holding Co., H. B. Davis, president, bought from Adele Kurrus 190 Claremont av, a 6-sty apartment house, on plot 40x100, located 169.8 ft. south of 127th st. It is also reported that negotiations are pending for the sale of the Saranac apartment house, at the southwest corner of Convent av and 151st st, to the same company.

CONVENT AV.—The McVickar, Gaillard Realty Co. sold for the Greystone Holding Co., H. B. Davis, secretary, to the New York Real Estate Security Co. the 6-sty elevator house known as the Saranax at the southwest corner of 151st st and Convent av, on lot 82x108. Negotiations were reported as pending for the sale a few days ago.

MADISON AV.—The Bruce estate sold 1134 Madison av, a 4-sty dwelling on lot 20x70, located 42 ft. north of 84th st, to Edward A. Hannan. The deal was negotiated by Samuel Goldsticker.

MADISON AV.—Kurz & Uren sold for Sarah Arnold 1994 Madison av, northwest corner of 127th st, a 4-sty dwelling, on lot 20.4x35.

MADISON AV.—William H. Matthews & Co. sold for Mrs. Roberta F. Frank 2009 Madison av, a 3-sty dwelling, on lot 20x85.

PARK AV.—Benjamin Stern bought from Bing & Bing the new 12-sty apartment house at 970 Park av, located at the southwest corner of 83d st, on plot 102.2x90. Mr. Stern gives in part payment the block front in 5th av, between 104th and 105th sts, having an avenue frontage of 201.10 ft. and a depth in each street of 200 ft. The two properties are reported to have been valued at $1,400,000. The apartment house is one of two twin structures which occupy the block front in the west side of Park av between 82d and 83d sts, and were completed last year by the sellers. Mr. Stern bought the 5th av property about ten years ago, except the three east lots in 104th st, which he acquired in 1901 from Isaac H. Clothier, of Philadelphia, who a short time previously had bought them from D. Ogden Mills.

ST. NICHOLAS AV. The New York Real Estate Security Co. bought from Levi P. Morton the block front in the east side of St. Nicholas av, between 113th and 114th sts, improved with two 7-sty apartment houses, known as the Lucille and the Shoreham, having a combined frontage of 237 ft. in the avenue, 131 ft. in 114th st and 82 ft. in 113th st. The McVickar, Gaillard Realty Co. and Frederick Zittel & Sons were the brokers.

5TH AV The Two Thousand Forty-One Fifth Avenue Co. sold the 6-sty elevator apartment house known as the Mount Morris at the northeast corner of 5th av and 126th st, on plot 99.11x120, to the Latham Realty Co., Anthony Schwoerer, Jr., president, which gave in part payment a plot 150x100, at the northeast corner of Broadway and 130th st, which is used as a coal yard. The entire transaction involves about $450,000.

7TH AV.—Levi P. Andrew Powell.

Andrew Powell, who was long identified with the growth and development of the Upper west side of Manhattan, died suddenly on Jan. 11, while visiting the Masonic Building, in West 23d street. Mr. Powell maintained an office for many years at 156 Broadway, and at the time of his death he was president of the Realty Business Corporation. He had been in the real estate business in this city since 1867 and he was born here 75 years ago. Mr. Powell opened an office on the southwest corner of Columbus avenue and 72d street when that part of the city was an outpost of municipal growth and he had seen it grow into a compact residential section. He first made a specialty of real estate in the section west of 8th avenue, from 59th street to 110th street, and negotiated many of the important sales of vacant land there to builders as well as many sales of newly improved property. When the upper West Side was first being recognized as an important residential center Mr. Powell became vice-president of the West End Association, which was originally named the Citizens' West Side Improvement Association. It was organized in his office. For many years the little one-story brick office building of Mr. Powell's was a conspicuous landmark of the section. There were no public schools, letter boxes or postal facilities on the West Side when Mr. Powell first went there. He was active in the movement to prevent the creation of a Speedway in Central Park, maintaining that it was a breathing spot simply, also in the general movement for the installation of all municipal improvements and the elimination of "squatters" from the rocky shore of the Upper West Side. He also dealt in Bronx real estate. Subsequently he engaged in building operations. During the last twenty-three years Mr Powell had resided at Huguenot Park, Staten Island, where he was active in promoting the growth of Richmond. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. F. H. Walker and Mrs. Ida Powell Priest.

Pounds, Commissioner Geo. V. S. Williams, of the Public Service Commission, and Col. T. S. Williams, of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit.

—The Bergen County Board of Freeholders has awarded to Ernest Abraham of Hackensack at $59,122 contract for the improvement of Anderson avenue road.

Features of Early Building Construction.

The rapid development as a commercial center of that portion of the city lying between Fifth and Sixth avenues in the neighborhood of 42d street, renders more than ordinarily interesting brief reference to some of the notable structures that existed within that zone a half century and more ago. One of the most striking of these was what was known as the Latting Observatory which stood on the south side of 43d street on property on which is now rising the eight-story steel frame department store of Stern Brothers. This observatory was the forerunner of tall structures in New York, as it is only in recent years that its height of 325 ft. has been exceeded. It was entirely of wood, cost about $150,000 and was opened as an amusement attraction in 1853.

Its altitude was somewhat curiously divided, the first story being a refreshment parlor, and it, with the second story, was enclosed. Above this were three stories of open work, then an enclosed landing, where was located the first lookout, 125 ft. from the ground. Then came four open stories, above which was the second landing, 225 ft. above the streets. The next three were open stories and then the third and highest landing, 300 ft. from the base. The tower terminated in a spire, topped with a flagstaff. It was destroyed by fire in 1856 and afforded one of the most spectacular conflagrations ever seen in the city.

Another feature of this section of the city was the Crystal Palace, which occupied a site in Bryant Park. This remarkable building was opened in 1853 and was destroyed by fire in 1858.—"Building Age."

Franchise Valuations.

Albany advices state that details of the State Board of Tax Commissioners' report of special franchise valuations in New York City show the following noteworthy increases:

New York Railways system, from $42,558,000 to $44,060,000; Western Union Telegraph Company, from $700,000 to $980,000; Consolidated Telegraph and Electrical Subway Company, from $7,700,000 to $8,800,000; United Electric Light & Power Company, from $6,000,000 to $6,500,000; New York City Interborough Railway Company, from $700,000 to $900,000; Holmes Electric Protective Company, from $500,000 to $800,000; Consolidated Gas Company, from $21,000,000 to $21,100,000; Flatbush Water Works Company, from $830,000 to $900,000; Kings County Lighting Company, from $2,100,000 to $2,250,000; New York and Queens Electric Light & Power Company, from $1,000,000 to $1,125,000; Woodhaven Water Supply Company, from $350,000 to $375,000; Western Union Telegraph Company (Brooklyn), from $95,000 to $133,000; the Westchester Lighting Company, from $325,000 to $480,000.

The value of the Third Avenue Railway system's franchise was reduced to $16,750,000 from $19,419,000; that of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company to $51,816,000 from $51,974,000; that of the New York & Harlem River Railway Company, to $15,374,500 from $15,791,000, and that of the Long Island Railroad Company, to $4,035,800 from $4,284,600.

Broadway Subway Hearings.

The Public Service Commission for the First District has completed the first draft of the forms of contract for the construction of the remaining portions of the Broadway, Seventh avenue and 59th street subway in Manhattan, planned for operation by the New York Municipal Railway Corporation (Brooklyn Rapid Transit). Public hearings on the terms and conditions of these contracts, which cover that portion of the route in Broadway from Houston street north to 42d street, thence through Seventh avenue to 59th street, and thence through 59th and 60th streets to the Queensboro Bridge, have been called for January 30. The commission has also forwarded to the Art Commission, for its approval, plans for the construction of the proposed rapid transit railroad from the Queens end of the Queensboro Bridge to Astoria.

Lower Fares on the Westchester.

The Public Service Commission, Second District, made an order providing that the rates of fare to be charged by the New York, Westchester & Boston Railway Company, from its terminus in the city of New York, to its station in the village of White Plains, shall be 30 cents, and that the maximum rate for 60 trip commutation monthly ticket shall be $7. The present rate provides for a fare of 35 cents single trip and monthly commutation ticket $8. The rate is considerably lower than that charged on the New Haven and New York Central lines in Westchester.

A Bill for a Labor Court.

State Senator Anthony J. Griffin of the Bronx has prepared a bill providing for the establishment of a court for the settlement of labor disputes.

In explaining the detailed workings of his bill, Senator Griffin said:

"The bill I propose to introduce provides that where a strike or lockout occurs in an industry or calling of a quasi-public nature, it shall be lawful where the parties engaged in controversy do not voluntarily solicit the aid of the court for an adjudication of their differences, for any citizen to present a petition to the court setting forth the circumstances of the case and praying that a citation issue respectively to the employer and employed, commanding them to appear personally or by their representatives before the court for an adjudication of their differences and ordering them to avoid the commission or omission of any act which will tend to either precipitate a strike or lockout or continue such strike or lockout, until the determination by the court of the matters in dispute."

The presiding judge, a lawyer designated by the governor, will receive $6,000 a year and $600 for expenses. The other judges' compensation is fixed at $1,500 with an additional per diem allowance of $10 a day for each day actually engaged in attendance at hearings. There will be a clerk at $3,000, a deputy clerk and stenographer at $2,000 each and a marshal at $1,200.

The Overcoat of a House.

No feature of a frame or stucco house is more important than its overcoat, or sheathing of felt or paper to keep out wind and dampness. A thin building paper may not stand the alkali in the stucco. The water may go right through the paper into the sheathing boards and cause them to warp so badly that in a year or two the stucco is pressed off. A thick-coated, sturdy paper should be used. The National Association of Master Sheet Metal Workers in its Tin Roofers' Hand Book specifies as follows: "Sheathing paper * * * is used, to be waterproof. No tar paper or others containing acids allowed."

"Note—Tar paper, pitch and similar substances should never be allowed in contact with tin roofing. If sheathing paper is used it should be of a good waterproof quality."

Some sheathing paper is soap-stoned on the weather side. Soapstone is not only a great water repellent, but a preservative product in itself. A felt which also will shed water like a feather should also be used. Where soapstone paper is used its surface should be turned upward and when used under clapboards, slate, tile, stucco, tin, etc., the gray or soapstone surface should be turned outward. The Hydrex Felt and Engineering Company, of 120 Liberty street, has literature on this subject, which it will send to applicants gratis.

The City of Plainfield has under advisement the purchase of the water supply plant of the Plainfield-Union Water Company. The source of this water is a subterranean lake which lies at a depth of between 60 and 100 feet below the City of Plainfield. This water is cold enough even in the hottest days in summer to be used for drinking purposes direct from the faucet without ice, and the State Department analysis gives it a 98.5 per cent. purity. The water company also supplies from this source most of the largest communities along the Central Railroad of New Jersey in Union County. Some of this water goes to Elizabeth, which is a city of most three times the size of Plainfield, but most of the water supply of Elizabeth is obtained from the "Hummocks." This entire water supply of all the Jersey Central towns in Union County is owned by a company of which former U. S. Senator John Kean is president.

Roebling Street Improvement.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Riegelman issues a statement on behalf of the Bureau of Street Openings defending the bureau from the charges that there has been undue delay in the completion of the Roebling-Taylor street improvement. Mr. Riegelman says the report will be opened next Monday.

—Delay in subway construction and third-tracking will mean the loss of millions to the Bronx in retarded building and real estate operations. It will mean no such influx of additional population as is anticipated when transit facilities are better. It will mean a setback of years for the Borough.—North Side News.

EAGLE SAVINGS AND LOAN CO.

186 Remsen St. Brooklyn, N.Y.C.

NEAR BOROUGH HALL

CONCERNING OUR LOANS

It is the leading feature of this business to assist worthy people in home buying and building and in paying off mortgages on homes, which, under the provisions of the New Savings and Loan Law, it is authorized and empowered to do to a greater extent than financial institutions of any other class.

When all surrounding conditions are satisfactory, we go as far as 75% of value, if necessary, in placing our monthly installment loans.

Under the operation of the New Law, which became effective on January 1, 1911, the loans we are now making provide for monthly payments at the rate of $10 per month per $1,000 of the amount of the mortgage, which payments include interest, or the mortgage can be paid off entirely at any time, and after one year by the payment only of the balance due on the mortgage, plus one per cent of such balance.

Our loans are made on First Mortgage only and are for the exact amount of the cash advanced.

Our New System is so simple and direct that a borrower can tell at any time from the credits in his pass book just what amount will pay off his mortgage.

While the law permits us to loan within a radius of 50 miles, we particularly invite applications on private residential properties in Brooklyn, Queens, Bronx and Westchester.

HOPES FOR BRONX COUNTY.

Mandatory Legislation Expected to Overcome Court's Objections.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court having declared entirely void Chapter 548 of the laws of 1912, to erect the new County of The Bronx, an appeal has been taken by Louis O. Van Doren, representing the Association of the Bar, and others, to the Court of Appeals, with a request that the case be advanced and decided at the earliest possible day. It is hoped by Mr. Van Doren that the law case will be determined before the Legislature will have finished considering a bill which Senator Stilwell will introduce, making it mandatory upon the State to erect the new county, and overcoming whatever defect there was in last year's bill.

The Appellate Division held that Chapter 548 of the laws of 1912 is unconstitutional because it provided that the present County Clerk, Sheriff and Register of New York County should act for Bronx County till next January 1, whereas the Constitution provides that those officers for any county must be elected by the people of that county. A new bill will probably be introduced in the Legislature to remedy the defect.

Another point against the law was that it provided for a referendum only by the voters of the Bronx. The court held that the voters of New York County, who were also affected by the new law, should have been given a chance to express their opinion on the proposition.

The friends of the new county movement are confident that the Legislature will pass the Stilwell bill, under which it will not be necessary to again submit the question to the vote of the electors.

TITLE COMPANY'S YEAR.

Larger Earnings in Spite of a Backward Real Estate Market.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company was held on Tuesday at the office of the company. The following members of the Board, whose terms had expired, were reelected as trustees for a period of three years: Frank Bailey, Edward T. Bedford, Charles S. Brown, Julien T. Davies, Augustus D. Juilliard, Ranald H. Macdonald, William J. Matheson, Frederick Potter, Charles Richardson, Paul M. Warburg.

The annual report of the trustees marks thirty years of business for the company. They report net earnings of $117,000 in excess of 1911. The report says:

Decreasing Number of Mortgages.

"The increase in gross income in title business is particularly gratifying in view of the general condition of the real estate market. The improvement in real estate that has been hoped for each year since 1908 did not come. The number of deeds and mortgages recorded in the Register's Office of the various counties making up Greater New York has grown steadily less each year. This year the grand total of deeds and mortgages recorded has been 113,165, as compared with 115,507 in 1911.

"The greatest falling off has been in mortgages, the number of deeds recorded in Greater New York being about one thousand in excess of last year. The mortgages, however, number something over three thousand less. The gain in deeds has been small in New York, Queens and Richmond, there being a slight falling off in Brooklyn. The only gain in the number of mortgages has been in the Borough of Queens, the other boroughs showing a falling off.

Why Real Estate Is Not Buoyancy.

"The failure of real estate to recover its old-time buoyancy receives various explanations:

"Taxes has been increasing steadily for the past six years. All classes of real estate owners find their income much reduced by the activity of the various city departments. The Tenement House Department, the Building Department and particularly the Fire Prevention Bureau have been insisting upon changes and improvements that are proving very expensive to property owners.

"We do not criticise the motive behind the departments in enforcing these laws nor the motiv of the law-makers who put them on the statute books, but the real wisdom behind some of them is doubtful. Better accommodations cannot be furnished to the inhabitants of New York City without increasing the expense. Owing to the small margin of profit in real estate now, no laws can be passed that will accomplish this improvement at the ultimate expense of the property owner. He is bound to collect his new expenses in rents or his money will find investment in some more profitable directi ."

OWNERS WILL FOREGATHER.

At Real Estate Exchange to Discuss Municipal Questions.

About one hundred names of prominent real estate owners and brokers have so far been penned to a petition in favor of holding daytime meetings at the Real Estate Exchange in Vesey street, with the object of promoting the welfare of property interests. It is hoped to hold a meeting for organization at an early day, at which a plan of organization, together with a method of procedure, will be decided on.

It is believed that brief and snappy meetings of business men, giving expression to views on municipal propositions likely to affect real estate, either by imposing inordinate taxes or injuring the marketability of property, would serve as a balance-wheel for the enthusiasm of those who, having no taxes to pay, are interested only in seeing how much they can extract from the public treasury for their favorite schemes.

Among the signatures to the call are the names of Peter F. Meyer, William A. White & Son, William M. Cruikshank, Charles F. Noyes Co., B. Aymar Sands, E. D. Coulter, Rhinelander Real Estate Co., L. Napoleon Levy, Robert E. Dowling, A. L. Mordecai & Sons, Camman, Voorhees & Floyd, Joseph P. Day, Henry Morgenthau Co., Pease & Elliman, Bryan L. Kennelly, Alfred E Marling, Samuel Goldsticker, F. De R. Wissmann, Lowenfeld & Prager, John L. Parish, E. H. Ludlow & Co., Harris & Maurice Mandelbaum, Goodale, Perry & Dwight, L. J. Phillips & Co., Bradish Johnson, Herbert A. Sherman, Duross Company, Warren Cruikshank, Oscar G. Foley, Bernard Smyth & Sons, Joseph L. Buttenweiser, Daniel B. Freedman, Heilner & Wolff Co., Duff & Brown, and J. Clarence Davies.

—Most of the hollow tile fireproofing material used in the Metropolitan district of New Jersey comes from the vicinity of Staten Island, Raritan Bay, South River and Sayreville.

MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENTS

A Summary of the Proceedings of the Local Boards, the Board of Estimate, the Supreme Court and Various Commissions and Bureaus Relating to Street and Other City and Borough Improvements

The news collected here under the general head of Municipal Improvements is intended to be of service to property owners as well as contractors and brokers. It covers every measure looking toward a change in the City Map, toward the acquisition of title to real estate by the city or toward construction work, including the grading of streets, the laying of sewers, the building of schools, etc. Each such measure is acted upon by one or more—generally by several—official bodies before it becomes a valid ordinance. In these columns the successive official acts pertaining to it are noted from the time it is introduced in a Local Board or in the Board of Estimate. Wherever public hearings on it are granted, the fact is also announced.

Municipal improvements may be divided into two classes—those that are paid for out of the general tax levy and those that are paid for wholly or in part by special assessments on the property owners benefited. The latter, which are the more important to real estate owners, originate in the Local Boards. However, every local improvement, except certain street improvements calling for an expenditure of not more than $2,000, must be submitted to the Board of Estimate for authorization.

The news is classified and is printed in this order: Local Board Calendars, Local Board Resolutions, Proceedings of the Board of Estimate, Public Hearings, Assessments Due and Payable.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE BOARD OF ESTIMATE.

All city improvements, whether public or local, come before the Board of Estimate for authorization. The Board invariably grants one or more public hearings on every measure. The hearings are noted in advance in another column. In the present column are noted the resolutions passed by the Board concerning public or local improvements:

PUBLIC HEARINGS.

One or more hearings are granted in connection with all proposed improvements. In the case of local improvements, the first hearing is by the Local Board. Such hearings are noted in this news department of the Record and Guide under the general head of Local Board Calendars. Hearings by all other bodies are noted in the present column.

In acquiring title to land for streets, sewers, parks, approaches to bridges, etc., condemnation proceedings are commonly resorted to. A proceeding having been authorized by the Board of Estimate, the Corporation Counsel makes application to the Supreme Court for the appointment of three commissioners. If the cost of the land is to be paid wholly or in part by property owners benefited, the commissioners are known as commissioners of estimate and assessment. They hold their meetings at the Bureau of Street Openings, a clerical and legal organization under the supervision of the Corporation Counsel charged with the management of all legal proceedings which involve awards for damages or assessments for benefit to land.

If the cost of the land is to be paid by the city as a whole, as in the case of school sites, dock property, etc., the commissioners are known as commissioners of estimate and appraisal, whose place of meeting is at 258 Broadway.

In the case of assessments for local improvements of a physical nature which do not have to be confirmed by a court of record, the assessments come before three permanent commissioners appointed by the Mayor. They constitute the Board of Assessors, which has to do with assessments for such improvement as the regulating and grading of streets, the laying of sewers, etc.

PROPOSED ASSESSMENTS.

The following proposed assessments have been completed and are lodged in the office of the Board of Assessors, 320 Broadway, Manhattan, for examination by any one interested, and all persons who are opposed to these assessments must present their objections, in writing to the Secretary of the Board, at the above address, on or before Feb. 18, at 11 a. m., when testimony will be taken:

E. D. Litchfield to Plan St. Paul Library.

Electus Litchfield, of 244 5th avenue, Manhattan, was selected architect this week by the Library Board of St. Paul, Minn., for a new library structure, to be erected this spring at a cost of $1,350,000. The structure to be erected will include a reference library building, which is the gift of James J. Hill, of that city. Mr. Litchfield, after acting upon the statement of the requirements of the new public library prepared by Charles C. Soule, of Brookline, Mass., the expert advisor employed by the board some months ago, submitted preliminary sketches to the library board and Mr. Hill early last month, which, subject to modifications, were approved. Mr. Litchfield has been professionally connected with the planning and erection of notable buildings in the country, and of a number of library buildings. He formerly lived at St. Paul, being a son of W. D. Litchfield, a former resident in that state. According to the plans submitted, the library will be patterned after the J. P. Morgan library in New York City. It will have two entrances, one probably in Fourth stret and the other in Washington street. Both the public library and the Hill reference library will be under the one roof, but each will be entirely separate from the other. The structure will be of marble, granite and white stone. The construction will be started this spring. In all probability New York contractors will be invited to estimate on the general construction.

The Architectural Exhibit.

The opening of the annual exhibition of the Architectural League will be celebrated at a dinner to be given on Friday evening January 31, in the Vanderbilt Gallery of the Fine Arts Building, 215 West 57th street. The result of the annual competitions held under the auspices of the League will be announced at this time. Two prizes, the Henry O. Avery and a special prize of $300 for the best design submitted by an architect, sculptor and mural painter in collaboration are to be awarded. The subject of the special competition is the construction and decoration of a waiting room and a railroad station, introducing as a decorative feature, a monumental clock. The judgment of the committee of awards will be based on the total effect of the design as a whole, and the feature of successful collaboration of the competing groups. Another feature at this gathering will be the presentation to Col. George W. Goethals by the president of the League of a medal commemorating his achievements as Chief Engineer of the Panama Canal.

Bills Introduced for New Buildings.

The following is an abstract of the latest bills calling for new buildings which have been introduced at Albany but not yet passed. For the construction of the necessary college buildings for the New York State College of Forestry, at Syracuse, N. Y., appropriation, $250,000; the money not to be available until the University has conveyed to the State the land upon which the buildings are to be erected. Establishing a State school of agriculture at Cook Acadamy, cost not estimated. For a building at the New York Agricultural Experiment Station, $100,000. For the acquisition of lands for the New York State School of Agriculture on Long Island, $90,000 and for the construction and equipment of various buildings on the land, $609,500. For the acquisition of a site and the erection of a new State armory at Mount Vernon, N. Y., $87,000. For the acquisition of a site and the erection of a new State armory at Newburgh, N. Y., $150,000.

Astor Properties to be Improved.

It is reported that Vincent Astor will reimprove a number of the properties that have come into his possession. It is even said he is desirous of improving all his real estate in accordance with modern needs, wherever necessary. One of his first operations will be the reimprovement of the premises, now covered with old dwellings, at the northeast corner of Ninth avenue and Little West 12th street, with a six-story fireproof brick warehouse, having ground dimensions of 51x77 feet. Plans have been prepared by La Farge & Morris, of 23 East 26th street. It is understood that the operation will be started immediately. Plans have also been prepared for improving a block in the same section, but the details of this operation cannot yet be given.

Bidders for Filtration Plant.

Water Commissioner Thompson opened bids on Thursday for the construction of the Jerome Park filtration plant, but, as a result of an understanding which the Commissioner had with Controller Prendergast, no awards were made and none will be made until a thorough investigation of the whole proposal is effected, as requested by the Controller. The lowest bid was that of the Keystone Construction Company, which offered to do the work for $5,139,015. The Luke A. Burke Company made the second lowest bid, $5,672,145. The third lowest was put in by McArthur Brothers, $5,783,170.

METHOD

Fresh, cold, therefore dry air, enters from the outside through the Air Supply Pipe, into a receiving chamber, from there into the tubes surrounding the fire, ascends in a dry, heated state into the room, passes along the ceilings and walls, absorbs dampness from them, sinks down moisture laden, enters the apparatus, ascends after mixing with the coke gases into the outlet pipe for the smoke, and finally goes through the chimney or windows into the open air.

We have solved the problem of Drying-Out Buildings under Construction, in a Quick, Effective, Hygienic and Economical Manner.

HOUSE WRECKING DOWN TO A SCIENCE

We contract with builders, owners and architects for the wrecking of buildings—small or great—from top to curb.

Large forces of skilled workmen, under competent foremen, together with modern appliances and ample hauling facilities, permit quick work.

System in all branches reduces the bluster of wrecking to a minimum. Our methods provide safety to abutting property and but slight street encroachment.

We have handled as many as a dozen big contracts simultaneously during a single month.

We guarantee satisfaction and satisfy the architect, builder and owners as to terms.

Write us or call us up and we will have a representative with you promptly on appointment.

Standard Tells Why Gasolene Is High.

The Standard Oil Company gave out a statement signed by Mr. W. H. Libby, relative to the advance in the price of gasoline.

As the inevitable outcome, he points out, of the world-wide increase in 1912 in the demand for petroleum products, especially gasoline, the steadily diminishing production of the qualities of crude oil from which gasoline is derivable and the steady encroachment on surplus stocks on hand, there has been a marked advance in the price of the higher qualities of crude oil.

The statement further adds that although it is hoped higher prices will stimulate the discovery of new fields, there can be little hope for a decline in the price of gasoline.

United Board of Business Agents.

All the old officers of the United Board of Business Agents of the Building Trades of Manhattan and vicinity have been re-elected, as follows: John T. Taggart, president; David French, vice-president; Roswell D. Tompkins, secretary-treasurer; Edward J. Broderick, sergeant-at-arms.

The trustees are A. F. Day, Edward J. Carroll and Alexander Kelso. Credential committee, Joseph McGrane, Thomas P. Nelson, Leonard Klink, Thomas J. Curtis; Grievance committee, William A. Brennan, James P. McGrane, John Hanley, Alexander Kelso, Peter O'Brien.

UNDERWRITERS' LABORATORIES. (135 William St.)

Electric fittings approved by the Underwriters' Laboratories, following examinations and tests conducted under the standards of the National Electrical Code as recommended by the National Fire Protection Association.

The following named devices are rated standard and as being in compliance with requirements of the National Electrical Code. This rating is to be understood as indicating that in their construction the electrical fire hazard has been reduced to an acceptable degree. It is not to be construed as an approval of the devices for use in connection with automatic sprinklers, or similar fire protective equipments, for which services their merits have not been investigated:

SWITCHES, Automatic.—General Electric Company, Schenectady, N. Y. The following have been approved:

Type CR 223 Float Switches for use with automatic motor starters of electrically driven hydraulic pumps, 5-25 amperes, 110, 220 and 500 volts.

SWITCHES, Push-Button Flush.—Manhattan Electrical Supply Company, 17 Park Pl., N. Y.

WIRES, Weatherproof.—Waclark Wire Co., Bayway Avenue and South Front Street, Elizabeth, N. J.

Tag on coil to read: National Electrical Code Standard.

WIRE CONNECTOR.—Morriseff Electric Manufacturing Co., 84 Walker Street, City. "Nosplice" Wire Connector, consisting of a brass sleeve containing setscrew clamping jaws and inclosed in a molded composition insulating casing; Types A and B.

Following are general conclusions from laboratory tests and investigation to date:

These connectors are judged to be suitable for use in connecting fixture wires to the supply circuits at fixture outlets, and where open to view or connection motor leads to supply circuits. They are not considered satisfactory as a substitute for soldered joints in general wiring. They will not reliably hold in the same end of the connector wires of different sizes of both standard and solid wires. They are not suitable for use with larger than No. 12 B. & S. gauge.

Building Trade Wages, 1913.

Prevailing Rate of Wages—Issued by the New York Building Trades, Headquarters, Brevoort Hall, 154 East 54th street, New York City. Phone 3349 Plaza. THE TRANSIT CONTRACTS.

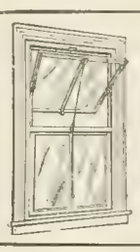
May Be Signed Within the Next Few Days—Hearings Concluded.

The Public Service Commission for the First District has concluded its public hearings on the terms and conditions of the proposed contracts with the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and the New York Municipal Railway Corporation (Brooklyn Rapid Transit) covering the construction and operation of the new subway lines and elevated railroad extensions in the Dual System. These contracts were as follows:

1. With the Interborough Rapid Transit Company for the operation of extensions of the existing subway in Manhattan, The Bronx and Brooklyn, the cost of construction to be borne jointly by the City of New York and the company, each contributing $58,000,000. The cost of equipment, estimated at $22,000,000, to be borne by the company.

2. With the Interborough Rapid Transit Company for the construction, at its own expense, of extensions of the existing elevated railroads in Manhattan and The Bronx, to cost about $16,000,000; also the operation thereof by the company.



3. With the Manhattan Railway Company for the third-tracking of the elevated railroads in Manhattan and The Bronx leased to and operated by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, to cost about $11,000,000; also for the operation of the same by the Interborough Company.

4. With the New York Municipal Railway Corporation (Brooklyn Rapid Transit) for the construction by the city and the company jointly of the new Broadway subway in Manhattan, two new tunnels to Brooklyn and extensions of the Centre street loop subway and the Fourth avenue subway, the company to contribute $14,500,000 and the city about $100,000,000 toward the cost of construction; all to be equipped and operated by the company in conjunction with its existing elevated railroad system in Brooklyn. It is estimated that the new equipment will cost $26,000,000.

5. With the New York Municipal Railway Corporation (Brooklyn Rapid Transit) for the construction, at its own expense, of certain extensions to its elevated railroads to Jamaica and other points, and the operation thereof in connection with the rest of the new system. The cost of such extensions is estimated at $8,000,000.

6. With the New York Municipal Railway Corporation (Brooklyn Rapid Transit) for the construction at its own expense, of additional tracks on existing elevated railroads and for the operation thereof in connection with existing lines. The cost of such additional tracks is estimated at $6,500,000; also for the reconstruction of existing elevated lines at its own expense at an estimated cost of $10,000,000.

The contracts will now be put in final form. It is hoped that they will be approved by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and signed by the commission and the companies concerned within the next few days.

THEATRE COLLAPSE.

Building Department Making a Searching Inquiry into the Orpheum Wreck.

The Superintendent of Buildings, Rudolph P. Miller, and Alfred Ludwig, his chief inspector, have begun an inspection of the ruins of the Orpheum Theatre, in 87th street, which it is hoped will lay bare the cause of the fall of the roof. The building was in course of construction, was all enclosed and the white plaster was on the interior walls when, on Wednesday afternoon, a huge truss supporting the roof buckled and came down, bringing all that portion of the roof between the proscenium arch and the balcony with it. So far as known, nobody was buried in the ruins.

Superintendent Miller considers the collapse the most amazing in his experience. That no one was killed was wonderful. The roof might have held until a performance was in progress, and the catastrophe then would have been too appalling to contemplate.

"Until the wreckage has been moved and our experts have had a chance to examine the steel work we shall suspend judgment," Superintendent Miller said, "but the public may rest assured that persons found guilty of either criminal negligence or of disobeying the orders of this department will be severely punished."

The Orpheum was under construction for the Loew Theatre Enterprise Company, 260 West Forty-second street, of which Marcus Loew is President and Nicholas W. Schenck is Secretary. The contract for the brick walls and interior work has been given to the Fleischmann Brothers' Company of 507 Fifth avenue, and that for the steel work to the National Bridge Works, which has its general offices in Long Island City. Thomas W. Lamb was the architect.

"We are certain of but one thing," said Chief Inspector Ludwig, "and this is that the huge truss midway between the front of the balcony and the proscenium arch gave way and took the entire roof with it. If it was built according to specifications it should not have buckled. What we must determine is whether the truss had a flaw, whether the columns upon which it rested were properly built or whether the builders put in proper material of the right dimensions."

Insurance for Employers.

Senator Foley and Assemblyman Walker introduced in both houses of the Legislature a bill authorizing employers in this State to form mutual insurance associations for the purpose of insuring their liability under the proposed workmen's compensation law.

One hundred employers, employing at least 10,000 employees, may form a mutual organization for assuring compensation to workmen who are injured in the course of employment, and only employers who have accepted the provisions of the compensation act are eligible for membership.

PORTLAND CEMENT IN 1912.

Estimate by U. S. Geological Survey Shows Increase of 3,500,000 Barrels.

According to returns received by the United States Geological Survey up to January 15, 1913, it is estimated by Ernest F. Burchard, of the Survey, that the total quantity of Portland cement manufactured in the United States in 1912 was approximately 81,941,998 barrels. It is believed that this estimate is within 1.5 per cent. of the exact figure. This quantity represents an increase of 3,413,361 barrels over the 78,528,637 barrels manufactured in 1911, or 4.3 per cent. The shipments of Portland cement during 1912 are estimated at 84,750,291 barrels, compared with 75,547,829 barrels in 1911, an increase of 9,202,462 barrels, or 12.2 per cent. The production in 1912 was thus held in check sufficiently to permit a material reduction in the stocks of cement at the mills at the close of 1911, which amounted to nearly 12,000,000 barrels.

Business Conditions and Prices.

Practically all mills report having to contend with adverse business conditions during the first six months of the year. Prices were lower than the average for 1911 during this period, and some plants reported the lowest prices for which they had ever sold cement. After the middle of the year conditions improved materially and generally during the last four months of 1912 the demand for Portland cement was sufficient to keep most mills running at full capacity.

In the Lehigh district production was curtailed slightly in order to diminish accumulated stocks. Production and shipments in New York show the greatest proportionate increase of all districts. In the Southeastern States the increase in production and shipments was gratifyingly large, as it was also in the vicinity of Chicago, Ill., and in Iowa and Missouri. Certain plants in Kansas were much hampered by the failure of the supply of natural gas, and were obliged to shut down temporarily while installing coal-burning devices. This feature contributed to the decrease in production in the Great Plains States. In the Pacific Coast States and in certain of the Rocky Mountain States production did not keep pace with that of 1911, owing to the lack of demand for cement for large public works.

The average price for the whole country of Portland cement per barrel in bulk at the mills will probably show a slight decrease when complete returns are received, although at the close of the year prices were much better than they had been during the last two years.

In addition to estimating the total production and shipments of Portland cement during 1912 it is possible to present fairly complete statistics of production and shipments by districts.

Lehigh District.

Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey, which together form the leading Portland cement manufacturing district of the United States, produced approximately 24,449,523 barrels of Portland cement in 1912, compared with 25,972,108 barrels in 1911. This represents a decrease of 1,522,585 barrels, or 5.9 per cent. The shipments of Portland cement in 1912 approximated 25,905,257 barrels, compared with 25,192,464 barrels shipped in 1911, an increase of 712,793 barrels, or 2.8 per cent. There were 20 mills reported as active in 1912, against 24 in 1911.

New York.

Mills in the State of New York produced approximately 4,490,180 barrels of Portland cement in 1912, compared with 3,314,217 barrels in 1911. This represents an increase of 1,175,963 barrels, or 35.5 per cent. The shipments of Portland cement in 1912 approximated 4,547,195 barrels, compared with 3,058,463 barrels shipped in 1911, an increase of 1,488,732 barrels, or 48.7 per cent. There were 7 mills reported as active in 1912, the same number as in 1911.

Ohio and Western Pennsylvania.

In Ohio and Western Pennsylvania there were produced approximately 7,239,775 barrels of Portland cement in 1912, compared with 6,756,313 barrels in 1911. This represents an increase of 483,462 barrels, or 7.2 per cent. The shipments of Portland cement in 1912 approximated 7,400,885 barrels, compared with 6,654,269 barrels shipped in 1911, an increase of 746,616 barrels, or 11.2 per cent. There were 9 mills reported as active in 1912, the same number as in 1911.

Michigan and Northeastern Indiana.

This district produced approximately 4,449,274 barrels of Portland cement in 1912, compared with 4,519,726 barrels in 1911. This represents a decrease of 70,452 barrels, or 1.6 per cent. The shipments of Portland cement in 1912 approximated 4,451,838 barrels, compared with 4,550,896 barrels shipped in 1911, a decrease of 99,058 barrels, or 2.2 per cent. There were 12 mills reported as active in 1912, the same number as in 1911.

Kentucky and Southeastern Indiana.

Mills near Ohio River in Kentucky and Indiana produced approximately 3,071,467 barrels of Portland cement in 1912, compared with 2,818,820 barrels in 1911. The shipments in 1912 approximated 3,134,874 barrels, compared with 2,800,526 barrels shipped in 1911, an increase of 334,348 barrels, or 11.9 per cent. Three mills were reported as active in 1912, the same number as in 1911.

Mills in the States of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee, Georgia, and Alabama produced approximately 4,664,454 barrels of Portland cement in 1912, compared with 4,049,063 barrels in 1911. The output of Portland cement in Iowa and Missouri amounted to approximately 7,557,090 barrels in 1912, compared with 6,067,449 barrels in 1911.

In Kansas, Oklahoma, and central Texas approximately 5,760,938 barrels of Portland cement were produced in 1912, compared with 7,010,396 barrels in 1911.

Colorado, Utah, Montana, and western Texas together produced approximately 2,298,649 barrels of Portland cement in 1912, compared with 2,124,930 barrels in 1911.

The States of California and Washington produced approximately 7,258,542 barrels of Portland cement in 1912, compared with 7,278,274 barrels in 1911.

Bids Invited for Queens Transit Line.

Bids for the construction of a section of the first rapid transit line to be built in Queens Borough have been called for by the Public Service Commission for the First District, to be opened January 28th at 12 o'clock. This section is Section No. 2 of the Astoria, Woodside and Corona rapid transit route, which runs from the Queens end of the Queensboro Bridge north through Second or Debevoise avenue to Ditmars avenue, Astoria. Section No. 2 covers that part of the line north of Beebe avenue. The road is to be an elevated railroad, and the contractor will have eighteen months in which to complete the work.

The engineers of the commission are finishing plans for the rest of this line and bids for its construction will be called for soon. Under the Dual System this road will be operated jointly by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company. The Interborough company will connect with it by trains from the Steinway Tunnel and the Second avenue elevated railroad, and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company by trains through the proposed Broadway, Seventh Avenue and 59th Street Subway.

Flushing Creek Improvements.

The elaborate plans for the straightening and widening of Flushing Creek which have been agitated by the Queens Borough Chamber of Commerce and other organizations have been radically modified by the impossibility of acquiring the land necessary for the project as mapped out. At a conference on Wednesday of Queens Borough business men in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, Long Island City, a resolution was passed urging Congressmen Littleton and Kindred to seek from the present Congress an appropriation for the dredging along the bulkhead lines now laid out by the government.

The New Quebec Bridge.

The revised design for the Quebec bridge is so far advanced that details of the principal members are available. The main span is 1,800 feet long. The top chord members of the cantilevers will consist of double lines of 16-inch I-bars. The bottom chords will have the enormous dimensions of 7 feet height by 10 feet width. The length from panel point to panel point will be 86 feet; each full panel of the bottom chord for one truss will weigh 200 tons. Each cast iron base for the towers will weigh 500 tons. The stringers reaching from panel point to panel point are massive plate girders 10 feet in depth, each weighing about 60 tons.

—The New Jersey State Water Supply Commission is negotiating for the purchase of the Wharton tract of 110,000 acres in Burlington and Atlantic Counties as future water supply for South Jersey municipalities. The cost will be $1,000,000 and bonds for the same will be issued by the commission.

JUDGMENTS.

Judgments are arranged alphabetically under dates filed. The first name on each line is that of the debtor, the second the name of creditor.

Judgments entered during the week and satisfied before day of publication do not appear in this column, but in list of Satisfied Judgments.

D signifies judgment for deficiency.

* signifies not summoned.

† signifies that the first name is fictitious, real name being unknown.

Judgments against corporations will be found at the end of each day's list.

The Checkered Career of Sand-Lime Brick.

The clayworking industry is pretty well aware that the sand-lime brick idea has blown its horn and, figurative, retired into its hole, but now we have official recognition of the checkered nature of the career of this would-be competitor of clay brick in a recent report of the United States Geological Survey, showing the decline of the industry since 1907. The idea came over here from Germany and started into active business in 1901, and for two or three years it prospered greatly, on the promotion spirit. But when those that had been promoted got down to the regular brass tacks of business things too often failed to plan out the way it was hoped they would.

So the industry began to wither, and in the four years from 1907 to 1911 the number of plants operating dropped off from 94 to 66, and they are still dropping off. In a few instances where peculiar conditions existed, such as good sand easily available and no clay for brick-making, it has done well and actually made a profit for its operators. These instances, however, are the exception.

As a rule, sand-lime brick plants have proven a failure from a profit-making standpoint if so located as to be brought into active competition with clay products. It made a noise for a while, and there will probably always be some market for sand-lime brick in places where it fits in. But as a general proposition the career of sand-lime brick has been so checkered with failures that it has but little in the way of encouragement for the investor left to-day.—"The Clayworker."

Treatment of Hardwood Doors.

The natural finishing of hardwood doors, exterior, is not at all satisfactory from the painter's standpoint, for it is very difficult to get a varnish that will stand for any extended length of time, the varnish, even of the high-grade kind, sometimes breaking down within a few months. Here is a method recently given by a Canadian master finisher: Apply a coat of hot raw linseed oil as a primer; follow this with several more coats of raw oil, applied cold and well rubbed in. In the first two of these coats add a little turpentine, which will assist the oil to penetrate. Be sure to leave no oil on the surface of the wood, but rub all off clean. When dry apply a coat or two of raw oil with some waste or a rag, leaving some oil this time on the surface. This treatment is claimed to give better wear than any varnish coat. The method has long been advocated and practiced by painters or grainers for painted or grained doors exterior for a long time. The finish may be brightened up with oil at any time, and the soft, dull effect is very pleasing. Of course, this treatment will ensure almost perfect wear.

In no case should an outside door of hardwood be varnished and rubbed to a polish or without lustre, for the rubbing will seriously affect the durability of the varnish by removing its protecting film of oil, and so permit the entrance of moisture to the foundation, causing speedy decay of the varnish coat.

One of the worst troubles the painter meets with in the exterior door of hardwood with natural finish is the stains caused by water. These are almost impossible of removal, even by oxalic acid, the sure cure for stains in most cases. Where these stains do occur the only thing to do is to scrape down to the bare wood and then apply the acid, strong as possible, which may remove the traces of stain left. The work, if deftly done, may not show any traces, but usually it is best to remove the varnish from the entire surface and do the door all over, from the bare wood. In this case it is usually an advantage to slightly color some oil and rub it well into the wood, even though it has been paste filled, for this will impart a uniform color to the wood and avoid spottiness, which is sure to be after cleaning off. After this the surface may be well rubbed with curled hair or burlap, to remove any grit, and then be revarnished and finished.—A. A. Kelly in the "National Builder."

For 1913 Clay Products Show.

The prospectus of the 1913 Clay Products Exposition is being distributed. It tells the story of the last exposition and gives the plan of the new one. The last show was a success. Exhibitors considered it profitable. The 1913 exposition will far surpass the 1912 show in every way, including the benefit it will be to the exhibitors and to the clay trade. The aim is to develop the field for the clay products. The dates for the 1913 show are February 26 to March 8. For information regarding space rates and other data, inquiries should be sent to Mr. F. L. Hopley, 815 Chamber of Commerce, Building, Chicago, Ill.

Conflagrations in 1912.

The Insurance Press of January 1 (price 25 cents, 80 Maiden Lane) devotes practically its whole issue to a complete review of the fire record of the country in 1912. It gives the following summary, a comparison of 1912 and 1911 of which follows:

Approval of Work.

Where building contracts provide that the work shall be performed under the supervision and direction of an architect, engineer, or superintendent, employed by the builder and subject to his approval, the decision of such person in approving the work as a performance of the contract is, as a general rule, binding upon the builder; and this is especially true where the contract provides that his approval shall be binding upon the parties. Hence, after such approval the builder cannot recover damages from the contractor as for a failure to perform the contract according to the terms thereof; but where the contract provides that it should be performed in a special manner, and in addition it was to be subject to the approval or rejection by the architect or engineer, it was held that the provision for approval or rejection by the architect or engineer was merely an additional safeguard against defects not ascertainable by an unskilled person and, therefore, that the approval of the architect was not conclusive upon the builder to show a performance of contract by the contractor.—W. J. Stanton in National Builder.

Home Sites De Luxe.

To the person seeking the ideal in home environments the literature being sent out to applicants by the Sage Foundation Company of 47 West 34th street is appealing and convincing. It is a composite of almost a hundred illustrations of some of the Forest Hills Gardens homes, many of which are accompanied by floor plans. The folio is arranged in a loose leaf system to facilitate study and perusal and is in every way an attractive way of interesting prospective buyers in Long Island realty.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS USED AND RULES FOLLOWED IN COMPILING RECORDS.

Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed omitting all covenants and warranty.

C. a G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given. When the date of drawing is other than in the current year the stated year is given. When both the dates are in the same year the year follows the second date.

The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1912.

T. S. preceding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed or conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

Flats and apartment houses are classified as tenements.

Residences as dwellings.

All Christian names, streets, avenues, states and months are abbreviated when possible, also in some instances names of Banks, Trusts and Insurance Companies.

The number in ( ) preceding the serial number to the right of the date line, at head of this page, is the Index number for the Checking Index.

The Star following names of street or avenue in the Bronx Conveyances, Leases and Mortgages indicates that the property recorded is in the annexed district, for which there is no section or block number.

PROPOSED SURTAX ERRONEOUS IN PRINCIPLE

It Will Not Be Taken When the Land is Sold and the Value of the Investment Realized, But Must Be Paid Yearly From Extraneous Income.

By PROF. JOHN BATES CLARK, of Columbia University.

THE general tax now resting on land covers all its existing value at the time of assessment. It is proposed to retain this tax and to impose an additional one on the difference between the value of the land in any particular year and the value which it had in 1912. This second or increment tax will not be taken merely when the land is sold and the owner has thus received the wherewithal to pay it, but must be paid every year from other sources.

On land which now yields no income whatever the owner must pay the tax from the income which he may get by labor, or by capital otherwise invested, and any increase in this tax will force some of this land upon the market. That will happen for two reasons, namely, that the tax will be harder to meet and that the inducement to meet it and retain the land will be lessened. Of course, the value of land will fall from its present level.

Would Be Forced on the Market.

Of land which contains either very old buildings or new ones of the taxpaying variety, some portion would be forced upon the market; and this would happen although no increase of the tax on the increment of value were expected or feared. But such an increase certainly would be feared.

A movement strong enough to carry through this enactment might be strong enough to carry through another which would double the sur-tax and the dread of such an increase would give the measure an effect in destroying land value out of all proportion to the effect that it would have if it were known that the policy would stop with this single measure.

What Henry George Said.

Mr. Henry George was once asked by a member of an audience which he had addressed whether he thought it just to confiscate, in effect, the land belonging to men who had recently paid for it in honest money. His reply was: "If anyone is a great enough fool to buy land when this measure is impending, he does not deserve sympathy."

Shrewd persons would never buy land if the single tax, in its full vigor, were impending as a certainty; but no one can tell precisely what is the degree of probability that the measure will be adopted. The milder measure now proposed may fail of enactment, or it may be enacted and be followed up by a series of others of a kindred sort. The whole future value of land then will become far more speculative than it now is, since it will be based, first, on a guess as to the increase in population and in the demand for buildings and, secondly, on a further guess as to the progress of the policy of confiscation. It will depend, in great part, on the fraction of the future income from land which owners will be allowed to keep. The one certain thing about it is that the income which the owner can realize will be less than it would otherwise be.

The editorial purpose of the discussions on the proposed "unearned increment tax" that have been appearing in the Record and Guide is (1) to ascertain whether the weight of competent opinion is for or against it and (2) how the measure, if enacted, would work out in practice. It is evident that capital, representing frequently the savings of people of small means or the inheritance of dependents, is not safe if it is invested in real estate unless the laws pertaining to real estate are in harmony with public sentiment. A change in public sentiment with respect to fire prevention, for example, may cause new legislation that will destroy an owner's entire equity in a building which conforms to every provision of law in existence when it is erected. Social justice is the only guarantee of stability in public sentiment and in legislation, which presumably, at least, is merely a reflection of the community's conscience; and those who are interested in assuring permanence to investments in real property must therefore be interested also in obtaining equitable solutions of community problems. Is the proposed surtax on the unearned increment of land values equitable? The discussions that have appeared in these pages represent the opinions of academic authorities as well as of experienced real estate men. They show that there is no unanimity of belief even among leading economists and students of taxation and city government. Certainly real estate men are justified in opposing a measure the equity or expediency of which is doubted or denied by such unbiased students as Prof. John Bates Clark, Mr. Henry Bruere, Dr. Frederic C. Howe and Borough President Cyrus C. Miller.

Would Discourage Construction.

In this view, building upon land held in fee simple will be discouraged, and it will take a considerable reduction of the tax on buildings themselves to offset that discouragement. The probability is that such buildings as would be erected would be of a cheaper and less durable character than those which would be erected under the present system of taxation. It is the land which is the permanently valuable part of real estate, and it is the improvements that are perishable. They lose value rapidly, not merely because they fall into decay, but because they become antiquated and therefore undesirable. A vast area in New York city is covered by buildings, once thoroughly good, which at present add nothing to the value of the land that they occupy; and if the owners had had no good value in the land itself, their entire investment would by this time have vanished.

Of course, these facts react unfavorably on the borrowing of money for building purposes. The improvements in themselves are poor security, since they represent a vanishing value. The land is a good security, provided it represents increasing value; but if that increase becomes problematical, money will not be willingly loaned on the two together unless the safety margin is a very large one.

The Beginning of a More Drastic Policy.

In so far as this influence goes, it may be expected to act as a check on the supply of buildings. If the influence is offset by a reduction in the tax on buildings, the number and size of new structures may be as great as before, but the quality is likely to be reduced. Moreover, since new income is needed, throwing off the tax on the buildings will lend two-fold weight to the pressure for an increased tax on the land, and will cause the present measure, which to many persons seems mild, to reveal itself more clearly as the beginning of a more drastic policy of land confiscation.

Will this check building operations and induce the city itself to furnish the capital that is needed? Will it borrow money and lend it to builders in vast amounts on undesirable security? Would the city be able to do this without rendering its own securities so undesirable as to force it to pay an unendurable rate of interest? Personally, I do not anticipate such an action on the part of the city; but I should expect, if the policy foreshadowed by this bill were once entered upon, that grave evils would result, which would lead to a very strong appeal to the city to offer relief.

Land Confiscation.

For one, I object radically to discussing plans of land confiscation on the basis of its practical effects alone. There is involved in it an amount of despoiling of honest men for which it would be difficult to find a parallel; and the fact that it is seriously advocated and calmly discussed on the ground of its effect in yielding more revenue or less revenue, causing more building or less building, is a strange phenomenon of practical morals. It becomes the stranger in view of the fact that, taking the country over, land owners are mostly middle-class persons, and, indeed, mostly laborers, if we use that term to cover those whose income is chiefly a payment for labor. If adopted in its rigor, the single tax would enormously accelerate the crushing out of the middle class, including the more industrious and frugal of the laborers.

WORLD MOVEMENT FOR A SINGLE TAX

Sullivan-Brooks Bill Favored Over the Proposed Sur-Tax—Municipal Taxation Will Continue to Increase and Real Estate Must Bear it.

By FREDERIC C. HOWE, Director of the People's Institute.

THE taxpayers of New York must probably reconcile themselves to two facts brought into prominence by the appointment of the Mayor's Committee on New Sources of Revenue as well as by the report of that committee, recently submitted.

1. Municipal taxes will continue to increase in the future as in the past, possibly not so rapidly but certainly more rapidly than the increase in population or taxable values. Scores of agencies are constantly urging new municipal activities, which can only be met by increased taxation. The demands of education are growing. We have only begun to touch the problem of recreation. Higher standards of health, sanitation, street-cleaning and charitable administration insistently press their claims upon the public. The complexity of city life, the increased socialization which it involves, the increase of poverty—all these will undoubtedly continue to burden the city, as they are burdening all other cities in the civilized world.

The Taxation of Land Values.

2. It is quite obvious that these increased burdens will have to be borne by real estate rather than by newly discovered sources of revenue. All over the world—in Germany, Denmark, Belgium, England, Australia, and Western Canada—the movement for the taxation of land values is receiving increased support, and in all of these countries legislation has been enacted substantially increasing the burdens upon land. Along with this there is a tendency in this country to abandon the general property tax, business taxes and other forms of taxation which bear upon labor, industry and consumption. Both thought and political effort seem irresistibly tending towards the shifting of taxation on to real estate in some form or other, and in almost every country the drift is toward the taxation of land values rather than improvements.

If, therefore, we are to expect constantly increasing demands for municipal needs and at the same time increasing taxes upon real estate, we are confronted with the alternative of collecting the revenues from land, on the one hand, or from improvements, on the other. This alternative must be faced in reaching a decision. Shall improvements and labor bear the increasing burden, or shall it in some form be shifted on to land values?

Reason for the Increment Tax Abroad.

The Mayor's Commission on New Sources of Revenue suggests a modification of the unearned increment tax, first adopted in Germany and later incorporated into the English budget in 1909. German experience was predicated on the experiment of the city of Frankfort, which in 1904 worked out a plan for taxing increasing land values by the so-called "Wertzuwachssteuer." The tax was progressive, beginning at 2 per cent. on the increase in values if the increase amounts to between 15 and 20 per cent., and rising to 25 per cent. of the profits where the increase in value is very rapid and very high.

The rate on unimproved land is higher than the rate on improved land, while the rate of taxation is scaled according to the time in which the unearned increment is made. So successful was this experiment that over three hundred cities adopted it in a very short time, and in 1911 the Reichstag adopted an Imperial law applicable to all cities and communities, following roughly the Frankfort plan. The measure was supported by almost all classes and parties in the Reichstag and seems to meet with all but universal approval in Germany. In addition to the Imperial tax cities are permitted to levy a "Zuschlage" for local purposes.

Germany adopted this form of taxing land values because European countries are not familiar with the taxation of real estate on its capital value. Taxes have always been levied upon the rent actually received by the owner. In 1893, however, the Department of the Interior in Prussia advised cities to substitute the American for the German system of assessment, and the periodical re-appraisal of land made it possible to adopt the "Wertzuwachssteuer," or unearned increment tax.

Prefers Sullivan-Brooks Bill.

In my opinion, the plan proposed in the so-called Sullivan-Brooks bill for reducing the tax on improvements to one-half the rate on land is preferable in every way to the unearned increment tax, as proposed by the Mayor's commission. It is more just, has greater social advantages, and is more easily and honestly administered.

Taxes on improvements should be lower than taxes on land for various reasons. Improvements depreciate. The life of a building in New York is less than a generation. Comparatively new buildings have to be scrapped and thrown away. Capital invested in improvements has to be rapidly amortized. For this reason taxation should discriminate in favor of buildings. This is not true of land. It does not wear out. There are no repairs to be made. It does not require constant care and attention.

In addition to this, improvements have to carry insurance. This, too, is not true of land. The community should recognize these things and adjust its taxes to the facts of life.

Moreover, the increased taxation of land values has a stimulating effect on building. It encourages development and discourages speculation. Just as an old French tax on windows led peasants to close up their windows, so the taxation of improvements discourages improvements.

Higher land taxation stimulates the sale of property. It increases the economic tendency for land to find its most economic use and its proper owners. Undoubtedly the increased taxation of land values will lead to greater activity in real estate transactions.

Canadian Experience.

The experience of the Canadian Northwest indicates too that the taxation of land values distributes values over a wider area, while low taxes upon land values permit concentration of values. Canadian experience also indicates that for a long time to come increasing land taxation does not diminish land values. It does, however, increase its efficient use. It stimulates building and the wider distribution of ownership. More labor is employed, and employed in its most productive way, which in turn tends to the increase in wages.

It is for these reasons that the Sullivan-Brooks bill is preferable to the unearned increment tax. It requires little or no change in the assessment machinery to collect it. No nicely adjusted computations of increasing values are necessary. It encourages the man who builds and discourages idle speculation. In addition, it distributes values more widely and by so doing insures greater permanence in values. The tendency of this would be to a natural limitation of the heights of buildings rather than the sporadic skyscraper close beside the small structure.

PROF. COODNOW'S OPINION.

Thinks the Tax a Proper One, But Suggests an Important Modification.

Prof. Frank J. Goodnow, of Columbia University, when asked what consequential effects he thought the proposed surtax on the unearned increment of land values would have, said:

"I have not had any opportunity to consider, except in a very casual way, the memorandum on the unearned increment tax which you left with me.

"Any opinion which I have or might express is, therefore, of a very general and not of a very valuable character. I have, however, always regarded the increment tax as a fiscal rather than a reform measure. From the fiscal point of view it seems to me to be justified, since it takes from those who have been fortunate in their real estate investments a part of their profit. This profit, I think all would admit, is in some measure due to the influences which are quite apart from the prudence, foresight, etc., of the investor. In other words, the increment is in some measure unearned. The city is therefore justified in taxing it in some degree even more than it is justified in imposing ordinary taxes.

Its Social Effects.

"I am not so certain with regard to the social effects of the tax. By some it is claimed that it reduces the value of land. Others say it does not have this effect. If it does not, its social effect is insignificant. If it does, that effect is, in my opinion, beneficial. For I have never been able to understand how an increase in land value, which is due merely to pressure of population and in no degree to increased productivity, is of any benefit to the community. Any measure which will reduce land value without diminishing productivity seems to me, therefore, to be socially advantageous.

"Two points should, however, be noticed. Any marked and sudden change in land values should, in the interest of the municipal finances, be avoided. For our city financial system is based on land values, and, furthermore, on the supposition that those values will increase. In the second place, the proposed increment tax should not be imposed on an increase in land value following a decrease from a maximum, the increase to which has once been taxed. Thus, if an assessment has been raised from $3,000 to $5,000, and if the increment of $2,000 has been taxed, no subsequent variations in the assessment below $5,000 should be made the subject of taxation.

"With regard to the specific question which you ask, as to the possibility that the proposed tax will oblige the city or the State to enter into the business of making loans to private builders in order to relieve the rent payer, I am unable to give a definite answer. If all the increment were taken, or so much of it as to discourage speculation in land, this might be the result. But I do not see how such action on the part of the city or the State would relieve the situation. For under the conditions assumed to exist there would not be any builders who would wish to borrow. A result which might conceivably come to pass would be that the State or city would have to enter upon the building business. This result has, however, followed in cities where the increment tax is unknown.

"I do not, however, see how the possibility which you suggest could follow the increment tax which has been proposed. For it is too small to have any great effect one way or the other."

WOULD BE A DOUBLE TAX.

President Miller of The Bronx Tells How City Expenses Can Be Reduced.

THE President of the Borough of the Bronx, Hon. Cyrus C. Miller, says:

"Your letter of January 27th asks for answers to the following questions:

"'(1) Do you look for a continued heavy increase in the cost of city government that will make it necessary radically to alter our present tax laws —for example, by the adoption of a surtax on the unearned increment of real estate?'

"No. The heavy increase in the cost of city government occurs largely because at this time more than at any other time in the history of the city extraordinary expenditures for subways, waterworks, court houses, paving and other expensive structures, come together.

"Every community gets the kind of government it deserves, whether expensive or economical. There is a tendency in all governments towards bureaucracy. Every time a new governmental function is begun a new department must be started for it with new heads of departments, records, clerks, etc., instead of enlarging the powers of the departments already in existence. This makes government expensive.

City Expenditures.

"Our method of government could be cheapened materially by simplifying it instead of complicating it. Every borough should be treated as a unit and ll functions of the borough, such as docks, distribution of water, street cleaning, parks, sewers, etc., should be placed under the control of the borough president. Similar bureaus such as the tenement house and building bureaus should be consolidated. General governmental functions, such as education, health, police, fire and finance, should be exercised as at present.

Effect of Partisan Government.

"So long as the people of New York insist upon partisan government they must pay the bills. It is necessary to the life of political organizations that they make as many places for their followers in the government service as possible. Until New York wakes up to the fact that its business should be conducted on business instead of partisan principles, the cost of government will be high. Re-organization of the city departments on an efficiency basis would result in some savings, some employes now being under-paid, others over-paid.

"I do not favor a tax on unearned increases unless it is coupled with a contribution of undeserved decreases.

"Unearned increments pay a tax every year by means of increased valuation. There seems to be no good reason why the so-called unearned increment on land should pay a double tax, any more than an increase in the value of an investment in clothing or food. Each investor believes that the necessities of the public will compel it to buy his goods at an increased price. In this he may be right or wrong. The land-owner differs in no respect from the others.

"'(2) The cost of city government, as a rule, is increasing in all civilized countries. Do you see any reason to believe that the tendency of city expenditures in New York to outrun the growth of population can be checked?'

"I believe it can be checked if the people are educated not to demand so much of an expenditure of city moneys. Every locality and every individual seems willing to make expenditures at the general expense. Officials must be elected who will deny these requests, and thereby become unpopular. We are drifting also toward paternalism. Many of the things for which we now spend money are good, but they are costly, and the expenditures bear heavily on real estate.

Must Increase City's Resources.

"'(3) Do you consider the growth of population as having a direct bearing upon increment?'

"Yes and no. I think it has when the growth results in a form of development which increases values. Many times, however, influx of population into a district decreases values, at least for a time.

"We must realize that it is necessary for us to increase our resources in order to meet necessary expenditures. We have driven away a great deal of trade from this port by reason of our failure to develop our port facilities. This matter has now awakened public attention and probably will result in a change for the good. Increased port facilities mean more trade and greater values to our real estate. We must establish markets to feed our people better and more economically. This will enable them to live in better quarters and has a tendency to increase the value of real estate."

THEORY KILLED BY FACT.

E. B. Boynton Says Further Taxation of Real Estate Would Prove Disastrous.

"It is my belief," said Edward B. Boynton, president of the American Real Estate Company, "that the proposal to tax unearned increment, however much this plan of taxation may be justifiable ultimately in a more ideal state of society than that in which we now live, is untimely and ill-advised in view of present conditions.

"Some philosopher once made the comment that the greatest tragedy in the history of the world was when a theory was killed by a fact, and that is the tragedy we face in this proposition. The theory that society may rightfully share to some extent in the increased values which it helps to create is in New York City killed by the fact that New York real estate today is bearing all of the tax it can afford to pay and that any further imposition of taxes upon it must result in disaster and loss which would have far-reaching effect and in my belief would ultimately result in loss of revenue to the city rather than gain, by reason of loss of values which would be inevitable to real estate throughout the city.

"So long as society permits, legalizes and indeed encourages the individual ownership of land, I cannot see that it can justly tax the value out of that land or confiscate such property. Thus, by way of suggestion, if we were to deal with this subject on the high plane of social justice, as some of the theorists would have us do, would it not be equally just to provide for a rebate to the landowner for decrement, as well as a tax for increment? If the community is to impose additional taxes where it creates value, should it not with equal justice provide for a return when it destroys value?

"But, as I suggested in the beginning, this is not a queston of theory; it is a question of cold fact, with which the real estate interests of the city must deal. New sources of revenue are desirable, but more desirable would be economy and efficiency in the distribution of tax funds and the proper enforcement of laws covering the collection of other forms of taxation, which are largely futile today.

"The State Legislature is dealing with a sensitive situation, and the credit of the city and its real estate market will not stand trifling with or experimenting with at the present time. Such an experiment as is proposed in this increment tax would, in my judgment, be harmful, impracticable and, indeed, suicidal."

REAL ESTATE BODIES PROTEST.

Adverse Action Expected from Taxpayers' Forums.

So far as heard from, the representative real estate bodies and the taxpayers' associations are all unqualifiedly opposed to the surtax on the unearned increment of real property recommended by the Mayor's Committee on New Sources of Revenue. Very general surprise is expressed that a committee appointed for the special purpose of devising means for relieving real estate taxpayers and rentpayers of at least a part of their burden should, on the contrary, seek to impose another general land tax.

A canvass made by the Record and Guide this week showed that a feeling of resentment is widespread among property owners. Many called attention to the fact that an "unearned increment tax" would not be a "new" source of revenue, as the Tax Department already annually increases the tax on land according to its supposed increase in value. Further, it was said that the proposed surtax would not be logical or fair unless the city pledged itself to return an equal percentage in cases where values depreciate.

Very general regret was expressed that the consideration of subjects of such high importance to real estate should be committed to men not intimately acquainted with the circumstances which control real estate.

None of the leading real estate boards and but few of the associations of property owners, local or general, have yet had opportunity to take formal action, but in numerous cases the prevailing opinion among the membership is so pronounced that the officers have no hesitancy in announcing what the attitude of their boards will be toward the proposition. Thus, the Real Estate Board of Brokers of New York, the Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers, and the Long Island Real Estate Exchange are certain to take strong grounds against the measure should it be seriously considered by the city authorities.

In the Allied Real Estate Interests the recommendations of the Mayor's committee has been referred to a committee for consideration, and formal action by GENERAL LAY-OUT OF SUBURBAN TRACT.

Importance of Encouraging the Community Idea—Protection From Nuisances and Standards of Local Propriety—Co-operative Stores.

WINDING DRIVES AT GREAT NECK VILLA, L. I.

AMONG the aspects of suburban development which of late years have demanded a great deal of attention from development companies has been that of obtaining an economical and effective lay-out for a tract which was about to be placed upon the market. In the early years of suburban settlement little or no attention was paid to any such need. The suburban property which was sold consisted usually of lots on the outskirts of a town, the administration of which had already provided a street system and made the necessary improvements. In case the town government was negligent or slow, the owner of the property might put in some of the necessary conveniences at his own expense, but as a rule he limited his responsibilities and expenditures as much as possible. He had no idea of the advantages which he might have derived from developing a large tract under a general plan which associates all the purchasers of houses and lots and forms a part of that particular enterprise into a sort of community.

The Community Idea.

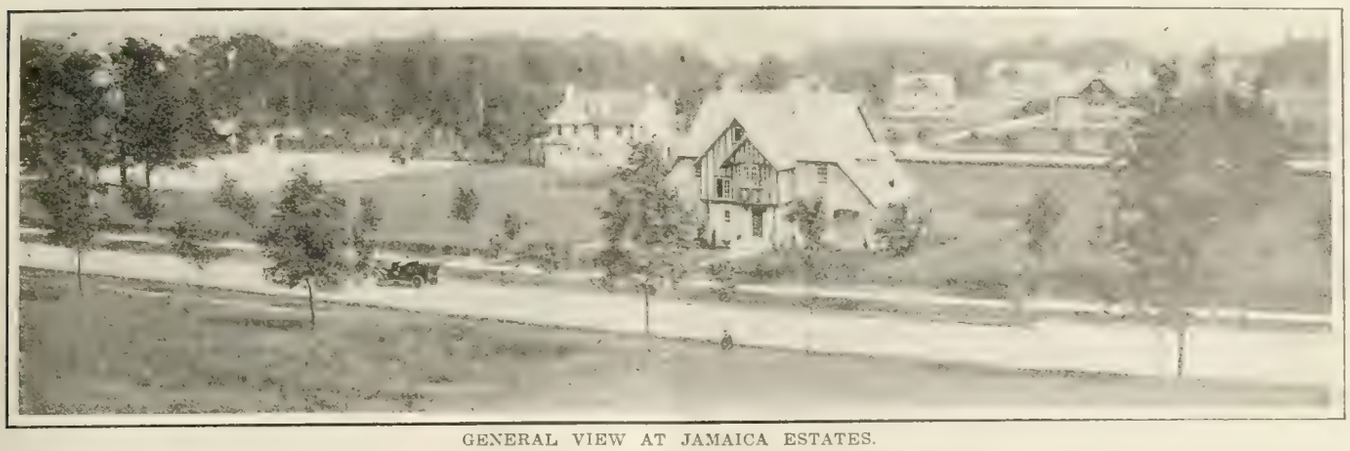
The general idea of "community" development has of late years come to play an increasingly important part in the business of selling suburban lots and houses. The "community" idea determines more and more frequently the whole policy of the selling company. It starts out to make not so much an extension to an existing city, town or village as a new center of local suburban life, and the families which gather around this center are protected in respect to their common interests and are encouraged to promote their own joint welfare. The working out of this policy includes in its scope not merely a general plan of lot development and restrictions in the interests of all the buyers, but also the organization of joint sources which places at the disposal of all the residents upon the tract certain conveniences which no one of them could afford by himself.

At the present time, for instance, the more enterprising suburban companies usually try to secure tracts of some natural beauty, and a tract of natural beauty must mean one on which the ground is irregular in contour and which is usually covered with a more or less heavy growth of trees. They are enabled to develop property of this kind partly because improved train service has enlarged the area of suburban development, and because local trolley lines will usually carry their purchasers to the station. When the trolley service is inadequate a company will often operate an automobile service to and from the railroad. By one of several of these ways it has become commercially possible to open up tracts which formerly would have been considered too remote for settlement.

In such tracts the developing companies usually make all the improvements. It is better for them to do so when possible, because they can lay out roads and streets and put in the needed drains, pipes and conduits for a smaller sum and in a more prompt and efficient manner than could the local government, and in the making of these improvements the first essential is a good general plan or lay-out. If a company is developing a perfectly level tract, the preparation of such a plan is not necessarily a very difficult matter, although even in cases of this kind the lay-out is of much more importance than the inexperienced man would suppose.

Preference for Picturesque Tracts.

But, as we have seen, the tendency recently has been to secure irregular and picturesque tracts, and even the inexperienced man can understand that the success or failure of the enterprise might very well depend upon the way in which a tract of this kind was laid out. It is essential that the main roads should be planned so as to reach by easy grades as much of the property as possible, that the less important roads or streets should be planned so as to utilize the tract to the best advantage and obtain the largest possible number of desirable building sites.



In arranging such a lay-out the means adopted to make the whole tract attractive in appearance are as essential as the means adopted to secure good grades, proper drainage, and the maximum number of salable sites. It is quite as essential that the whole development should please the purchaser as that any particular house or building lot should do so. The consequence is that the larger companies spend a great deal of money upon the services of men who are fully capable of preparing an adequate general plan. Many of them will also spend a good deal of money upon purely decorative features, such as an ornamental gateway to the tract, the planting of shrubbery, or the laying-out of small parks or playgrounds. Of course, these expenditures are not possible except in an enterprise which is intended for comparatively well-to-do people, but it is extraordinary how much even a company which caters to a less exclusive class of customers can do to make the property look attractive without loading the lots or houses with an excessive charge.

Arrangements for Domestic Comfort.

Of course, the most complete provision has to be made by all these companies for the domestic comfort of their customers. In addition to such obvious necessities as a sanitary system of drainage, and an abundant supply of pure water, the modern suburban resident wants all the conveniences of a house or flat in Manhattan. He insists upon a telephone, electric lights, and upon gas for cooking in the kitchen, and even upon steam heat. The old hot-air furnaces are too dirty for the housekeeper of today. The house must be heated by some method of direct or indirect radiation.

Restrictions Must Be Adequate.

Another important aspect of the general policy of the development companies is that of restrictions. The purchasers of houses and lots in a tract whose residents must later form a real community must obviously be protected against nuisances of all kinds, and such a protection was afforded at a very early date by almost every developer who was selling off to individual purchasers more than an acre or two of suburban land. But in proportion as the "community" idea increased in importance a larger and larger number of prohibitions were inflicted upon the individual purchaser in the interest of the whole group.

In general, however, these prohibitions apply only to any use of the property by one purchaser which would tend to injure the property of his neighbors, but in certain cases the attempt has been made to maintain certain general standards of local propriety, the observance of which would be generally beneficial. Some companies, for instance, will not sell lots unless the purchaser agrees to build upon them within, say, a couple of years. In other cases any house which is erected must cost at least a certain sum. In a smaller number of instances attempts have been made to impose certain general standards of architectural property, but these instances are not numerous. The free American citizen does not have to have his right to bad architectural manners circumscribed in any way. A development company that wishes to avoid the disfigurement of its "extension" by any flagrant breach of architectural good taste is practically obliged to build from its own plans all the houses situated in conspicuous locations.

RESIDENCE OF JOHN SHEA, WYKAGYL

Social Attractions.

Of late years a still further development of the "community" idea has been taking. In addition to the ordinary conveniences which every American family demands, certain enterprising companies are attempting to provide a number of additional attractions which help to make the lives of their customers easier and pleasanter. Not infrequently some kind of a country club is organized, which provides for its members tennis courts, perhaps a golf course, and a center of social entertainment. Other companies have organized a co-operative store, which sells groceries and ordinary necessities to the residents of the neighborhood at a price less than the ordinary country retailer would charge. In one instance there has been provided a sort of a clubhouse for the servants which will, it is hoped, help to make the run of cooks and waitresses less discontented with their remoteness from the city and with this clubhouse there is connected an employment agency, which helps to do away with one of the greatest of annoyances of the suburban resident.

Intelligent Co-operation.

Undoubtedly the future of suburban development lies along lines roughly sketched in this article; along the lines, that is, of planning for the benefit and in the interest of the whole group. The residents of any suburban neighborhood are much more dependent on one another for certain conveniences, economies and social pleasures than are the residents of a city block. The latter can draw upon the whole city for their associates and for their necessary services, but the suburbanites need the assistance of their neighbors. By intelligent co-operation they live more economically, more conveniently and more pleasantly. But many of them have not been trained for co-operation and need to be encouraged to do so and to be provided with the necessary machinery. This is what the better managed and more enterprising development companies are doing, and they will have to carry the process still farther during the next few years. It is the only way in which they can forestall the competition of co-operative semi-philanthropic companies which have become very popular in England and are not unknown in this country.

VITAL QUESTIONS OF THE HOUR

Discussed at the Brooklyn Board of Brokers' Banquet—Brooklyn Real Estate Securities Extolled and Subway Plans Explained.

THE annual banquet of the Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers, which was held at the Brooklyn Club last Saturday night, was distinguished for the interesting statements made by some of the speakers and for the spirit of camaraderie manifested by the members. It was probably the most largely attended dinner the board ever held. De Hart Bergen, the new president of the organization, introduced the various speakers. The dinner was scheduled for seven o'clock and it was not long after that hour that the diners were seated.

The guests of honor were Public Service Commissioner George V. S. Williams, Col. Timothy S. Williams, president of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company; Frank Bailey, vice-president of the Title Guarantee & Trust Company; Commissioner of Public Works Lewis H. Pounds; Assistant Corporation Counsel Edward Riegelmann, who is in charge of the Brooklyn Bureau of Street Openings; Frederick W. Lindais, of the Bureau of Municipal Research, and Justice Crane, of the Supreme Court.

After cigars had been lighted and a number of facetious remarks had been directed at some of the prominent members of the Board of Brokers who were present, especially at David Porter and his lost dog, the vital speeches of the evening were made. Public Service Commissioner Williams aroused the enthusiasm of the brokers by his announcemment that come what might he purposed to stand by Brooklyn and Queens in its fight for more subways; and his statement that the subway question had been one-sided too long received strong approval.

Mr. Williams on Subway Contracts.

"The criticisms of the proposed contracts are not criticisms of the contracts at all. They are a deliberate attack upon the whole scheme of private operation, and made deliberately by those who would make a political issue out of the urgent demand of the people for transit relief. This attack was started months ago. Last winter during the session of the Legislature extensive amendments were prepared by the Public Service Commission, which permitted entering into the contracts proposed with the operating companies. A joint committee of the two houses of the Legislature gave a hearing which was attended not only by members of the Commission, but by a majority of the Board of Estimate, who expressed themselves as in favor of the amendments.

"The opposition was represented by Mr. Shearn, who, representing Mr. Hearst's alleged ideas, spoke for a period covering several hours in opposition to the bill, reviewing in detail all the objections to the dual system, which are now urged. The Legislature passed the bill and it was duly signed by the Governor. Not content with that, certain taxpayers' actions were brought to restrain the Board of Estimate and the Commission from entering into the proposed contracts. These actions were carried through to the Court of Appeals, where a decision was rendered sustaining the legality of the proposed agreements.

"Since that time the Commission has been at work preparing the contracts, and they are now practically completed. It now looks as though we were face to face with a fight between the friends of municipal operation and those who do not believe in that scheme. In discussing this feature I am going to limit my remarks as applying to the boroughs of Brooklyn and Queens, although I believe that the conditions are practically the same in the other boroughs. Were the city able to finish and operate the Triborough route it would mean nothing to a great majority of the people of these two boroughs. Queens would get absolutely nothing out of the proposition. The Borough of Brooklyn, with the exception of the people living along Fourth avenue and New Utrecht avenue, would never know, without paying an extra fare for finding out, that there was a municipal road in existence. This alone should be sufficient to dispose, so far as Brooklyn and Queens are concerned, of the theory of municipal ownership and operation.

Meeting Demand of Majority.

"When the minority of the Board of Estimate and the Public Service Commission speak of the 'subways being already under construction,' and that there is no hurry about operating contracts until they are finished, and when certain newspapers in editorials state practically the same thing, the people of Brooklyn and Queens should bear in mind that this is the 'subway' they speak of—this pet Tri-borough, city-owned, city-operated subway, which would cost the people $200,000,000, and which would take every penny of the city's credit and $34,000,000 besides to complete. The city is already operating ferries—one to Staten Island and one to Thirty-ninth street. The investment of the city in these two ferries is about $20,000,000, and the total receipts from all sources since 1909 lack $3,892,000 of paying even the operating expenses, and there has never been a charge of graft connected with the management of these ferries. It is just one of many instances of loss under municipal operation.

Brooklyn No Longer Step-Child.

"Even if public operation were possible it would be many years before Brooklyn could possibly be benefited. If we had been told a few years ago that we could get express service to Manhattan, even were we dumped out at the portal of one of the bridges, we would have received the news with joy. Now we are to have not only express service to Manhattan, but through Broadway, Manhattan, as far as Fifty-ninth street, all for a single fare, from any part of Brooklyn and many parts of Queens, and those living within the line of the Eastern Parkway, Nostrand and Livonia avenue routes, express service not only to Manhattan but to all parts of the Bronx.

"When these great benefits come—and come they will—Brooklyn and Queens will no longer be step-children in the Knickerbocker family, but will take the places they deserve by reason of their natural advantages and the fact that they are peopled by loyal, enthusiastic, home-loving citizens."

After Frank Bailey, vice-president of the Title Guarantee and Trust Co., who is personally known to hundreds of Brooklyn brokers, had poked fun at some of his broker friends, he spoke in his usual quiet, forceful way of certain conditions pertaining to the real estate business. The salient points of Mr. Bailey's speech follow:

Mr. Bailey on Brooklyn Mortgages.

"There are many officers of New York institutions who consider that they are able and successful in such proportion as they daily assail Brooklyn. These institutions take great pleasure in calling every Brooklyn mortgage under their control. This evening I will not mention any names, but I have in mind two institutions whose officers have directed that all mortgages on Brooklyn property shall be called. They have not lost any money in Brooklyn, but they hate the borough and think that they are important if they take a position inimical to Brooklyn. In one case the mortgages on the homes of the little people were called in order that they might lend the money at the same rate of interest to 'swell' Manhattan institutions.

"A large proportion of the deposits of these New York institutions come from Brooklyn people, and if such discrimination against Brooklyn existed in the State of Oklahoma, the Legislature would at once be appealed to for relief, and the public would demand that an institution which was ready to accept money from a locality should support that locality.

"The strongest savings bank in Greater New York in the percentage of surplus is the Williamsburgh Savings Bank, of Brooklyn, and that bank, instead of buying bonds, which is the lazy way of investing, has accumulated the second largest surplus of any savings bank in the state, because they have freely lent their money in Brooklyn to Brooklyn owners. Brooklyn mortgages today are as safe as Manhattan mortgages, for in no city in the country has real estate depreciated more in the past five years than in many parts of the Borough of Manhattan. Money can be lent in Brooklyn with entire safety, and you should brook no criticism of Brooklyn mortgages.

"The Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Company, in the 20 years of its existence, has made loans amounting to over $300,000,000. Its losses have been less than $30,000. Show me a better record in Manhattan.

"Let us stop this discrimination—it tends to higher rates of interest. Let us stop it—or stop the flow of money into those institutions, the management of which is too grand to lend money in Brooklyn.

"If your organization will direct its energy to this purpose, I think you would end either the discrimination or those who discriminate. Let us try and get even with those who are constantly pounding us. The people of Brooklyn will support such an effort."

Col. Williams on Transit.

Col. Timothy S. Williams, in the course of a speech that defended the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, said that he was happy to state that this company, of which he is president, was quite in harmony just now with city officials on the subway question. "All elements of society," continued Col. Williams, "think transit conditions could be improved, and I agree that this is a platitude that applies to every surface railroad in the world. But all of you apparently forget that a company's efforts to be useful to the public are crippled by the officials handling public thoroughfares. More cars on some thoroughfares mean more congestion and lesser transit, and there are always plenty of travelers, like Don F. Seitz, for example, who can tell us how to operate a railroad and they base their knowledge of railroad operation on the fact that they ride on a car. The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, for many years, has received applications for franchises in many Brooklyn streets, where property owners welcome the idea of a railroad; but we cannot get them on terms which any company with self-respect can accept. Very limited franchises are a drawback and are practically worthless. If we want a reasonable franchise we are hampered by extreme delays in the Board of Estimate. The company I have the honor to represent is doing the best it can in a part of the city that is growing rapidly and where legal and municipal obstacles to railroad development abound. The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company as much as any other factor is aiding the growth and improvement of Broooklyn. For many years the suburban area of the borough has grown tremendously in population, and its only means of cheap and quick transit has been the cars of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company."

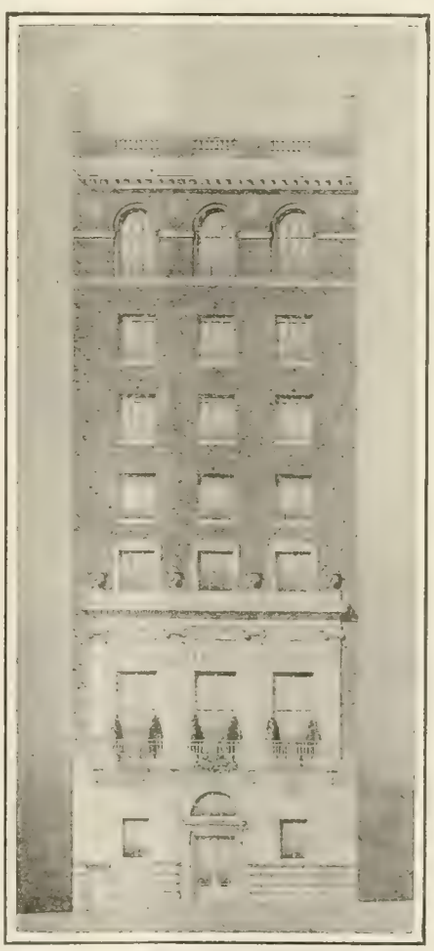
Judge Crane's Speech.

Justice Frederick E. Crane, of the Supreme Court, followed Col. Williams, and his speech was interspersed with wit. The Judge came directly from court, where he had been until late owing to charging a jury. Among other things Justice Crane said: "You fellows look happier than I do, because you have all had your dinner, and I came in here in time to miss mine. But, then, real estate men always do look well fed. I don't know why you invited me here to speak, because judges are supposed to remain silent, and that is where they differ with the real estate men. I suppose it is permissible to use a legal phrase here and call you gentlemen 'the procuring causes.' The business procured by you is what helps the assets of this great city of ours and that helps to pay the salaries of the judges. But they are a thankless lot, for if any taxpayer gets in trouble the judge might be against him as quickly as he might be for him. It is a shame to ask a judge to talk to you real estate men who can usually talk so well for yourselves. But I suppose it is a case of trying it on the other fellow.

"Gentlemen, when I think of what the real estate business was many years ago, and what it is now I am strongly confronted with the fact that like the world at large the business has improved and that it is even more than a business, it is a profession requiring the very highest order of talent and ability, and in its best and highest sense it is a profession closely allied to the doing of justice. You have a wider field than the lawyer. You sit in condemnation procedings and the court in determining the scope of the work of commissioners must rely upon your intimate and special knowledge. Many years ago Rufus Choate won a celebrated case by the sheer force of his majestic eloquence. He enraptured the jury and made it believe that black was white. Nowadays juries are about as hard-headed as the court itself and they are swayed very little by the oratorical ability of any member of the bar. Facts are well singled out by them from the tangled web of eloquence and cases are decided pretty much on their merits.

"As nearly as I can discern the real estate man has acquired the eloquence that formerly beolnged to the bar. The real estate man is prone to appear before Public Service Commissions, Boards of Estimate, Boards of Aldermen and even before the courts themselves to argue in behalf of certain subjects and to urge public improvements and he impresses them with the force of his logic and the skill of his presentation. Much of the work that was formerly done by lawyers is now done by the real estate man, such as drawing up deeds, examining titles and attending to assessment matters. And to that extent you are in the profession of the law. Whether you are inside the Inner Temple of my profession or not, I can nevertheless wish you godspeed in your profession and express the hope that you will aid the administration of justice within your sphere by honorable dealing between man and man."

Other Speakers.



The last speaker was Assistant Corporation Counsel Riegelmann, who delivered a speech full of witty sallies at the real estate men and which contained a humorous description of his experiences with them in the Bureau of Street Openings. He concluded by declaring them to be the "toughest bunch I ever met, but I enjoyed the dinner, nevertheless."

WOMEN'S UNIVERSITY CLUB'S NEW BUILDING.

Plans for the proposed new home for the Women's University Club to be erected at 106 to 108 East 52d street, which are being completed by Nelson & Van Wagenen, of 15 West 38th street, provide in a remarkable way for the comfort and convenience of its members.

Nelson & Van Wagenen, Archts.
106-108 East 52d St.

ACCEPTED DESIGN FOR WOMAN'S UNIVERSITY CLUB.

The building will be provided with a restaurant and roof garden and will be modern in every way.

On the first floor will be a waiting-room, office and main and private dining-rooms, living-room, lounge and assembly rooms; on the second floor, library, board rooms and bed chambers; on the third, bed chambers; on the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh floors, lounging-room with adjoining locker and dressing rooms provided for suburban members on the seventh floor, and gymnasium, locker and dressing rooms with servants' rooms on the eighth floor.

The features of the equipment include vastly improved fumigating, disinfecting and laundry plants, incinerators, vacuum cleaners and scrubbers, and every modern appliance for the sanitary upkeep of the property. The facades will be of buff brick with limestone trimmings. The height of the building will be eight stories, fronting 38 feet in 52d street with a depth of 100 feet.

In all probability contracts will be awarded within a few days.

Officers include Miss Elizabeth Brown Cutting, president; Miss Helen M. Kelsey, secretary, and Mrs. Benjamin Howes, treasurer. Within the past few weeks several buildings of this type have been reported under contemplation. The hotel for women which Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont contemplates erecting, will be designed to be an inexpensive home for self-supporting working women. A site has not yet been found and final plans have not been prepared. Lawler & Haase, architects, of 69 Wall street, have prepared plans for a working girls home, to be erected in the north side of 120th street, between Morningside Drive and Amsterdam avenue, by Susan Devin, of 220 West 105th street. This contract will be awarded some time in February. The Women's Cosmopolitan Club, of 142 East 33d street, of which Mrs. William Adams is president, has leased for a term of years the building at the northeast corner of Lexington avenue and 40th street and will either alter the building to suit its requirements or erect a new structure.

A BURGLAR-PROOF HOTEL.

The Biltmore Will Also Be Noiseless—Building Material Quantities.

John McBowman, associate to Gustav Bauman, manager of the Hotel Biltmore, is laying out details for the purchase of furniture and supplies for this great new hostelry. The amount of money that will be required to fill this contract will be close to $800,000. This will not include the cost of construction and other equipment.

The contract for the architectural terra cotta on the Biltmore Hotel ranks among the largest orders ever placed in New York City for this material—in all there will be about 3,000 tons. In color, it is to be made of a gray, which will match the limestone and harmonize with the shade of brick to be used on the main shaft of the building. The crown of the building, from the twenty-first story, including the main cornice and penthouse, will be constructed entirely of Federal architectural terra cotta, and there will be a large colonnade of fluted columns and pilasters, extending from the twenty-first to the twenty-third stories, forming the prominent feature on all four elevations of the building. Surmounting these columns is an arched frieze in which occur beautifully designed, spandrel panels. This feature is heavily ornamented and is surmounted by an elaborate cornice of very ornate character. The general order of architecture is Italian Renaissance.

The most conspicuous feature of the building is the roof garden on the Vanderbilt avenue side. This is built in the lower part of the light court in between two wings of the building, and also extends in the form of a pergola across the whole Vanderbilt avenue elevation. This feature will be constructed largely of terra cotta, and prominent in detail will be some large supporting caryatids. The architects' drawings also show some ornate terra cotta vases of unusually large size, which are to set on the balustrade.

Twelve thousand tons of structural steel will be required and more than 4,000,000 common brick, 2,000,000 front gray brick, and approximately 5,000 barrels of Portland cement. The total cost of the structure will be in the neighborhood of $5,500,000.

The building is being erected for the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Co. from plans by Warren & Wetmore by the Geo. A. Fuller Company, general contractors. It will stand on Madison and Vanderbilt avenues, between 43d and 44th streets, and occupy a plot 200.10 x 215.8, and will rise twenty-six stories above the street level.

Built-In Apartments.

One of the new features of the Biltmore will be fourteen built-in apartments, containing a different number of rooms en suite. While these will be part of the hotel, they will not open directly into it, but will to all intents and purposes be separate entities. Cooking will be forbidden in these apartments, but the occupants will be served from a special kitchen. The purpose is to allow the tenants to make themselves as homelike as possible and yet be guests of the hotel and enjoy the service therefrom, at a rental of from $10,000 to $15,000 a year.

Another new feature will be that all chamber doors will be noiseless. No person will be able to disturb another hotel guest by carelessly slamming his door. The lock on the door will also be silent, and when one has locked his door on the inside an indicator will warn the chambermaid and other employees that they must exercise care in passing through the hall so as not to disturb the guest. When the room is vacated a different indicator will give notice at the office, which then will signal the chambermaid that the room is ready for attention.

In case the guest has valuables in his room, he notifies the clerk at his desk, who electrically seals the doors and windows, and thereafter not even the guest himself can enter the room without the master key or its duplicate, thus making the whole building burglar-proof.

The finished building will have 1,000 rooms and will be designed primarily for the entertainment of the patrons of the New York Central Railroad. The decorative design harmonizes with the rest of the New York Central Station equipment.

A WIDOW'S DOWER.

A Bill in the Senate Would Have This State Follow the New England Law.

Under the law of the State of New York, a wife's signature is necessary to a deed of conveyance of real estate, because of her dower right to a life interest in one-third of the real estate which her husband may leave at his death. In the New England States her signature is not required to a deed of conveyance of property belonging to her husband, for the reason that the wife has no interest in her husband's estate during his lifetime that makes her assent necessary to the conveyance of his real estate

A bill has been introduced in the New York State Senate by Mr. Herrick, read twice, ordered printed and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, which amends section 190 of article 6 of chapter 52 of the laws of 1909, being chapter 50 of the Consolidated Laws, known as the real property law, in relation to the right of dower.

The bill reads as follows: "A widow shall be endowered of the third part of all the lands whereof her husband was seized of an estate of inheritance at the time of his decease." (The words in the present law, "at any time during the marriage," are stricken out.)

Assemblyman Michael Schaap, leader of the Progressives, has introduced a bill to reduce the tax rate on all buildings in New York City to one-half the tax rate on all land by five equal reductions in five consecutive years. Assemblyman Schaap said regarding this bill: "The bill provides for submitting this proposal to a referendum vote at the next municipal election."

By Senator Pollock.—Concurrent resolution proposing an amendment to Section 7 of Article I. of the Constitution relative to taking of property for public use and relative to excess condemnation by cities.

By Assemblyman McKee—Amending the Greater New York Charter by changing from 5 per cent. of the valuation of real property deemed benefited by a local improvement to any assessment in excess of $50, the cases in which assessments on benefited property may be divided into ten annual installments. Same as or similar to a Senate bill introduced this session.

By Assemblyman Ulrich—Amending the Greater New York Charter in relation to interest on unpaid taxes. It strikes out the provision for the charging of a penalty interest of seven per cent. upon personal property taxes remaining unpaid on the first day of June after they become due. It also strikes out the provision for a similar penalty upon the first half of the annual tax on real estate remaining unpaid on the first day of June after it becomes due, and provides that in the case of the real estate tax the penalty interest shall commence, if it remains unpaid, on the first day of December after it becomes due.

REAL ESTATE BONDS.

Banking Department Head Recommends State Supervision.

George C. Van Tuyl, Jr., State Superintendent of Banks, in his annual report, recently issued, renews his recommendation made last year that the sale of securities by real estate corporations be placed under adequate supervision and examination by the State Banking Department.

The status of several so-called real estate companies which have made a business of selling securities to the public has been called in question during the past year, he reports, and some efforts have been made by the department to improve conditions.

He further states that at the present time it is impossible to determine whether a corporation is simply borrowing money for the purpose of properly developing its real estate, or if the sale of its bonds is the only purpose for which it was organized.

Need for Reform.

The recent failure of a large New York real estate corporation should focus public attention upon the need for reform in the sale of real estate bonds. The liabilities for bond issues of this parent company and its subsidiaries reached the enormous total of nearly $3,000,000. These bonds were unsecured and the bondholders face a serious loss.

The fault in this instance would seem to lie in the total lack of protection provided for investors who have shared in the success or non-success of the ventures, with no recourse in case of failure, no reserves to fall back upon.

Investors themselves are much to blame for their own losses. The unquestioned value of real estate has led to the wrongful assumption that the numerous securities offered in the name of real estate are all of equal merit—simply distinctive as to name—whereas they really represent decided differences in worth, with the interest rates usually increasing in exact ratio to the speculative risk or decreasing protection afforded the purchaser.

While it is true that many persons have reaped returns from speculative real estate bonds, the risk should be well understood when the purchase is made. There would be few losses in this field if investors would base their buying judgment, not upon the exploited advantages of a security, but upon the scarcity of discoverable disadvantages.

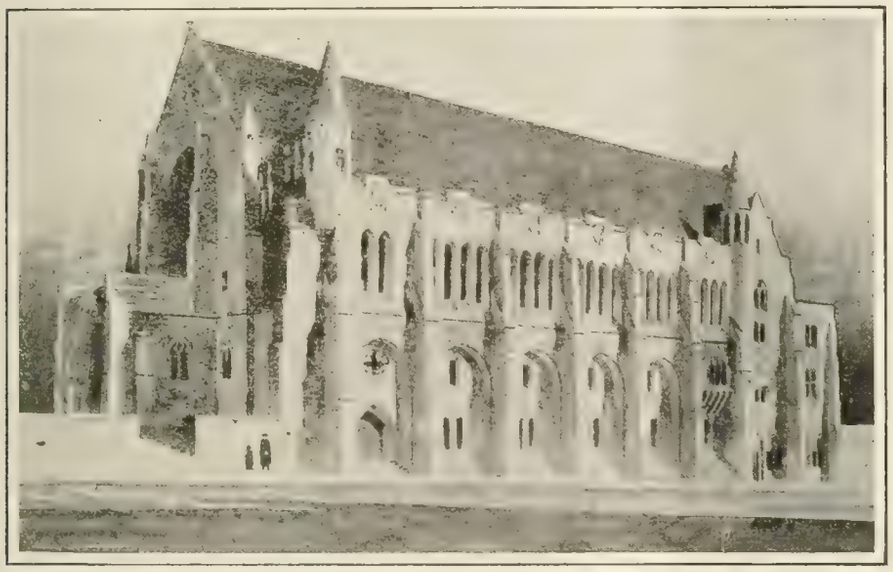
Unsecured Promises.

Many so-called real estate bonds are simply unsecured promises to pay with no real estate backing at all. Many are issued against second mortgages. Others are secured by first mortgages, but not all of these are guaranteed by adequate reserves. It may not be generally known that guaranteed first mortgage securities issued under the State banking laws are now obtainable by those who appreciate the difference between a secured first mortgage investment at a moderate rate and an unsecured so-called real estate security at a high rate. It is simply a case of preferring safety at as high a rate as goes with safety to the risk involved in purchasing unsecured bonds at higher interest rates.

Mr. Van Tuyl's recommendations will doubtless not be opposed by those institutions making a practice of providing the utmost protection available for purchasers of their securities.

—Freeholder Borough, of Monmouth County, is considering the subject of equipping its fire department with motor-driven apparatus.

FOR DIOCESAN CONVENTIONS.



The Great Hall at Synod House Will Be Richly Panelled in Oak.

The Synod House for the Diocese of New York will contain a great hall to be used for diocesan conventions, public meetings, etc. It will be richly panelled in oak up to and including narrow galleries along the sides, and deep galleries at either end. The ceiling will be of very rich open timber construction, decorated in color. There will be an organ at one end of great power and volume.

The main entrance is from the corner of Amsterdam avenue and Cathedral Parkway by means of a stone vaulted vestibule. Below the Synod Hall will be an undercroft of the same size, entirely vaulted in masonry and following somewhat the lines of similar work at Mont St. Michael. This will be used for banquets as well as for meetings, etc. There will also be a large number of committee rooms and conference rooms.

The exterior walls are of rich yellow color, the material being West Virginia stone from the Kingwood quarries. The scheme of sculpture decoration of the exterior will be very complete and elaborate, but the details have not as yet been decided upon. This sculpturing will be largely concentrated around the west porch and west elevation. On the north side facing the Cathedral close there will be an open-air pulpit.

The style is the simplest form of early transitional Gothic, based on those models which are found throughout France, Spain and England, and before the style differentiated itself to any great degree amongst the different nationalities. Cram, Goodhue & Ferguson are the architects.

the general body will be taken when this committee is heard from. Allan Robinson, the president, has in the meantime expressed his personal views by saying that he feels that a tax could be more properly placed on personality to relieve real property.

The list of organizations which can be counted upon to oppose an unearned increment tax on real estate includes the following principal bodies:

Real Estate Board of Brokers of the City of New York.
Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers.
Real Estate Exchange of Long Island.
Allied Real Estate Interests.
Realty League.
Seventh Avenue Association.
North Side Board of Trade.
East Tremont Taxpayers' Association.
Harlem Property Owners' Association.
House and Real Estate Owners' Association of the 10th, 11th and 17th Wards.
Real Estate Owners' Protective Association of the 12th and 22d Wards.
Taxpayers' Association of the 18th and 21st Wards.
Greater New York Taxpayers' Association.
South Bronx Property Owners' Association.
Kingsbridge Taxpayers' Association.

General Expressions.

"The proposition of the Mayor's committee for a further general tax on real estate was surely not in the direction where the committee was appointed to work," was the way it was put by a representative of Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association.

"Taking conditions as they exist, the ingenuity of the human mind could not devise a scheme more onerous to and more destructive of the values of real estate than to impose upon it an unearned increment tax, unless absolute confiscation were proposed."—William H. Chesebrough.

"Real estate already is doing more than its fair share. We are told that, of the revenues collected by New York City, real estate furnishes 77 per cent. of the total. In Chicago the realty contribution is 42 per cent.; in Paris 3-10 of 1 per cent.; in Vienna it is even less, and Berlin is charged less than 9 per cent. Why is New York so penalized?"—Herman De Selding.

"The suggested unearned increment tax I believe is unfair, as being double taxation, under our present circumstances of assessment. We assess on the selling or speculative value of the land, and as the price goes up and the tax assessor follows that price very closely, we now pay a tax on the unearned increment. To add a special increment tax amounting to, it is estimated, 12½ per cent. of the rent from such added value, does not seem good judgment, but a grave error."—E. A. Tredwell, President Real Estate Board of Brokers of New York City.

"I think it is a crime to place further burdens on real estate. There are many other methods by which needed revenue may be raised. Real estate is now so burdened that property is selling every day in the auction and at private sale at from 25 per cent. to 40 per cent. less than its assessed value. It is to be hoped that real estate is not to go through an agitation such as that which the financial interests are experiencing through the Pujo Committee."—Herbert A. Sherman.

A NEW PLAZA PROPOSED.

To Connect the Manhattan Bridge with the New Civic Center.

Henry M. Toch, of the firm of Toch Brothers, paint manufacturers, has written to Mayor Gaynor with reference to making a large wide avenue that would connect the beautiful plaza to be built at the entrance to Manhattan Bridge with the new civic center at the Court House and extending on to the City Hall.

"We would then have a thoroughfare," says Mr. Toch, "the effect of which would be not alone to enhance the real estate values in a section that has long been dormant, for new and modern buildings would be erected there, but it would also make the civic center a part of this Manhattan Bridge approach, and would give us breathing space and a beauty spot worthy of the imperial city."

In the last annual report of the Chief Engineer of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, the following reference is made to the plan for the new civic center:

"Perhaps the most notable undertaking which the city has ever attempted in the direction of a betterment of the city plan, including provision for the convenient and effective grouping of public buildings, is that provided for in the report of the committee on new court house site in the Borough of Manhattan, which report was adopted by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

"Not only will this plan furnish an adequate site for the new court house, but if carried out in its entirety it will also be virtually an extension of City Hall Park, to be surrounded by buildings of a dignified character and to have suitable connection with both Brooklyn Bridge and Manhattan Bridge."

New York Men Prominent in the Tax Conference.

Two hundred delegates were in attendance at the third State Conference on Taxation which was in session at Binghamton Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week. E. E. Woodbury, of Jamestown, former chairman of the State Tax Commission, called the conference to order. Thomas F. Byrnes, of Brooklyn, chairman of the State Tax Commission, was elected chairman of the conference, and Edward L. Heydecker, of New York, secretary.

Mayor John J. Irving welcomed the delegates.

Among the speakers were Lawson Purdy, A. C. Pleydell, Frances M. Whitney, Prof. J. F. Johnson, E. A. Tredwell, Dr. Abraham Korn, Charles T. White, Michael Kingsley, all of New York.

Confident of the Future.

(By Robert E. Dowling.)

On the whole, it looks as if 1913 would be a most important year for us all, and it may prove to be one of the best we have seen since 1906. It would be very interesting, indeed, if we knew now what it would be like. Those of us who have been through the past twenty-five years of the market have the most faith and confidence in the future.

—The first asphalt pavement of any quantity in this country was laid in 1877 on Pennsylvania avenue, in Washington, and since that time it has been in general use all over the country.

DOWNTOWN OFFICE BUILDINGS.

The Manager's Duties—Planning the Building—Scrutiny of Tenants—Walls and Partitions—Maintaining Adequate Service.

By JOEL S. De SELDING.

IT is now an established fact that the duties of an office building manager generally begin with the excavating for the foundations. Leases are very frequently made before title is taken to the property, and it is expected that manager, owner and architects will cooperate one with the other. No matter how well versed the architect may be in modern building construction, there are always some points regarding rentability of space which only the building manager knows, while the architect does not, and he must contribute to the latter's knowledge the benefits of his highly specialized information. The average architect thinks first of beauty in design and is frequently willing to sacrifice utility to a certain extent in order to carry out this idea. The manager must frequently act as a check on the architect's ambitions. He must also be able to show the owner the proper rent-giving qualities, and by his knowledge of maintenance expenses keep the cost of the projected building to a figure which will make possible an adequate net return on the investment.

The arrangement of offices, the position of elevators and the distribution of windows are all important rent-producing factors, and exterior design, with beautiful halls and entrances, will not produce income if the first named features are neglected.

Must Know the District.

The manager must know thoroughly the district in which his building is to be located, must study the rental rates in the neighborhood and must foresee what class of tenants are likely to be induced to enter the building. In the old financial district this was not a difficult matter to determine, but the rapid changes of the last few years have made foresight in this respect a very important factor. The last few years have witnessed a remarkable expansion in building activity and have produced extraordinary changes in trade centers. Where formerly tall office buildings were confined almost wholly to the southern end of the island, to-day they are found as far north as 59th street; and the first question the manager must ask himself on assuming charge of a new operation is, "What class of tenants is most likely to inhabit the structure?"

Play for the Leaders.

Certain buildings are frequently known to attract certain lines of business, and if the conditions are carefully analyzed it will generally be found that the manager was skillful enough to procure the leaders in these certain lines as tenants before the building was completed. Some lines, such as diamond dealing and architecture, especially desire good north light, and where this can be obtained in abundance it makes a very good talking point in securing such tenants. Other trades desire proximity to the post office or some other activity connected with their regular business. A great public convenience like a big railroad terminal is a very strong determining factor, both as to tenants and as to rent per square foot, while large public buildings, like court houses, the City Hall or the Register's office, are sure to draw certain tenants to the immediate neighborhood.

Should Know What Things Cost.

Determining in advance the details and cost of maintenance are very important features of a building manager's duties, and a thorough knowledge of what it costs to equip, man and clean a building is essential. Help of all kinds, from engineers to scrubwomen, must be considered and their number and kind determined largely by the sort of service the building intends to offer; and this latter frequently determines the class of tenants. The manager must know the cost of each kind of help and must know the minimum wage that can be paid for the kind of service expected. Upkeep and repairs must be nicely figured and features which tend to increase maintenance cost should be eliminated. Exterior brasswork on a building may be very ornamental, but the porter service necessary to keep it in presentable condition may prove to be a considerable addition to the weekly payroll. The kind of plant to be installed should be given the most careful thought, as the cost of coal is one of the largest single maintenance items in a building, and a wise manager is often able to save an owner thousands of dollars a year by his suggestions in this respect.

As to Structural Ornamentation.

It must not necessarily follow, however, that a manager can have no eye for artistic effects. A good exterior does affect rents, and interior ornamentation frequently attracts tenants. The most important part of the exterior is the first few stories and the entrance, and in most cases elaborate architectuural effects on the upper portion of a tall building are a useless waste of resources, as they are entirely non-productive. To some structures, such as the Singer Building and the Metropolitan Tower, this criticism does not apply, as these buildings are designed primarily as the homes of the owning companies, and a certain amount of cost for extraordinary structural ornamentation can be charged off to advertising. This advertising value applies not only to the business of the company, but also to the business of getting tenants, as it undoubtedly is desirable for some tenants to be located in a building known the world over.

Guard Your Building's Good Name.

This fact, however, brings up another consideration to the manager, and that is the careful scrutiny of tenants. The tenant shares to a certain extent in the reputation of the building, and thus it is that we frequently see fraudulent mail-order houses and dishonest stock-selling concerns located in buildings of national repute. One of the best assets a high-class office building can have is a reputation for never housing tenants of doubtful reputation. The mere ability to pay rent is by no means the only consideration in taking a tenant, as some of the worst frauds will willingly pay more than honest concerns and make it a point to pay rent with great promptitude so that they can get a clean bill of health from the landlord when they see fit to give him as a reference.

After a tenant is secured the manager is often called upon to assist the tenant in laying out his office and arranging partitions in an economical and at the same time artistic fashion. A wise manager will guide the tenant away from peculiar arrangements of partitions, as this often saves ripping out of partitions after the tenant has left the building. Painted walls are much more sanitary and cleanly than those covered with paper or burlap, and the tenant should be persuaded against using these latter wherever possible. In course of time the manager comes to know what interior colors are best adapted to certain businesses and will always advise their use. For general office purposes a light buff is a very satisfactory color, as it lightens up a room, is easily kept clean and does not tire the eye. A good stippled wall painted in this color can be washed down at any time and will remain sightly for a number of years. A single fresh coat will often suffice for an incoming tenant where the walls have been so treated; and this is a repair item worth considering. This color, however, would be absolutely fatal for an office intended for occupancy by a jeweler or dealer in precious stones.

Adequate Service.

One of the most important items in modern office building management is the maintenance of adequate service, and the manager must strive to lessen in all possible ways inconvenience or loss of time to tenants. The success of the various tenants is important to a building, as they will generally stay on from year to year if they succeed and quickly move if they fail. The manager should therefore see that everything possible is done to aid their success, and should at all times be willing to listen to reasonable suggestions for increased efficiency.

Good elevator service is a great asset to a building, and a good reputation in this respect will bring many tenants unsolicited to an office building. The manager should insist on courteous treatment of tenants and their visitors by all employees of the building, and particularly by hallmen and elevator runners. He should also insist that his runners be careful and sober men. A careless elevator operator is a menace to safety and will disturb a tenant quicker than almost anything else. In like manner the manager should see that the offices are thoroughly cleaned and that the work of the porters and scrub-women is carefully watched. The superintendent should be instructed to visit each office at least every other day, and in this way keep track of the cleaners' work. Wherever possible the manager should make friends with his tenants and let them understand that he desires their co-operation in maintaining a high standard of efficiency, and should always be careful not to promise that which he does not intend to perform. If he agrees to make repairs, he should see that they are made; if the repairs can not be made, he should say so at once and not attempt to "bluff." He should, in other words, as far as possible establish a reputation for regarding his tenants' interests as personal, and while safeguarding the owner's interests lead the tenants to know that theirs are always protected.

Signs of Inefficiency.

The first and foremost evidence of inefficiency in an office, machine shop, factory, workroom or office building is the volume of noise created therein. Noise is the result of careless work and slipshod management. Noise is also a positive evidence that everybody is not working in unison or rhythm. In other words, noise is confused sound and confused sound is energy wasting. A noisy elevator is the first indication that it is out of order. Therefore, it is one of the surest proof that a building is well conducted when the little things as well as the big things in its upkeep are in good working order. A loose fire shutter that flops in the wind, a disconnected thermostat, a loose door hinge, or a rattly elevator gate indicates inefficient management on the general principle that if the little things are not attended to larger ones are also neglected.

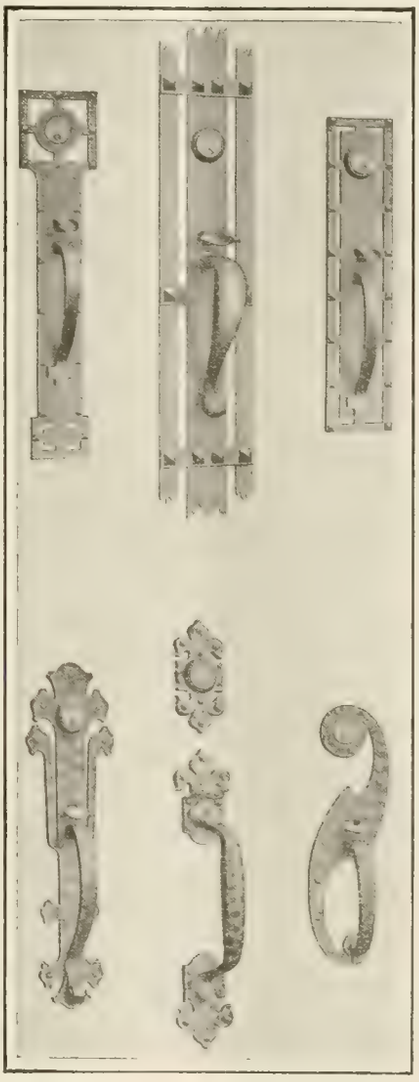
Doors That Stick.

Doors that stick are out of true. Sometimes conditions do not warrant hanging a new door to relieve the trouble. Correction of this fault can frequently be made by attaching strain bars from the lower outside corner to the inside top corner diagonally across the face of the door. When a turnbuckle is put in the center so that it can be lightened or loosened when occasion demands, the door will not drag. This is desirable on fireproof doors which have become out of plumb and which are supposed to automatically close tight, but do not.

The Burned Clay Tile.

One sees much more burned clay in floor tiling now than formerly. There is both beauty and service qualities about the burned clay tile that appeal. We meet with attractive color tones in both dining-room and kitchens, as well as on porches and in the back yards of city houses.

New York City owns 250 parcels of unimproved property, the estimated value of which is between $12,000,000 and $14,000,000, according to a computation made by the Merchants' Association. More than $3,000,000 worth of this property is held for future use by the Board of Education. Seventeen parcels are held by the city on long-term leaseholds.



Until quite recently there was no known method of effectively soldering aluminum. There is now a solder on the market, made by William Dixon, Inc., of 39 John street, which will solder aluminum to aluminum. No flux is required.

Bungalow Door Handles.

Sargent & Company, of New Haven and 94 Centre street, New York City, are putting on the market some new types of door handles for special use in bungalows. The general type of door handle will be found to correspond nicely with the general style of bungalow, and especial attention is given in this respect to the entrance door fittings. Five new styles have been introduced so far and are suitable for use in bungalows and in houses of the craftsman or mission styles. They are finished with polish or sand finished on bronze and brass. Inquiry directed to Sargent & Co. will bring the information desired.

A Toncan Metal Terne Plate.

This plate is made with a base of Toncan metal because it makes possible perfect amalgamation that takes place between the Toncan metal base and good rich coating. After the coating is applied by the several processes of dipping, brushing and re-dipping, they are cleaned by hand and the final product is a terne plate combining all the durability, all the coating perfection and more ductility than was possessed by the terne plates of the old English and Welsh iron masters. This is the process for No. 1 ternes. No. 2 ternes have exactly the same quality of coating—oil finish, the same care of manufacture, and it has just as pure, but not so heavy, a coating as the No. 1 plate. It has, however, a heavier coating than it was customary to use on the famous old-time Welsh and English plates. It is redipped and cleaned and is designed to meet the demand for a reliable, durable roofing tin at a conservative price.

The Toncan metal terne plates are now ready for shipment—only waiting to have the name and copyrighted brand stamped on each plate in accordance with the law. Distribution will begin by January first.

Why Hard Coal Does Not Smudge.

Will you be kind enough to inform me why soft coal emits smudgy black smoke and anthracite does not?

Answer.—Anthracite or hard coal contains about 90 per cent. carbon, while soft coal contains only about 70 per cent. and is rich in hydro-carbon gases, which are non-combustible.

Renewing Elevator Cables.

What is the best method of ascertaining when a cable in elevator service should be changed on account of wear, and which is the harder on an elevator cable, the load or the speed?

Answer.—An elevator cable that has seven strands cracked or fractured is considered unsafe to use. It is the load on the cable and its constant bending while passing over the pulleys that presents the heaviest wear. Speed is not an important element in the wear on an elevator cable.

Lifting Water by Pump.

To what height is it possible for a pump to lift water?

Answer.—A pump, under favorable conditions, will lift water 83 feet. In other words, water may be lifted only to a height corresponding to the normal air pressure upon its surface made by the vacuum in the pump itself. Water may be pumped to an indefinite height by applying compressed air to its surface in exact proportion to the height to which it is to be pumped, plus atmospheric pressure to be overcome.

Area of Contact Brushes.

I am desirous of knowing the proper contact area of the brushes of a dynamo or motor.

Answer.—The area of contact depends largely on the material of which they are composed. The width at point of contact should be so that they will not come in contact with more than three segments of a commutator at a time.

Selecting a Dynamo.

We are building a factory which will be illuminated by about 500 incandescent lamps and quite a number of enclosed arcs. The machine power is to be individual motor drive. What would be your suggestion as to type of dynamo, whether shunt or compound wound?

Answer.—A factory with individual motor drive will have a varying load. In a shunt wound dynamo the voltage changes with the load, while in a compound wound dynamo the voltage remains constant with the change of load, so that a compound wound dynamo would be the better to install.

Getting Proper Combustion.

Is it necessary to admit air both under and above fuel in order to get proper combustion?

Answer.—No; the best way to burn coal is by admitting air under the grates. The air passes up through the coal and comes in contact with the gases of combustion.

The Monthly Bulletin of the Real Estate Owners' Protection Association of the Twelfth and Twenty-second Wards asks: "Why should this city permit a Public Service Commission to sell $170,000,000 of bonds without competition, when the property of the city is involved, and the law expressly forbids such sale of public securities?" The editor of the Bulletin might answer this poser by applying for an injunction to stop the impending act.

The novel idea originating with Joseph P. Day of publishing certified statements of incomes in auction announcements seems to have met with a cordial response from investors. Possibly it may bring notable returns not only to its author but to the entire branch of business in which he is an acknowledged leader. The auction room might have been a more important factor in real estate buying, if auctioneers had not in the past been concerned too much about the interests of sellers and too little about those of purchasers.

The Real Estate Board of Brokers, in a communication to the State Factory Commission, called attention to the importance of placing the responsibility for the enforcement of regulations pertaining to factories upon the persons in direct control of the matters to be regulated—upon owners of buildings for regulations relating to buildings and upon tenants for regulations affecting their employees and premises. The tendency of recent legislation has been to hold the landlord to account for both the morals and the manners of tenants, but it does seem too much to expect him to enforce sanitary and other proper habits in premises to which he has no right of entry.

Absurdity of the Subway Opposition.

At the present writing the subway situation has not been essentially changed. Governor Sulzer has not definitely committed himself, but the indications are that he intends to side-step the whole matter. That is, he will allow Mr. Willcox to hold over for so long an interval that the contracts can be signed. It would be very extraordinary, in case he dared to assume the responsibility of blocking the decision of the New York local administration and the very general approval of local public opinion. During the past two weeks there has been a great uprising all over the city on behalf of the Dual System. There is not a responsible business organization in the city that has declared against it; and the great majority of such organizations have declared vigorously in its favor. Many non-partisan civic organizations, such as the Citizens' Union and the City Club, are also exerting their influence on its behalf. It should have received a much more emphatic endorsement from the organizations interested in social reform than has actually been the case, because when the contracts are signed there will have been instituted the most far-reaching and effective scheme of social legislation that has ever been operated in this city.

The only opponents of the Dual System are two newspapers, one of which is prompted by a bitter personal hostility towards Mayor Gaynor and some loose ends of public opinion, which prefers a municipal subway system, no matter how much such a system will cost the people of New York. There can be no question as to which end of the alternative a sensible and disinterested public servant would take. It is not an issue between popular and corporate interests. The contracts have drawn from the two railroad companies every possible concession, and in obtaining advantageous terms for the city go far beyond anything that could have been anticipated a few years ago. They bind the companies hand and foot. They commit the city also to very large responsibilities, but these obligations are the cost which the city cannot avoid paying for the benefits received. The city is arranging for a subway system which will for the first time in twenty-five years adequately meet its transit needs and provide for the beneficial distribution of its population. The necessary money cannot be obtained on any better terms; and, while these terms are onerous, their onerous character is more than outbalanced by the social and economic advantages of the construction of a really comprehensive system of rapid transit.

The developments of the past week have clearly brought out the utterly unsatisfactory character of the alternative which the opponents of the Dual System have to offer. If the present plan should fail, the city would have to go it alone and begin the creation with its own resources of a new system. This new system would be wholly independent of all existing means of transit, and every passenger who wished to reach a destination, accessible most conveniently by any existing subway or elevated road would be obliged to pay two fares. Constructed as it would be exclusively by the city its range would be limited by the city's power to raise money, and this limitation would mean that the lines that would be immediately constructed would have to be cut in half.

Indeed the city would be obliged to return to the old Tri-borough system, and even this impoverished plan of construction would have to be decidedly reduced or else spread out over a series of many years.

Much of the proposed new construction in the Bronx, Queens and Brooklyn would have to be indefinitely postponed or else constructed out of the proceeds of local assessments. The Seventh avenue extension and the Broadway line north of 14th street would have to be abandoned. The middle and lower West Side of Manhattan would have to wait for any additional means of communication until the city was prepared to construct an entirely new West Side line. The proposed new routes for that part of the city have no meaning, except in connection with the Interborough or the Brooklyn Rapid Transit systems. The whole plan is absurd. It would mean the indefinite continuation of the prevailing congestion. It would mean an impoverished municipal treasury, stationary real estate values, an inconvenient and costly system of communication, the denial of access to comparatively cheap land to the citizens of New York and the prospect of still heavier taxation without the compensation of increased economic resources.

And for all these disadvantages what would the city gain? Well! it would gain the pleasure of preventing J. P. Morgan & Co. from making a few million dollars in brokerage charges on the raising of the $170,000,000 borrowed by the Interborough company. It would gain the inestimable advantage of diminishing the profits which the Interborough company makes out of its existing contract with the city, and of eventually being able to bottle up and possibly ruin that corporation. These advantages may look sufficient to politicians and newspapers who would rather do injury to a corporation and a financier than do good to the mass of their fellow-citizens. But they cannot make any appeal to a disinterested and intelligent public servant.

Condemnation of the Increment Tax.

The letters and interviews which have been printed during the past few weeks in relation to the proposed increment tax make one fact sufficiently plain; it has been universally condemned by the real estate interests of Greater New York. The proposal, made by the committee on congestion, to lighten the burden of taxation on improvements and to increase the burden of taxation on ground values found more advocates among the real estate interests of this city than has the increment tax. It is of course natural that this opposition should arise, because the owners of real estate are those who would have to pay the tax. On the other hand, the friends of the increment tax should not infer that the opposition of the owners of real estate is unjustified because it is not disinterested. They must remember what the prevailing situation is in respect to taxation. For some six years a steady increase in taxation has been taking place, which has been sufficient to transfer to the city almost all the increase in real estate values, which have accrued during that interval. The consequence is that real estate values have been almost stationary.

There have been some increases in a few favored sections, but in all probability they have been fully balanced by the decreases which have taken place elsewhere. The consequences have been very injurious to real estate interests. The owners of real property have been accustomed to the gradual appreciation of the ground values of their holdings. In their systems of accounting the increase in ground value has usually been expected to balance or more than balance the depreciation in the value of the buildings. If this increase in ground value is to disappear or to be very much diminished hereafter they will have to modify their whole system of accounting. They will have to charge off a certain proportion of their current rentals, which will diminish the book value of their properties. If the recent increase in taxation continues, something of this kind will happen, and the result will be a complete upsetting of municipal finance as well. Municipal finance is based upon the expectation of increased revenues from a steady increase in the assessed valuation of real estate, and if the value of real estate remains stationary or diminishes, the necessarily augmenting expenses of the city can be met only by still further augumenting the burden of taxation upon existing real estate values. Thus, the whole scheme of municipal finance is involved in a vicious circle, of which the manifest result of a constantly growing burden of taxation will be the progressive appropriation by the city of the property, on which taxation is being levied.

The Mayor's commission was appointed to meet precisely this situation. The expectation of real estate owners was that the commission would suggest additional sources of taxation, which would relieve real estate from the apprehension of the gradual appropriation of the value of their property. Instead of so doing, the commission merely suggested another real estate tax. It merely proposed to take away from the real estate owner a share of that future increase in value, upon which the taxpayers were depending to meet their future obligations. Whatever the value of the increment tax under ordinary conditions, it is evident that under the conditions now prevailing in New York, its imposition would be an experiment which would be more likely to add to the difficulties of the situation than to alleviate them.

THE WEEK IN REAL ESTATE.

The real estate market this week was productive of some interesting transactions. Aside from the fact whether the sales were voluminous or not the fact remains that they were numerous so far as their importance was concerned. The southwest corner of Broadway and 21st street, which was long held by Henry Corn as a site for a notable improvement, passed into the hands of Franklin Pettit and within a few months it is very likely that more uptown modern office space will be found on this site. The news columns of the newspapers gave all the particulars about the history of this property so it is unnecessary to reiterate them here. The completion of the assembling of an important plot in 32d street, within 100 feet of Fifth avenue, as a site for a large office building was another sale of moment to the market and marks another step in the abolition of dwellings near 5th avenue. The sale of the new mercantile building at 345 to 349 West 40th street indicates that investors are in the market for good holdings. There was wide scope to the dealing in Harlem, the sales ranging from block fronts for improvement to corner lots and tenements, also a large apartment house at Broadway and 125th street. Dwellings close to Fifth avenue were also in good demand, notable among them being the residence of the late Henry H. Rogers, of the Standard Oil Company. The Dyckman tract has not lost interest for the buyer inasmuch as several parcels there also changed hands.

The Bronx was the scene of some good dealing, while Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond dropped some good sales into the basket of activity. Brooklyn is very much in the limelight at this time consequent on the agitation over subways for it; and, whether it gets all the subway routes it seeks or not the borough and its advantages are being well advertised.

We commend to the perusal of our readers the remarks of Frank Bailey regarding Brooklyn investments, which were made at the dinner of the Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers last Saturday. Inasmuch as the author of them is an important official of a large title company his remarks carry considerable weight. They are remindful of what Mayor Gaynor told a Manhattan audience some months ago when it asked him why he did not remove into Manhattan. He retorted that Manhattan was not the whole of the City of New York and that as a residential center it was becoming a less important quantity. Mr. Bailey's remarks would seem to emphasize the Mayor's opinion.

Bolton Hall on Land Taxation.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

In regard to the Mayor's Commission's proposal Mr. Bruere says:

"* * * If the increase is due in part, as real estate operators will claim, to 'farsightedness in investment,' to 'frugality,' to 'prudence' and to other qualities which have enriched many traders in real estate and impoverished others, then the increment tax penalizes enterprise and unjustly discriminates against the man who makes his investment in real estate after 1912, the year taken as the basis for determining the valuations upon which the increment is to be figured."

In view of the fact, as shown in Mr. G. B. Fillebrown's "Handbook of Taxation," that land value is an untaxed value because any tax on it depreciates the property, and is therefore considered in the price that the purchaser pays, it would seem that the discrimination is rather in favor of the man who makes his investment in land after 1912, and would therefore encourage dealing in real estate.

This would be in the interest of the brokers and probably of all dealers in real estate. I think it would help me as a vendor.

Most of the confusion in the discussion of this tax is due to the persistent and apparently intentional mixing-up of a "real estate" tax and a "land value" tax. The commission does not propose to tax real estate, but only a part of the real estate, namely, land value. If you would insist upon your correspondents saying which they mean, it would clear the atmosphere wonderfully.

BOLTON HALL.

Sales of Buildings Taken in Condemnation Proceedings.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

The following information is given you regarding the sales of buildings within the lines of streets taken in condemnation proceedings. Section 1553 of the Charter provides as follows:

"The property sold (other than land under water) shall be sold at public auction under previous public notice. * * * The proceeds of all sales made under and by virtue of this act shall, except as herein otherwise specially provided, be by the officer receiving the same, immediately deposited with the Chamberlain."

This money goes into the general fund of the city for the reduction of taxation. The property owners within the area of assessment must pay by assessment for the buildings taken. The general city fund gets the proceeds of the sales while the nearby property owners pay the damages. I have prepared a bill to be introduced into the Legislature providing that the proceeds of such sales shall be credited to the proceeding, so as to lessen the amount of the assessments.

Complaint has been made that the owners of buildings are compelled to run the risk of outside bidders competing with them for the houses in which they are interested. Section 205 of the Charter provides that prior to the confirmation of the report of the commissioners of estimate or prior to the purchase of the premises upon which buildings or parts of buildings or other structures are erected, or prior to the vesting of title therein, the Sinking Fund Commissioners may agree with the owner of the building or the person entitled to the award as to the cost and compensation to be allowed and paid for the removal of the structures as the compensation to be awarded by the commissioners or allowed for the damage done. By this it may be seen that the owner may purchase his house from the Sinking Fund Commissioners by private agreement, if he does not wish to run the risk of competing with outside bidders. If owners refuse to avail themselves of this privilege, in the hope of obtaining an award larger than the amount which they may need to pay to buy back the same structure, they must take the risk of outside bidders.

On New Sources of Revenue.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

The report of the commission appointed by Mayor Gaynor on new sources of revenue, recommending a tax on the unearned increment in real estate values is meeting with opposition everywhere. It would be difficult to determine with any degree of accuracy or justice what property should be taxed under this head. The city's assessors determine the valuation each year for taxable purposes and even now they increase the assessed valuation when there has been no increase—and often a decrease—in marketable value. And inasmuch as the efforts of the Tax Department must be bent toward raising sufficient funds to meet the expenses of the city government, the incentive to over-assessment would, if that increase itself were made an extra source of revenue, be still greater. Some time since I protested to President Purdy against an increased assessment and he told me my property had increased in value, when the fact was I couldn't sell it for what I gave for it and had to reduce the rent $5 a month.

The need of the city is not revenue but decreased expenses. The excessive taxes are driving manufacturing and other industries out of the city. There are too many office holders living at the expense of the thrifty who invest their savings in real estate. There is needless and expensive duplication of work. The Bureau of Buildings, the Tenement House Department and the Fire Prevention Bureau are examples of this. If they were consolidated, at least a million a year would be saved to the taxpayers and a more efficient service rendered.

Three million dollars was recently appropriated for repaving. Much of this is wasted in needless repaving of already well paved streets, on the false theory that, as it comes out of the entire city, the particular section affected is getting something for nothing. The same board which appropriates the city's money should not have charge of its expenditure. The present system of appropriation in which each Borough President has a voice is largely responsible for the excessive increase year after year, because each Borough President supports the other in his demands upon the city treasury lest his own demands may not in turn receive support, and in consequence there is seldom a voice against extravagance or in favor of economy in the Board of Estimate.

If the Mayor would appoint a committee to determine what economies could be effected in the city government without impairing its administrative efficiency, he would be rendering a real service.

If new sources of revenue are to be sought, it should be for the purpose of relieving the excessive share which real estate now bears of the burden of government. It is the enterprise of the men who own property and erect buildings which has made New York City what it is. Yet the thrifty who invest their money in real estate in New York City are punished for it, while those who invest their funds in better paying propositions escape taxation, though they receive the same benefits and protection from the city government. New York City has a population of over 5,000,000, yet only about 100,000 are land owners. Why should two per cent. of the population bear 83 per cent. of the cost of government?

The present city government was elected as a protest against the $163,000,000 budget of the McClellan administration and on a platform pledged to efficiency and economy, yet in three years the budget has leaped t $193,000,000. And, in addition, property owners have been put to four or five millions of additional expense to carry out Borough President McAneny's idea as to what distance building projections may or may not extend; he saying one thing, the ordinances another.

It is time for the taxpayers of New York City to combine in an effective working organization, to secure the nomination at the coming municipal election of men who will not regard the property owners as legitimate subjects for the exploitation of expensive projects and personal hobbies—men who will be in truth public servants after election as well as before—and amenable and responsive to those who pay their salaries. United, the property owners would constitute a force to be reckoned with, and perhaps wield the balance of power.

The Bronx, Jan. 29.

"Dolan's" To Move.

Wm. H. Whitney & Co. leased for a client to "Dolan" (Peter J. Meehan) the entire building at 120 Nassau street, between Ann and Beekman streets, for a term of 10 years. This famous restaurant has been on Park Row for 40 years; and is removing to the new address because the building on Park Row has been recently sold. The price was close to $10,000 a front foot.

—There can't be much doubt as to the kind of reception Borough President McAneny and Chairman Willcox, of the Public Service Commission, will have this evening as speakers at the dinner of the Real Estate Board of Brokers at the Waldorf-Astoria.

—The law enacted by the Legislature of 1911 increasing from $2,000 to $5,000 the amount of judgment the City Court of New York may render was declared unconstitutional by the Court of Appeals.

—To get 80-cent gas for Queens County is the object of the Citizens Improvement Association. Bills will be introduced in the Senate.

What the Five Cent Subway Will Do For Flushing.

Speaking before the Flushing Business Men's Association on last Monday evening, Joseph P. Day, discussed the proposed transit situation as applied to Flushing, from a real estate point of view.

"It means the breaking up of the old residential sites to accommodate the increase in population which is bound to flow in with the new transit facilities," he said. "The speculative builder will come forward and erect apartment houses where the Flushing residents were wont to see gardens and green lawns in front of old fashioned residences.

"As an illustration of the increase in values, allow me to cite the Borough of The Bronx. Before the 'L' service and the 5-cent fare came in, lots sold from $800 to $1200 and now they are up as high as $50,000. There is no reason why history should not repeat itself in a measure for your town."

BUILDING MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

Buying Movement Light This Week in All Departments—Prospective Builders Worried About Ability of Manufacturers to Make Shipments on Orders Already in—Metals Stiff—Lumber Steady, but Wholesalers are Well Stocked in Anticipation of Early Call from Retailers because of Open Weather Construction, in City and Suburbs.

PROSPECTIVE builders are showing considerable uneasiness about the state of supply with reference to early building operations this spring. The fact that reserve supplies have been found to be low at mills, and that the steel companies are unable to keep up with new business despite the new capacities blown in this week, are putting the consumer between two fires. If he delays going into the market he stands a good chance of meeting higher prices, and if he stays out he is liable to suffer prolonged delay in getting his supplies when he wants them.

An investigation of the metropolitan district building material market shows speculative movements have already begun. It is becoming more and more apparent that wholesalers have foreseen present conditions for some time, at least the condition of their yards indicate this fact. While mill stocks are reported to be low, stocks of lumber at wholesale points and dealers' stacks of brick are heavy. Iron and steel interests here are well stocked on standard shapes, and even Portland cement is either carried here in quantities larger than those carried last year at this time, or they have arranged for supplies in any quantity for delivery on short notice. In the brick department, for instance, dealers are carrying more than a hundred million more brick this January than they had on hand at the end of the first month of 1912.

The low levels at which linseed oil has been quoted for some time is beginning to have its effect upon the paint market, one important company having announced a reduction in its prices for paints. Lead has, for some time, been easier, and other chemicals entering into the manufacture of paints have tended toward more normal levels. There are reasons why a general reduction in paints, however, may not be expected just now.

There is a marked improvement in the building supply market. Pipe, lubricating oils, packing, rubber goods, coal, electrical equipment and wire departments are all busy and are reporting a demand that usually comes only in February and March. A part of this business is coming in from New Jersey, perhaps a larger proportion than usual, but the large quantity of desirable office space available downtown and the further fact that as the Woolworth building, the Municipal building and others, open their doors to new tenants, managers on the whole are taking more interest in pleasing their present tenants and are inclined to come into the market for supplies heavier than usual. So far the increased demand has not warranted a general price advance, although certain lines are stiffening. Mills supplying those commodities are not understocked.

Pig iron buyers are not quite as aggressively in the market as far as New York and New Jersey are concerned, because they want to test thoroughly the market before operating under last half deliveries. They are now feeling out the building and engineering fields before placing orders approximating 25,000 tons.

RIDING BRICK FROM STACKS.

Sales At Wholesale Dock Light, Probably Due to Wet Weather.

SALES of Hudson River common brick at the wholesale market was considerably restricted this week probably owing to wet weather. There is more activity reported in the Jersey market, however, transactions in Newark, for instance, running fairly well for the season. There is a tendency on the part of dealers to ride brick from stacks probably because they have tied up large sums in reserve brick for such a long time that it is a matter of wisdom to put this brick into circulation. This may account for the falling off in cargo sales at the wholesale dock.

Official transactions for North River brick during the last week with records covering the corresponding week last year, follow:

CURRENT STEEL ORDERS LIGHT.

Pressure Being Exerted on Steel Corporations By Independent Companies.

STRUCTURAL steel was not in its usual heavy demand this week owing to the general disposition on the part of prospective builders to hold off filing plans until they can be assured of better steel deliveries in this market. Many buildings half finished have gone under cover because the steel companies are unable to make deliveries that new builders have been inclined to come into the market with more than usual conservatism.

In the pig iron market foundry purchases are in better inquiry although one or two of the jobbing foundries in New Jersey, who have been in the market for gray, have temporarily withdrawn.

There is still a fair volume of business pending of which 25,000 tons are traceable in the East. Consumers are not disposed to close contracts for the second half of the year without thoroughly testing the market in all sections.

LUMBER BUYING LIGHT.

Prices Remain Firm Because Current Demand Is Keeping Dealers' Stocks Low.

THERE is no material change in the hardwood market and prices are holding very firm. There is plenty of good business in prospect and stocks for the most part are in strong hands. There is also very little reason to expect with the current and prospective demand that there will be any increase above normal supplies for the spring trade.

Spruce has been very strong for the past six months, and while there has been a little easing off in demand recently, the West Virginia mills are busy and prices are holding reasonably firm. Prospects indicate that the markets will readily absorb all spruce offerings for the first six months at good prices.

Yellow pine was practically advanced one dollar on all items January 1. There is a very large inquiry, but buyers appear to be slow in appreciating the conditions at manufacturing points, where it is harder to buy lumber than for months past. In addition to this the car shortage continues and heavy rains in some sections are hindering manufacture. Demand and inquiry for yellow pine from all parts of the country is giving the manufacturers an opportunity to secure high prices, and it is evident that this condition will continue through the spring and summer, in view of which a very strong yellow pine market is anticipated.

Hemlock is firm at the $23.50 base. The demand has eased off slightly during the fortnight, as a result of which stocks at the mills have increased slightly. The general feeling prevails the spring will see still higher prices for this commodity.

In North Carolina pine prices are firm and the outlook excellent for a good spring demand. At manufacturing points labor and other problems incident to manufacturing indicate that difficulties will be experienced in any effort to stimulate manufacture. As to existing conditions governing manufacture and orders, reports from nineteen mills indicate that rough stock was oversold about 31,000,000 feet and dressed stock over 7,000,000 feet. There was no surplus reported in any grades of dressed stock and only a small surplus on four grades of rough stock, while the cut for the period reported upon in the aggregate was over one million feet more than was actually shipped. Stocks on hand are only nominal.

U. S. LUMBER OUTPUT.

Cut for 1911 Shows More Than 37,000,000 Feet Converted Into Building Sizes.

COMPARISON of the lumber cut in the United States for the years 1911, 1910, and 1909 in units of thousand feet board measure has been compiled by the Director of Census at Washington. According to the statistics prepared by the Chief Statistician Incorporation with the Forest Service the report shows a production for 1911 of a little over thirty-seven billion feet, a decrease of about three billion as compared with 1910, seven billion less than 1909 and four billion more than 1908. The 1911 report represented advices from 23,107 mills; 1910, 31,934 mills; and 1909, 48,112 mills.

Because of the discrepancies in the number of mills reporting each year and the fact that the cut of many mills of all sizes were unavailable; also that no record is given of the number of mills cut and the number now in operation, the value of the figure is problematical.

As a general guide, however, the figures presented are of value by way of comparison in the production of the various kinds of lumber as represented in the various states as shown in the attached table.

Linseed Oil Climbing Upward—Petroleum Market Firm.

BECAUSE of the low range of linseed oil prices, the Joseph Dixon Crucible Co., of Jersey City, announces that the selling price of their silica-graphite has been reduced.

A new linseed oil card schedule issued this week showed an advance of two cents a gallon on domestic grades. The demand fell off slightly when it was found that there was no oil available for less than 46 cents. Current quotations on city raw American seed is 49 and 50; city boiled American seed 50 and 51; out of town raw American seed 48 and 49; raw Calcutta holds at 70.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of F. W. Devoe & C. T. Raynolds Co. will be held at the office of the company, 101 Fulton street, on Saturday, February 8, at 11 a. m., for the purpose of electing eight directors for the ensuing year.

Crude oil in barrels at well is quoted as follows: Pennsylvania, $2.19 per bbl. second sand, $2.05 per bbl., Tiona, $2.05 per bbl.; Mercer, black, $1.72 per bbl; Cabell, $1.79 per bbl.; North Lima, $1.28 per bbl.; South Lima, $1.23 per bbl.; Indiana, $1.20 per bbl.; Princeton, $1.08 per bbl.; Illinois, above 30 gravity, $1.11 per bbl.; Kansas and Oklahoma, 83c. per bbl., 30 gravity and above; Caddo, La., light, 88c. per bbl.; Caddo, La., heavy, 68c. per bbl.; Canada, $1.65 per bbl.; Somerset, $1.30 per bbl., 32 gravity and above.

Large 32d Street Plot Near 5th Avenue Was a Prominent Sale of the Week.

The real estate market throughout the greater city, during the week just ended, displayed good tone. In Manhattan some especially good transactions were closed, as our news column below will show. The Bronx was distinguished for the sale of large plots for improvement. In Brooklyn the dealing was well diversified, but the sale of dwellings was the predominating feature. Richmond is more prominent in the news column this week than usual. The Long Island City section of Queens seems to have again awakened to speculative and investment demand, and some good sales of plots for improvements of various kinds were made. Along the ocean front at Long Beach, just over the city line, two hotels were leased, one of them on the plans. Suburban and country sales were also substantial.

The number below 59th street was 14, against 11 last week and 8 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregated 23, compared with 20 last week and 20 a year ago.

From the Bronx 21 sales at private contract were reported, against 17 last week and 17 a year ago.

The amount involved in the Manhattan and Bronx auction sales this week was $638,108, compared with $1,102,791 last week, making a total since January 1 of $4,430,242. The figure for the corresponding week last year was $820,748, making the total from Jan. 1, 1912, $3,782,256.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

Manhattan—South of 59th Street.

STANTON ST.—Mrs. Esther Koppelman resold 80 Stanton st, a 5-sty tenement house, on a lot 21.3x65. This is the third transfer of the property within a month. The first sale was by auction, when it was bought in by Thornton F. Turner and others to protect their mortgage; and, they sold it to Mrs. Koppelman.

16TH ST.—The Duross Co. sold for Geo. Finck to the Childs Co., restaurateurs, the 3-sty building, on a lot 18x80, at 251 West 16th st. The buyer also owns 247 and 249, adjoining.

20TH ST.—Patrick Carroll sold 236 West 20th st, a 5-sty tenement house, with stores, on a plot 28x92. It is the first time the parcel has changed hands in 20 years.

20TH ST.—The estate of Mary Jane Stafford sold to Lewine & Kempner through A. A. Hagaman the 3-sty dwelling, on a lot 16.8x92, at 332 West 20th st.

27TH ST.—Marmac Construction Co. sold through Heil & Stern to Henry A. Falk the interior lot adjoining the building 158-164 West 27th st. Mr. Falk, who is executor of the estate of Mary Falk, owns the abutting property at 295 7th av. This squares the buyer's lot at the 7th av number mentioned.

32D ST.—Brody, Adler & Koch and Isidor Mishkind, doing business under the name of the Bradkin Realty Co., bought 2 and 4 West 32d st, two 4-sty and basement dwellings, on a plot 50x98.9, and adjoining the southwest corner of 5th av. The first mentioned number was bought from the estate of Maria Louisa Dehon and the second from Maria H. Dehon. No. 4 forms an L to 310 5th av, but the latter property is not embraced in the sale. The purchasing company also owns Nos. 6 and 8 West 32d st, and its total plot is now 100x98.9, on which it will erect an 18-sty mercantile building.

58TH ST.—John J. Clancy & Co. sold 333 and 335 West 58th st, two 4-sty dwellings, on a plot 42.10x100.5.

29TH ST.—Wm. J. Roome & Co. sold for Harry J. Washburn, as agent, 112 West 29th st, a 3-sty and basement dwelling, on a lot 20x89. The buyers are Reinthal & Newman, publishers of The House of Art, who own the adjoining property, from 104 to 110 inclusive. Their total plot is now 105x98.9.

40TH ST.—M. & L. Hess sold for the St. John's Park Realty Co. (James H. Cruikshank and William D. Kilpatrick) to George B. Leonard the new 8-sty fireproof mercantile building at 345 to 349 West 40th st, between 8th and 9th avs, size 45x98.9. Mr. Leonard gave in part payment the northwest corner of 146th st and 8th av, a 5-sty flat, with store, on lot 25x100; also the 5-sty flat at 137 West 138th st, on lot 26x99.11, between Lenox and 7th avs.

40TH ST.—The Equitable Bond & Mortgage Co. sold for Lorenzo E. Tripler 228 East 40th st, a 6-sty tenement house, on a lot 25x98.9. Mr. Tripler recently acquired this property at the auction sale of the Cunningham estate, for $29,500. The adjoining house, 226, was bought at auction for $30,800.

50TH ST.—Rudolph Wallach Realty Co. sold to J. H. and Anton Kligel 323 and 325 West 50th st, two 3-sty and basement dwellings, on a plot 38.4x100.5. J. B. English was the broker.

57TH ST.—John J. Clancy & Co. sold for a client 212 and 214 East 57th st, two 4-sty dwellings, each on a lot 18.9x102.2. Wm. A. Ewing holds title.

BOWERY.—Samuel Goldberg sold to Bakst Bros., wholesale druggists, 101 Bowery, a 5-sty building, on a lot 24.11x121.5xirregular. After alterations to the structure have been made the new owners will occupy the property.

BROADWAY.—Franklin Pettitt has bought the southwest corner of Broadway and 21st st, an L shaped plot, on which he will erect either a 16 or a 20-sty building. The plot fronts 48.2 ft. on Broadway, 128.8 ft. in 21st st, a depth of 92 ft. and a rear line width of 48 ft. Henry Corn owned the plot and cleared it preparatory to erecting an office building there, but he was unable to carry out his plans. Mr. Corn bought the property from the Leland estate in 1911, and obtained a building loan of $850,000 for his proposed structure from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. Of this $450,000 had been paid when his company, the Broadway and 21st Street Co., became involved in a suit to foreclose the loan. The Lelands had taken a second mortgage on the property from Corn. This second mortgage they gave to Pettit in part payment for the St. James apartment, at the southeast corner of Broadway and 92d st, which they purchased from him last week. In the settlement of the affairs of Henry Corn the Broadway and 21st st property will pass to Pettit, who will take steps toward its reimprovement. The building which Corn planned for the site was designed by Maynicke & Franke. It was to have been 354 feet high and was to have cost $450,000.

Manhattan—North of 59th Street.

61ST ST.—The Locomobile Company of America sold through Augustus H. Ivins to Amos R. E. Pinchot the old dwellings at 16 to 24 West 61st st, on a plot 100x100, together with the abutting parcel at 25 West 60th st, a lot 58x100, which the selling company bought a year ago as a site for a service station and showrooms. On the combined plot Mr. Pinchot will erect a 12-sty building and will lease it for 21 years to the selling company. The reported price of the land is $300,000 and the estimated cost of the building is $400,000. Walter Haefeli will be the architect of the new building.

69TH ST.—Ristori Leerburger sold through A. L. & S. Wolfson 45 West 69th st, a 4-sty and basement dwelling, on a lot 20x100.5.

60TH ST.—Wallace & Meyers, in conjunction with Lowenthal & Davis, sold for Albert F. Mando 229 East 60th st, a 4-sty double tenement house, on a lot 20x100.5.

64TH ST.—C. R. Woodin sold to Wm. T. Blodgett, for occupancy, 40 East 64th st, a 4-sty brownstone dwelling, on a lot 20x100.5. Douglas Robinson, Chas. S. Brown & Co. were the brokers.

66TH ST.—Douglas L. Elliman & Co. sold for Sumner Gerard, 69 East 66th st, a 4-sty dwelling on a lot 18x80; also for Dr. M. S. Kakels, 71, adjoining, a similar building; also for Mrs. Sara W. Kakels, 73, a like building, and for William A. Boring, 75, at the northwest corner of Park av. The Fullerton-Weaver Realty Co. is the purchaser and will erect on the plot, which has an avenue frontage of 80 ft. and a street frontage of 74 ft., a 12-sty apartment house, having only one suite on a floor, containing 14 rooms and 4 baths. J. E. R. Carpenter is the architect.

71ST ST.—Pease & Elliman sold for Madeline Jackson to a buyer, for occupancy, 20 West 71st st, a 4-sty and basement dwelling, on a lot 19x100.5.

78TH ST.—John D. Ryan, president of the Amalgamated Copper Co., bought from the estate of Henry H. Rogers the 4-sty stone front mansion at 3 East 78th st, which was long the home of the late Standard Oil official. Mr. Ryan will occupy the house.

82D ST.—Dorothy T. Hager sold 3 East 82d st, a 5-sty American basement dwelling, on a lot 25x102.2. The property has been held at $150,000. Pease & Elliman were the brokers.

85TH ST.—N. A. Berwin & Co. sold for Elizabeth A. Wilkinson 110 East 85th st, a 3-sty and basement dwelling, on a lot 18.1x102.2. The buyer recently bought 108, adjoining, through the same brokers, and he now owns a total plot of 36.2x102.2.

89TH ST.—Jacob Schleich sold through Wm. Goldschmidt to John Scharsberger 110 East 89th st, a 5-sty tenement house, on a lot 25.6 x100.8.

Brooklyn.

THE MONTGOMERY-WARD CO., the mail order house of Chicago and Kansas City, leased a large amount of space in the Bush Terminal Co.'s plant, in South Brooklyn. It is understood that the lease involves several floors in the largest structure in the development. Arthur Lynn, the sales manager of the leasing company, states that about 10,000 persons will be employed in the Eastern branch and that negotiations are pending for the establishment of another branch on the Pacific coast, probably at San Francisco.

THE BUSH TERMINAL CO. leased to the Sears Cross Co., manufacturers of speedometers, 10,500 sq. ft. in Model Loft Building 20, at the foot of 39th st, and to Newmark & Danziger, manufacturers of women's underwear, 12,000 sq. ft. in Building 6, at the foot of 34th st, Brooklyn.

WAVERLY AV.—H. W. Rozell & Son leased for the Slocum Amusement Co. to Henry Geismar the auditorium, 48x80, to be built of stucco, on the west side of Waverly av, 70 ft north of Myrtle av, for a term of 5 years.

Country.

LEWIS H. MAY CO. leased for A. S. Iserson to Mrs. B. L. Lindeman the boardwalk property at Long Beach, L. I., known as the Casino. The lessee is also proprietor of the Lindeman Hotel at Edgemere, L. I.

LEWIS H. MAY CO. leased, on the plans, to Mrs. B. S. Lindeman a large fireproof hotel, with every modern improvement, to be built at Long Beach, L. I., for all year use.

PAYSON McL. MERRILL has rented, from the plans, for the estate of Franklin B. Lord six houses with garages now in course of construction on West Broadway, between Cedarhurst and Woodmere, L. I. The houses are on plots of a little over an acre and will be ready for occupancy May 1. The lessees are Edson Lewis, William F. Ladd, Curtis G. Rand, Laurance B. Rand and Edward S. Mills. The same broker has also leased for Arthur F. Cosby to William C. Ivison the property on the corner of Keen la and Willow rd, Woodmere, L. I., and for Mrs. Henry L. Pierson to Frank L. Polk

Renting Your Vacant Loft

Because—any merchant, especially a silk merchant, prefers, and some of them demand—

1st, a floor which does not "dust".

2nd, a floor which is soft, resilient and requires no covering.

is the answer. You need look no further for an added feature to put up to your merchant prospects. Write or telephone.

REAL ESTATE NOTES.

FISHER & IRVING I. LEWINE and Isidor H. Kempner, who have been operating under various company names, have incorporated under the title of Lewine & Kempner.

The Lewis H. May Co. has removed to the Fraser building, at 18 West 27th st, where it will continue to specialize in Queens ocean-front property.

THE DOUGLAS ROBINSON, CHARLES S. BROWN CO. have been appointed the agents of 39 and 41 West 55th st. The building will be ready for occupancy on or before October 1, 1913.

WALLACE & MEYERS and Lowenthal & Davis have formed a partnership under the title of Wallace & Meyers for the transaction of a general real estate business, with offices at 475 Lenox av.

WM. J. BENJAMIN CO. placed a loan of $240,000 at 4½ per cent. on the 5-sty mercantile building at 433-435 7th av and 168 West 34th st. The building is leased by the Riker-Hegeman Co.

The real estate business of James W. Kelly (Robert J. Kelly, proprietor), which has been established at 673 9th av, Manhattan, since 1864, has been merged with the business of Goodale, Perry & Dwight, Inc., at 1133 Broadway, the merger going into effect today.

JOHN CARLSEN, secretary-treasurer of the Alliance Realty Co., of 115 Broadway, and also of the Broad-Exchange Building, died at his residence, on Bainbridge av, Bedford Park, January 27, aged 70. Mr. Carlsen was born in Germany, came here when a boy and was for many years in the banking business before joining the Alliance Realty Co. He leaves one son. Mr. William H. Chesebrough, the president of the company, was away on a cruise at the time of Mr. Carlsen's death and burial.

SMITH & PHELPS placed a first mortgage loan of $15,000 on the plot, 100x235, on the east side of Valentine av, 100 ft. north of 187th st and running through to Tiebout av also a first mortgage of $9,000 on the 4-sty double flat at 990 Brook av; also a first mortgage of $6,500 on the 3-sty brick dwelling at 569 Mott av; also a first mortgage of $2,500 on the two lots in the north side of 205th st, 250 ft. east of the Grand Boulevard and Concourse; also mortgages aggregating $33,000 on the 5-sty apartment on the north side of 181st st, 95 ft. west of Bryant av.

TWO MORTGAGES aggregating $800,000 were secured last Thursday from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. on the Prince George Hotel at 9 to 15 East 27th st, the 12-sty building adjoining at 17 and 19, and the property at 16 to 20 East 28th st, which adjoins the 28th st end of the hotel. The mortgages are given by the Twenty-eighth Street Co., which holds title to the property. The 28th st realty, comprising three 4-sty buildings, was purchased last year by the company as a site for an addition to the hotel. In June plans for this addition were filed. They called for a structure 12 stories high of terra cotta, limestone and brick, on a plot 75x98.9. The cost of the improvement was placed at $450,000. The mortgage on the 27th st property covers a plot 143 ft. frontage. The loan is for 5 years at 6 per cent.

AT THE ANNUAL MEETING of the New Jersey-New York Real Estate Exchange held in Jersey City last week William A. Lambert, of Nutley, was re-elected president and Philip I. Hover, of Ridgewood, secretary and treasurer for the ensuing year. The following were elected governors: W. J. Shearer, Elizabeth; W. I. Scott, Orange; D. S. Goss, Rutherford; A. S. Corbin, Passaic; G. B. Corsa, Bound Brook; S. Hirschman, New York City; E. D. Paulin, Leonia; R. H. Walker, Hoboken; Frank Stevens, Jersey City; E. V. Magee, Hoboken; C. F. H. Johnson, Passaic; E. R. East Tremont Taxpayers.

The East Tremont Taxpayers' Association have elected the following officers for the coming year: President, T. W. Muhlfeldt; first vice-president, Henry S. Gamp; second vice-president, Jacob Koehm; secretary, Charles A. Schrag; treasurer, Henry Boeschen; sergeant-at-arms, Samuel Klein; counsel, George M. Schultz. The trustees elected are John A. Steinmetz, Charles A. Forbach and J. Howe.

The members of the association and their friends anticipate spending an enjoyable evening at the annual banquet which is to be held on the night of February 4 next. In the past these have been most pleasant affairs and this year the banquet committee are working harder than ever in an effort to attain even greater success than in former years; accordingly, they have engaged the spacious banquet hall of the new Bronx Park Casino, at 182d street and Boston road, and also have invited a number of prominent speakers, who have signified their intention of being present.

Hudson River Pier Line.

Calvin Tomkins, Commissioner of Docks, recently sent a communication to the Board of Estimate relative to the resolutions adopted by the Board on January 16, requesting him to apply to the Secretary of War for modifications in the harbor lines on the North river, in the vicinity of 79th street, 96th street and 158th street. Regarding the modifications in the pierhead and bulkhead line between Dyckman street and the Harlem Ship Canal the Commissioner states that the plans of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company submitted to the city involve the taking of certain property all the way out to the pierhead and bulkhead line. Inasmuch as the Commissioner has got to fully inform himself of the details of the negotiations with the railroad company the Board of Estimate has decided not to submit to the Secretary of War, at this time, the request for drawing in the bulkhead line in the premises.

Will Investigate Billboards.

Mayor Gaynor has appointed a commission of seven members to make an investigation of the use of billboards, sky-signs and similar advertising devices. The members of the commission are Robert Grier Cooke, Colonel Henry W. Sackett, Reginald Pelham Bolton, Edmund B. Wells, Ingalls Kimball, Albert S. Bard and Walter Stabler.

In a report made by the Commissioner of Accounts last August it was stated that there are 4,600 billboards in Manhattan, with an aggregate advertising space of 3,800,000 square feet, yielding an income of more than $1,000,000 a year. The commissioner recommended limiting billboards to seven feet, with exceptions when the entire construction is of metal.

ROEBLING STREET WIDENING.

Report of the Commissioners in Condemnation Proceedings.

The report of the commissioners in the condemnation proceedings in the case of the Roebling street widening was filed this week in the office of the Street Opening Bureau in Brooklyn. The report is signed by Arthur S. Somers, Samuel S. Whitehouse and George D. Beattys, and affects Roebling street, as widened, from Broadway to Division avenue; the Public Place, bounded by the easterly side of Roebling street, Division avenue, and Lee avenue; and Taylor street, as widened, from Lee to Bedford avenues. The total of the awards is $646,890.

Asst. Corporation Counsel Riegelmann says the owners whose property was seized by the city will receive their awards, with interest at the rate of 6 per cent., from the time of seizure, within three months.

Best Year Since Panic.

At the annual meeting of the New York Title Insurance Company the statement presented to the stockholders for the year ended December 31, 1912, showed the net profits to have been $216,667.31. This represented the best year the company has had since 1907. Against the net profits there were charged: Reserve for taxes, $3,500; reserve for special legal expense, $5,000; building improvements, $7,790.22. A dividend of 7 per cent., amounting to $140,000, was paid, leaving a surplus to be added to undivided profits of $60,377.09. The company's net profits show an increase of $45,427.32 over the year 1911 and an increase of $53,220.86 over the year 1910, taking into consideration the amounts reserved as stated. In past years these items have not been included in any reserve.

The directors decided that a substantial amount should be marked off from the company's plant, as the undivided profits shown upon the books would warrant this action.

Heretofore the plant has been carried at $538,493.93, which represents the original cost, with the exception of $50,000, which was marked off in 1907. While the plant is a most valuable asset in the conduct of the company's business, it has been deemed wise to carry it, for the present at least, at only $250,000, and there has been marked off $288,493.93, leaving the undivided profits as of this date $420,962.72.

The stockholders at the annual meeting elected Benjamin L. Allen, vice-president of the Columbia Knickerbocker Trust Company, a director to fill a vacancy, the remainder of the board being re-elected. Clinton R. James was re-elected president, John D. Crimmins, vice-president, Cyril H. Burdett, general manager, Frank L. Cooke, secretary, Gerhard Kuehne, treasurer and Chauncey H. Humphreys, assistant general manager and assistant secretary.

—By writ of certiorari the awarding of the contract for the construction of a filtration plant at Westermills, near New Brunswick, has been held up.

OBJECT OF TAX SOCIETY.

To Obtain Relief from Personal Property Taxation.

The twenty-second annual report of the New York Tax Reform Association, prepared by Secretary A. C. Pleydell, contains the interesting information that the association was organized in 1891 to obtain relief from the personal property tax. At that time all kinds of personal property, with a few exemptions, were liable to local assessment and taxation at full local rates. This liability was, of course, largely theoretical, as much property escaped the tax assessor, but such as was found bore an entirely disproportionate share of the public burdens.

The immediate cause of the organization of the association, says the report, was the introduction in the legislature of a listing bill by which it was sought to compel every person to submit a statement of his personal property under oath. The effort required to defeat this bill led to the feeling that continuous educational work on matters of taxation would be the best protection against similar attempts to enforce an unequal and unfair tax by such inquisitorial methods. The wisdom of this course has been justified by the results. As a direct consequence of the work carried on by this association a number of important modifications of the personal property tax have been secured, although in some instances the final steps were taken by the interests most directly affected.

Special Taxes Enacted.

Among these changes have been the substitution of the flat uniform rate on banks and trust companies in place of the former unequal burden of shareholders under the personal property assessment; the mortgage recording tax at the flat rate of ½% paid at the time of recording, with the exemption of mortgages from personal assessment; and the secured debt law, extending the theory and rate of the mortgage recording tax to bonds and mortgages of other states. The inheritance tax law has also been revised and the rates on large bequests increased. This tax has now become the largest single item of state revenue. The special franchise assessments, which are included in the real estate valuations, are in the nature of a return from a form of property or privilege which in many states is classed as personalty and which some states try ineffectively to reach by taxing bonds and shares in the hands of individuals.

Revenue from Special Taxes.

The total revenue, state and local, from the special taxes which have replaced personal assessments, is more than $14,000,000. This does not include the twelve million dollars from inheritance taxes, or the local tax receipts from special franchises, which amount to some ten million dollars. The highest assessment ever made in the state prior to these special taxes was eight hundred million dollars, which at $1.50 would yield only $12,000,000, or less than the present revenue from special taxes.

Corporation Taxes.

"The present system of taxing business corporations is unequal and arbitrary and should be thoroughly revised," says Secretary Pleydell. "The state tax on corporations is imposed by a law of which the courts have said: 'A very simple idea which might have been framed in very plain language has been obscured in a mass of verbiage.'

"This law, under which about forty thousand business corporations are taxed annually, is extremely and needlessly complicated. Few busines men understand it and lawyers are frequently puzzled by its provisions. A tax of this kind, paid by thousands of business corporations, many of them small, ought to be so simple that any officer of the corporation could make out the report and know exactly from its books what the tax ought to be and will be."

Woodside-Winfield Cut-Off.

Work will begin next spring on a large scale in the construction of the Woodside-Winfield cut-off. Some of the steel has already been ordered and the remainder will be ordered at the beginning of the year. A portion of the embankment work is already under way near the junction of the main line and North Shore divisions.

One of the features of this work will be the building of a massive steel bridge for carrying the six main line tracks over Queens boulevard, that will cost not far from $50,000. The line will be straightened, reducing the distance 500 feet and permitting a high rate of speed following the elimination of the Winfield curve.

The elimination of more grade crossings through Queens is on the program for next year. The work has been ordered by the Public Service Commission, the state having made the necessary appropriation for its portion of the expense. This will provide for carrying the main line tracks over Westland, Creed and Madison avenues, Hempstead, and Jamaica Plank road, First or Bennett street, all the way from the city line to Hollis. The cost is estimated at over $1,000,000.

Will Specialize in Hotels.

Pease & Elliman have established a hotel brokerage department, under the management of John R. Newell, who has had many years' experience in this line. Referring to this department of their business, the firm says:

"Let us say at the outset that our motto is 'No misrepresentation.' We will not list or foist upon customers hotel properties that are physical wrecks or out-located—in other words, 'dead ones.' First, it is an unprofitable policy as well as a dishonest one to tie a client up with a losing hotel and with no prospects of bettering conditions. Our hotel department is in the field to stay and our intention is to keep the friends we make."

NEW RAILROAD STATION.

Long Island Railroad to Build Near Steinway Tunnel Entrance.

In order to meet the traffic demands that will be put upon it when the Steinway tunnel is in operation, the Long Island Railroad Company is having plans prepared for the erection of a railroad station at Van Alst avenue and 4th street, Long Island City, near the entrance to the tunnel. Connection with this projected station will be by way of Woodside, which point connects not only with the North Shore division but with the entire Long Island Railroad system. The new Long Island City station will afford not only easy communication with the Grand Central Station in Manhattan, but it will afford direct access with the tunnels leading to New Jersey and uptown and downtown Manhattan.

The Long Island Railroad Company is also planning to connect its system with the proposed new market in Long Island City.

The Crosstown Rapid Transit Committee of Brooklyn and Queens favors the proposed crosstown elevated line from the Brighton Beach road at Fulton street to the Queensboro Bridge Plaza, via Greenpoint, as embodied in the proposed form of elevated extension certificates prepared by the Public Service Commission for the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company.

This line the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company offers to build at its own expense so as to avoid Franklin avenue entirely and over a private right of way through the restricted section between Fulton street and Lexington avenue.

As to the contention that elevated lines destroy property values, the committee submits a comparison of values along streets where existing elevated lines run in Brooklyn with values along corresponding stretches of the next parallel streets. This table in which the names of streets having elevated lines are given in capitals makes the following showing in assessed valuations for 1912:

FULTON STREET, from Bedford avenue to Van Sinderin avenue, $7,881,519; Herkimer street, from Bedford avenue to Van Sinderin avenue, $6,721,475.

BROADWAY, from Arion place to Conway street, $14,102,050; Bushwick avenue, from Arion place to Conway street, $6,570,600.

MYRTLE AVENUE, from Cumberland street to Sumner avenue, $6,050,925.

WILLOUGHBY AVENUE, from Cumberland street to Sumner avenue, $4,866,600.

"The only case in Brooklyn," says the committee, "where a comparison of this kind is unfavorable of the elevated, is that of Lexington avenue, from Grand avenue to Broadway, where the assessed valuation for 1912 is $4,286,100 as against $7,004,200 for Greene avenue and $6,629,930 for Quincy street within the same limits.

Exodus from Manhattan.

One of the things of the future the average real estate man sees is an exodus of people from the tenement district on the lower East Side, the tide to take a direction toward the quickly reached sections of Queens and Brooklyn.—Merchants' Association Bulletin.

Why the "future" and not of the present and past? Is it not the same old unending movement of population that has been going on for generations, ever since Williamsburgh, Hunters Point, Long Island City, Astoria, East New York, Ridgewood, Brownsville and the rest were detached settlements? Yes, the people of the tenements of the lower East Side are always migrating, and always the voids they leave are quickly filled. Manhattan is like an overflowing fountain, whence the life-giving waters come for the whole Metropolitan district.

A Summary of the Proceedings of the Local Boards, the Board of Estimate, the Supreme Court and Various Commissions and Bureaus Relating to Street and Other City and Borough Improvements.

The news collected here under the general head of Municipal Improvements is intended to be of service to property owners as well as contractors and brokers. It covers every measure looking toward a change in the City Map, toward the acquisition of title to real estate by the city or toward construction work, including the grading of streets, the laying of sewers, the building of schools, etc. Each such measure is acted upon by one or more—generally by several—official bodies before it becomes a valid ordinance. In these columns the successive official acts pertaining to it are noted from the time it is introduced in a Local Board or in the Board of Estimate. Wherever public hearings on it are granted, the fact is also announced.

Municipal improvements may be divided into two classes—those that are paid for out of the general tax levy and those that are paid for wholly or in part by special assessments on the property owners benefited. The latter, which are the more important to real estate owners, originate in the Local Boards. However, every local improvement, except certain street improvements calling for an expenditure of not more than $2,000, must be submitted to the Board of Estimate for authorization.

The news is classified and is printed in this order: Local Board Calendars, Local Board Resolutions, Proceedings of the Board of Estimate, Public Hearings, Assessments Due and Payable.

LOCAL BOARD CALENDARS.

As regards the majority of city improvements, including all that call for special assessments, the Local Boards are in a sense neighborhood legislatures. They have absolute authority over certain street improvements, costing not more than $2,000. With respect to all other local improvements, they exercise full legislative functions, subject to approval by the Board of Estimate. The Board of Estimate seldom vetoes a measure coming from a Local Board. It is before the latter that the property owner should be most watchful to make himself heard concerning proposed improvements. When a Local Board resolution comes before the Board of Estimate, the presumption of expediency is on the side of the measure, as this has been adopted after open consideration by a body supposed to be familiar with local sentiment.

There are twenty-five Local Improvement Districts in the city, each with its Local Board. This is composed of the Borough President and of the Aldermen who represent the Aldermanic districts within the Local Improvement District. The Borough President's secretary acts as secretary of the several boards. Each board has jurisdiction over matters relating to its district. In the case of matters relating to two or more districts, the boards of the districts affected sit in common. The meetings are subject to call by the Borough President.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE BOARD OF ESTIMATE.

All city improvements, whether public or local, come before the Board of Estimate for authorization. The Board invariably grants one or more public hearings on every measure. The hearings are noted in advance in another column. In the present column are noted the resolutions passed by the Board concerning public or local improvements:

MANHATTAN.

6TH AV.—Removal of sidewalk encroachments on 6TH AV, from 13th st to 59th st. Adopted.

FORT SCHUYLER RD.—Letter from the Borough President of the Bronx, recommending the denial of the petition for a change in the lines of FORT SCHUYLER RD, bet Morris la and Shore drive. Laid over until Feb. 13.

BROOKLYN.

EAST 16TH ST.—Sanitary and storm water sewers in EAST 16TH ST, from Kings Highway to Av U. Referred back to the Borough President of Brooklyn.

PUBLIC HEARINGS.

One or more hearings are granted in connection with all proposed improvements. In the case of local improvements, the first hearing is by the Local Board. Such hearings are noted in this news department of the Record and Guide under the general head of Local Board Calendars. Hearings by all other bodies are noted in the present column.

In acquiring title to land for streets, sewers, parks, approaches to bridges, etc., condemnation proceedings are commonly resorted to. A proceeding having been authorized by the Board of Estimate, the Corporation Counsel makes application to the Supreme Court for the appointment of three commissioners. If the cost of the land is to be paid wholly or in part by property owners benefited, the commissioners are known as commissioners of estimate and assessment. They hold their meetings at the Bureau of Street Openings, a clerical and legal organization under the supervision of the Corporation Counsel charged with the management of all legal proceedings which involve awards for damages or assessments for benefit to land.

If the cost of the land is to be paid by the city as a whole, as in the case of school sites, dock property, etc., the commissioners are known as commissioners of estimate and appraisal, whose place of meeting is at 258 Broadway.

In the case of assessments for local improvements of a physical nature which do not have to be confirmed by a court of record, the assessments come before three permanent commissioners appointed by the Mayor. They constitute the Board of Assessors, which has to do with assessments for such improvement as the regulating and grading of streets, the laying of sewers, etc.

By the Board of Estimate.

At a meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, to be held in the City Hall, Manhattan, on Feb. 6, at 10.30 a. m., the following matters, among other matters, will be considered.

BRONX.

AMERICAN R. E. COMPANY.

Annual Report Shows a Normal Gain in Assets and Surplus.

The twenty-fifth annual statement of the American Real Estate Company, just published, shows assets of $27,202,824.19 and surplus of $2,188,805.50. Thus this organization has rounded out a quarter century with a satisfactory showing for its business. Notwithstanding the political and other disturbance of the past year, its statement indicates a normal gain in assets and surplus.

Several notable changes during the past year are indicated in the company's detailed statement. First, the substantial increase of the company's holdings of high-grade Manhattan rental properties, such as the Arena Building, a splendid business building, running through from 31st to 32d street, between Broadway and Fifth avenue, the Hendrik Hudson apartment house on Riverside Drive from 110th to 111th street, and the fine East Side apartment house at Nos. 40-46 East 62d street.

These are all rental properties of the best grade, well located and well rented. Indeed, the company reports the past year as having been an unusually satisfactory rental season and states that the rental market is in most localities much firmer than a year ago.

During the past year the company reports large sales, particularly of building lots for immediate improvement. Its properties on Westchester avenue in The Bronx, immediately east of The Bronx River and aggregating over 1,200 city lots, have been developed and over thirty apartment houses constructed in this district during the year.

The judgment of the company in confining its operations to properties located in the line of the northward trend of the city's growth has been well vindicated by the profitable results attained, and its policy of keeping its real estate assets in the two most desirable forms, high grade rental properties and liquid land properties, has been an important factor in its success.

During the twenty-five years of its history this company has, through the medium of its small denominations and instalment bond issues, been the means of serving thousands of investors to whom it has returned upwards of $11,000,000 in principal and interest. It has over 18,000 active investors, a large number of whom are re-investors. The American Real Estate Company can point with pride to its twenty-five years of making good and the service it has rendered to its security-holders.

—Cranford, which has been called the "Venice of New Jersey" because of a most picturesque stream that winds around through its best residential district and on which canoeing is one of the town's attractions, has more wealth represented among its taypayers than any other place of its size in New Jersey.

New York Central Plans Second Hotel.

Warren & Wetmore, of 70 East 45th street, have plans in preparation and it is understood that estimates will soon be received for the construction of another huge hotel which the New York Central & Hudson River R. R. Co. has planned to build on the site of the old hospital property for the Ruptured and Crippled, measuring 150x110 feet, at the northwest corner of Lexington avenue and 42d street. The hospital society recently completed a new structure at 303-325 East 42d street through to 304-322 East 43d street, which cost about $800,000. The old building is now being removed. As planned, the new hotel will contain 2,000 rooms and the average rate will be $2 per day. It will seek popular patronage, in contrast to that of the new Biltmore Hotel, which the company is now building at Vanderbilt avenue and 43d street. The selection of a name has not yet been made, but in all probability it will be known as "The Terminal." This project was first reported when the tentative plans for the New York Central improvements were laid out. The number of stories which the new hotel will contain has not yet been decided.

Murphy & Dana Win Competition.

Murphy & Dana, of 331 Madison avenue, Manhattan, have been appointed architects of the new group of buildings for the Loomis Institute at Windsor, Connecticut, designs for which were submitted by eleven competitors. The completed design of the building calls for a school and administration building, six dormitories, a refectory, gymnasium, headmaster's residence and minor buildings for about 250 pupils. At present, however, only two dormitories, the refectory building, gymnasium and headmaster's house will be erected, and temporary classrooms will be provided in these structures until the main school is built. It is expected that ground will be broken this spring and that the buildings will be ready for occupancy by the fall of 1914. Henry K. Murphy was graduated at Yale in 1899, and Richard Henry Dana at Harvard in 1900. Both are also graduates of the Ecole des Beaux Arts.

Whitney House Makes Way for Business.

The C. H. Southard Company, 9th avenue and 14th street, has the contract to tear down the William C. Whitney house, at the southwest corner of 5th avenue and 57th street, and the former residence of Charles W. Morse, adjoining. The buildings are to be cleared away for more substantial improvement with business structures, complete details of which have not yet been decided upon. The property is owned by the 734 Fifth Avenue Company, of which G. Elton Parks, of 576 5th avenue, is president. The Southard Company is said to have paid $1,000 for the Whitney house, and the cost for removing the two structures and clearing away the debris is estimated at about $10,000. The amount originally expended in the erection and equipment of the two houses was close to $1,000,000.

Annex on Grand Central Palace Site.

The Rheinfrank House Wrecking Co. has the contract and will begin immediately tearing down the old Grand Central Palace, occupying the block from Lexington avenue to Depew place, 43d and 44th streets, which is to be improved by the New York Central Railroad Co. with a six-story extension to the south half of the post office building recently erected covering the plot 275x200 feet. The building will conform to the architectural lines of the post office building, but it is understood that the general construction will not be started for several months yet. The Palace which for several years past has been used as a railroad station by the company was erected about fifteen years ago, for exhibition purposes. Warren & Wetmore, of 70 East 45th street, are the architects, and Balcom & Darrows will be the engineers.

We contract with builders, owners and architects for the wrecking of buildings—small or great—from top to curb.

Large forces of skilled workmen, under competent foremen, together with modern appliances and ample hauling facilities, permit quick work.

System in all branches reduces the bluster of wrecking to a minimum. Our methods provide safety to abutting property and but slight street encroachment.

We have handled as many as a dozen big contracts simultaneously during a single month.

We guarantee satisfaction and satisfy the architect, builder and owners as to terms.

Write us or call us up and we will have a representative with you promptly on appointment.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS USED AND RULES FOLLOWED IN COMPILING RECORDS.

Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed omitting all covenants and warranty.

C. a G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given. When the date of drawing is other than in the current year the stated year is given. When both the dates are in the same year the year follows the second date.

The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1912.

T. S. preceding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed or conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

Flats and apartment houses are classified as tenements.

Residences as dwellings.

All Christian names, streets, avenues, states and months are abbreviated when possible, also in some instances names of Banks, Trusts and Insurance Companies.

The number in ( ) preceding the serial number to the right of the date line, at head of this page, is the Index number for the Checking Index.

The Star following names of street or avenue in the Bronx Conveyances, Leases and Mortgages indicates that the property recorded is in the annexed district, for which there is no section or block number.

EFFICIENCY IN APPRAISING VALUES

How to Go About It—Factors That Affect the Operation—Analyzing the Factors—Unit Values—The Mathematical Operation.*

By E. W. DOTY.

MUCH is being said in the magazines and upon the platform about the lack of efficiency. This lack of efficiency, as I view it, is largely traceable to the lack of analysis. We are all of us prone to attempt performance without knowing exactly what the task is, what parts make up its whole. In other words, we lack analysis. Especially is this lack of analysis noticeable in the task that we call appraising land values, or assessing the value when the land is taken in connection with the tax department.

You are engaged in the real estate business. Many of you are called upon from time to time to express opinions as to the value of sites, and your clients always, or nearly always, depend upon you for your judgment of value. You are accustomed to give these opinions with perhaps little thought as to just what factors you base your judgment upon. And yet you never give an opinion but that you consciously or unconsciously analyze the factors that cause you to form your opinion.

The great trouble is that generally speaking you will not consider all of the factors, or you will consider them out of proportion with each other, without a specific analysis of what you are attempting to do. The result is that you are much more liable to form your opinion based upon prices actually demanded or paid for that or similar property; and then it is more difficult for you to substantiate your opinions even to yourself.

If we will all of us analyze the task of appraising before we attempt to perform it, we will be able to give our clients safer opinions of the values of city real estate.

Forming an Opinion.

Upon examination and reflection we find that the expression of the judgment of value of a site is but the forming and uttering of an opinion. But we find that there are two elements in the forming of that opinion. In other words, there are two things done to express an opinion of value of a city site: One is mental; the other is mathematical. The mental operation, of course, cannot be done by machinery or by a system. Any number of reasons may affect the mind of a person about to express an opinion. His mind will sort ut all of those that appeal to him, weigh them and consider them. The simpler the conditions for considering all of the factors, the easier the mind operates, the more certain is the result of its operation. An expert in cotton cloth considers many facts in appraising a case of such merchandise, but he does not express his opinion of more than a unit of that cloth, a yard; nor does he examine every piece of goods in the case, nor all of one piece, but rather a very small part of one piece will answer his purpose. Having exercised his judgment of the value of that kind of cloth in that market, the expression of value is made in the price of one unit.

Next comes the mathematical side of the operation, which the same expert may perform or which may be performed by others. A clerk can ascertain the number of units of cloth in the case and multiply and set down the result, which is really the judgment of the expert as to all of the cloth in the case. This operation is just as divisible in judging site values as it is cloth values, or ought to be.

First, a Unit of Quantity.

When we come to judge site value we find further analysis necessary; that is, analysis of the factors that affect it. To perform the mental side of the task easily we ought to have a unit of quantity. Land in cities is the only commodity—if we may call it a commodity—that is bought and sold, for which we have no unit of quantity. If you tell me that land on the next street is worth $500 a front foot, there are four reasons why I don't know exactly what you mean.

First, I don't know how deep the lot is over there, I don't know whether the side lines of the lot are parallel or not, I don't know whether there is an alley at the rear or not, and I don't know whether you mean a frontage at or near or far away from the corner. You have to explain each of these items to me before you have conveyed to me all that you mean by $500 a front foot.

If you and I had 100 of these operations to go through, you would have to make 400 explanations to me just to convey your opinions to me. Would it not be better for us to agree upon some unit, say a foot wide, 100 feet deep, with no alley, and the location in the middle of the block? With such a unit of quantity you can convey to me definite and certain information or opinion which I can criticise and converse about.

A Mathematical Operation.

If we should do this, we would be able to perform the mental side of our task much easier, because we could talk with more people and absorb more reasons for our final opinion. Having expressed our opinion as to the value of a unit foot, the other part of the task could be performed by anyone who has mathematical knowledge of the relation which size and shape bears to size and shape. Such work is comparable to the work of the clerk who ascertains the value of the case of cotton cloth after the expert has judged the value of a unit of that cloth; namely, a yard.

Let us analyze the possibilities under this method. When you say that land on a street is worth $500 a unit foot and on another street it is worth $1,000 a unit foot, you really mean that the second street at that point is worth twice as much as the first street. This leads us to see that it is the usefulness of our city streets that we must estimate before we can come to a real judgment of the value of the sites abutting thereon. It is not really site value that we assess or appraise, but really street value.

What we commonly call site value or lot value is that part of the usefulness of the street that a particular piece of ground absorbs, and that absorption is based upon the amount of ground there is, its shape, and the relation of both to the street. This latter is mathematical and may be ascertained by mathematics; valuing the street—or the unit value, which is but another expression of the value of the street—is the mental side of the problem.

Analyzing the Factors.

When we come to analyze the factors that enter into or affect the value of a single lot, we find that there are not less than three such factors. These three are size, shape and location. Sometimes there are two location factors, as in the case of a corner lot, and sometimes there is an alley factor; but we will consider only the three that are in every city lot. When you say to me that a lot over on the main street any city is worth $50,000 you mean that a lot of a certain size, of a certain shape and in a particular place in that city is worth $50,000. If you change any one of these three factors, you change the value to a sum greater or less than $50,000 probably.

It is difficult for the human mind to make comparisons of things in combination. The natural way is to separate each kind by itself and make comparisons in that way. It is easy for the human mind to compare a square lot with a triangular lot; that is, shape with shape; it is easy to compare a lot containing 10,000 square feet of area with a lot containing 5,000 square feet; that is, size with size; and it is easy to compare location with location, a comparison that more people in a city make from day to day than any other.

So we see that it is necessary to separate size, shape and location and consider each separately. The unit foot makes this possible, because the unit foot is always the same size and the same shape, and it is located in the middle of each block, thus leaving the varia-

THE METROPOLITAN LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY AIDED IN THE ERECTION OF THESE HOMES, AS DESCRIBED BELOW.

FINANCING THE SMALL HOUSE

Some of the Difficulties in the Way—How a Big Insurance Company Is Helping Ambitious Men to Get Homes of Their Own.

By DR. LEE K. FRANKEL.*

THE problem of financing ownership in his house is one that constantly confronts the homeseeker. The difficulties which lie in the way of such ownership have frequently forced wage-earners to continue paying monthly rent rather than to assume responsibilities of ownership which they may not be able to control.

Financing the small house has in the past been possible in many sections of the country and particularly in Philadelphia through the so-called building and loan associations. These associations have served a useful purpose and have no doubt aided and assisted many a wage-earner to own his own home who without the aid of the association could not have accomplished this result. Where such associations are carefully supervised and where the laws under which they come into being safeguard the interests of the members, the building and loan association offers an excellent opportunity for the wage-earner to invest his savings.

A few of the objections that have been raised to this form of home financing are inherent in the system. As a rule, the shares of the association mature in from ten to eleven years. The mortgage which is paid off in this time is frequently only a second mortgage, the first mortgage being left intact. This means that (1) the owner at the expiration of the period must himself look after the renewal of the mortgage from time to time; (2) where there is a considerable demand for money on the part of borrowers, the latter may be required to pay a premium which increases the interest rate the borrower must pay; and (3) since the association is mutual, there is no guarantee that the investments of the association will earn a sufficient interest to equalize the interest paid by the borrower.

It should be said that as a rule these associations have been well conducted at a comparatively low expense and with the interest of the members constantly in mind. There are instances, however, on record, of associations in which the demand for loans on the part of members has been comparatively limited, and as a result the associations have been compelled to seek outside investments. At times the funds of these associations have been loaned to builders and contractors on second mortgage and on building operations which could hardly be considered conservative.

Elements to be Considered.

In considering the question of financing ownership in the home from the standpoint of the small wage-earner, the following elements enter into consideration:

1. The ability of the purchaser to make a small initial payment.
2. Freedom from worry in the renewal of mortgages and the payment of fees, etc., for such renewal.
3. The possibility of obtaining the mortgages for longer periods than those commonly current.
4. The protection of the home for his family in case of his death before the mortgage is paid off.
5. The interest rate on mortgages comparable to that paid on conservative investments for larger real estate holdings.
6. The absence of a speculative profit in the cost of the property.

A Natural Aspiration.

Ownership of his home is an ideal to which nearly every man aspires, irrespective of his station in life. It is probably true that the small wage-earner has this ideal even more strongly developed than the individual better circumstanced. The difficulties which lie in his way, however, are inexperience and ignorance of real estate methods. His fear that he will not be able to renew mortgages when they fall due, a suspicion that he is paying more for his home than it is really worth—all tend to make him believe that he is safer in renting a house or an apartment than he would be in attempting to become an owner.

Insurance Companies as an Aid.

The question has frequently been raised whether it is not possible for insurance companies in the United States to lend funds for building purposes. On its face, this would appear a perfectly simple problem. As a practical proposition, difficulties at once arise. Under the laws of many States, insurance companies are limited as to the character of the investments they may make and are held strictly accountable for the trust funds in their hands. If the insurance companies were to lend funds on mortgages to individual borrowers, the probability is that the cost of conducting such a business would cut sharply into the interest rate.

Furthermore, it is possible for the average insurance company to obtain conservative investments for large amounts in well-known sections of large cities at favorable interest rates and under conditions which require comparatively little supervision on their part. In the belief, however, that the building of small homes should be fostered, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, a little over a year ago, agreed to advance approximately $650,000 for the building of small homes in the Borough of Brooklyn. The real estate company which took this loan contracted that the building plan should be submitted to the insurance company for supervision and that the cost of the houses to the purchaser should include only a fair profit over the actual cost of the land and the construction of the building. This condition which the insurance company imposed made it plain at the outset that the purchaser of such a home would obtain a well-built house and that the price he would pay for it would not include any exorbitant or extravagant profit for a speculative purpose.

Well-Built Houses.

The houses which have been built under this plan can hardly be called workingmen's houses, since they are sold at $5,500 each. The Metropolitan, however, believes that if houses of this kind can be sold, that is, if demand were shown for them under the conditions of the sale, smaller houses at lower cost could similarly be built in other sections of the city and in other parts of the United States.

The land values in most parts of the Borough of Brooklyn make it prohibitive to build a house at a lower cost than the one above given. The particular value to the purchaser of the houses which are offered for sale in Brooklyn depends upon the fact that he is not required to renew his mortgage at the end of five years. It is indicated from the experience gained at the time of the depression in 1907 that many small owners were unable to renew second mortgages and in some instances even first mortgages. It furthermore appeared that in certain instances, where such mortgages were renewals, a very considerable premium had been paid. Under the plan, the Metropolitan takes a first mortgage of $3,250. The said mortgage is payable in semi-annual installments in twenty years. After the first mortgage, the building company takes the second mortgage, which is payable semi-annually in twelve years. A payment of $750 is asked from the purchaser, but this need not all be paid at one time. As the plan was finally evolved, payments are made as follows:

What It Costs.

Price of Home	$5,500.00
Initial payment which need not all be made at one time	750.00
Balance consists of the two fully insured mortgages:
the 1st runs 20 years.	$3,250.00
the 2nd runs 12 years.	1,500.00
Balance	$4,750.00

FIRST TWELVE YEARS.

	Per annum.
Interest and principal on 20-year 1st mortgage payable semi-annually, Feb. 1st and Aug. 1st	$281.20
Interest and principal on 12-year 2nd mortgage, payable quarterly, Jan. 1st, Apr. 1st, July 1st, Oct. 1st	176.28
Taxes and water (about)	60.00
Fire insurance	5.50

which is equal to an average of $43.58 per month for the first twelve years.

LAST EIGHT YEARS.

The second mortgage being now paid up, payments during the remaining eight years are $176.24 less per annum, as follows:

	Per annum.
Interest and principal on 20-year 1st mortgage	$281.20
Interest and principal on 12-year 2nd mortgage, which is now fully paid up and cancelled	000.00
Taxes and water (about)	60.00
Fire insurance	5.50

or an average of $29 per month for the last eight years, making the total average for the entire twenty years only $37 per month.

A Novel Insurance Policy.

It is the impression of real estate men that houses similar to these in the Borough of Brooklyn ordinarily bring from six to seven thousand dollars. The character of the construction has been carefully supervised by the insurance company and it is safe to say that these houses are well built. It should be added that the cost of $5,500 includes the single premium on a life insurance policy under which if the owner dies before the mortgage is paid up, the property reverts free and clear of all encumbrances to his estate. This form of policy is novel in that a single premium is asked and the amount of insurance from year to year exactly covers the amount of mortgage still outstanding. Under this scheme the lowest possible premium necessary to protect the property is secured. For a purchaser at the age of thirty, it may for our purpose be assumed that the premium for the mortgage of $3,250 approximates $300. This as stated above is included in the original cost of the house. The insurance, however, is not compulsory. If the purchaser does not desire this protection, the house is sold to him for $5,500, less the cost of the single premium.

Two Hundred Houses Planned.

Under the original arrangement with the building company, it was planned to build 200 houses, on each of which the company was to place a mortgage of $3,250, if desired. As an indication of one of the difficulties which lie in the way of an enterprise of this kind, it might be stated here that during the time that the first houses were being erected, the building company, as well as the trust company which guaranteed completion of the buildings, both failed. Later, another building company furnished a guarantee satisfactory to the company and the building operations were resumed. Twenty-seven houses have been completed and sold. On ten of these a loan of $3,250 has been made. The latter sum included an insurance policy. On three additional, loans of $2,900 have been made, as the purchasers did not desire insurance. Fourteen houses are ready for sale and twenty-seven are in course of completion. The interest on both the first and second mortgages of these houses is 6 per cent.

Freedom From Worry.

From the standpoint of the owner, the particular merit of the plan inaugurated with the Metropolitan is the freedom from worry regarding renewal of mortgages. While it is understood that an initial payment of $750 should be made, this is a rule not adhered to and if the prospective purchaser is not in a position to pay this amount, a smaller initial payment is taken. After the deed has once been placed in his hands, he has no further concern than to meet the principal and interest payments as they mature. These have been so calculated that the borrower pays a similar amount at each payment period during the term of twenty years. If, in addition, he desires it, he can have the satisfaction of knowing that, should he die before the installments are fully paid, the property, owing to the insurance policy which covers it, will revert to his estate free and clear of all encumbrances.

Similar Propositions in the Future.

Assuming that the houses in Brooklyn will be sold advantageously, it is pertinent to consider the prospective attitude of the Metropolitan or other insurance companies to similar propositions in the future. Under the laws of the State of New York and of many other States, there are definite restrictions in the investment of insurance funds.

On the assumption that the reserves of an insurance company which constitute the largest percentage of its assets are trustees' funds and that they are invested for the benefit of the policyholder, it is required of the insurance company that these funds be invested to obtain the largest possible return consistent with the restrictions imposed by law. There can be no doubt that insurance departments would view with disfavor the attempt on the part of an insurance company to lend money at a lower rate of interest, for the purpose of facilitating or encouraging the erection of workingmen's homes, than could be obtained in the open market on mortgage investments.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has been carefully considering the advisability of making loans similar to those above at an interest rate of 5½ per cent. Whether it would be permitted to do so is problematic. It is evident that the cost for examination, appraisal, supervision of the architect, and the other incidental expenses in lending a million dollars on several hundreds of small mortgages would be considerably larger than to place one such mortgage on a large office building in the heart of New York City, or any other large city, whose present value and whose future value during the period of the mortgage can be definitely determined.

The Mortgage Term.

The practice of having a mortgage fall due at the end of three or five years is generally a necessary protection to the lender. Under the principle of amortized mortgages adopted in Brooklyn, only 15 per cent. of the principal has been paid off at the end of five years. Real estate men generally are of the impression that this is too little. It is not at all unlikely that properties of this kind may not be well kept up and that owing to the changes in the character of the neighborhood, the values of such property may materially decrease.

These are some of the difficulties which are mentioned here, which must be considered by any insurance company, which is primarily responsible to its policyholders for the careful and sane investment of their funds. The officers of the Metropolitan are, however, strongly of the impression that since these funds come to a greater or lesser extent from policyholders who wish to own their own homes, every legitimate opportunity should be fostered to enable them to become such owners. The attitude of the insurance company would be very much simplified if it were possible in the United States to develop building associations similar to those in Belgium. Such an association would act as the intermediary between the company and the borrower. The association would look after the collection of interests, make the necessary arrangements with the purchaser for the erection or sale of his house, and through its capital stock as a security would practically be able to guarantee to the insurance company the repayment of both principal and interest.

POPULAR TYPES OF SUBURBAN HOUSES

No. 1—THE BUNGALOW

Its Moderate Cost and Attractive Features—Must Be Low in Height, But May Cover Much Ground—An Agreeable Substitute for the Old Type of House.

By WILLIAM HERBERT.

BUNGALOWS COSTING FROM $1,800 TO $3,500 MAKE LONG ISLAND AVAILABLE TO THE MAN OF MODERATE MEANS AS WELL AS THE MILLIONAIRE.

IN the preceding numbers of this series I have been discussing suburban houses from the point of view of a number of common, economic, practical and architectural characteristics. It is now necessary to make certain distinctions among the different classes of suburban houses. Manifestly they differ one from another in quite as many respects as they agree with one another.

The suburban house may vary in cost anywhere from $1,700 to $50,000. It may not be surrounded by very much more land than an ordinary city dwelling; or its site may include an acre or two of valuable property. It may be a one-story or a three-story building. It may be built of wood, brick, hollow tile, or concrete. Its design may be reminiscent of any of a half-dozen historic architectural styles, and the merit of the design may be considerable, or it may be nothing at all.

Three Types.

For the purpose of these articles, however, suburban houses may be roughly grouped into three types. There is, in the first place, the house which costs between $1,700 and $6,000 to construct, and which of late years has been coming to assume more and more the type of a bungalow. Then there is the house which costs from $7,000 to $30,000 to construct, and which deserves to be called the ordinary or average type of suburban dwelling. Finally, there are the houses which cost more than $30,000, and which are comparatively rare. This last type is, indeed, so unusual that it may be dismissed from consideration in this series of articles. These houses are not determined to the same extent as the others by definite commercial consideration. Their owners generally purchase a spacious piece of property, employ the services of a skilled architect, and are at liberty to gratify special personal peculiarities in the design and arrangement of the building.

Dwellings of Moderate Cost.

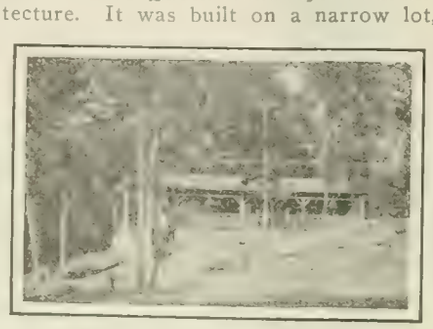
The cheaper type of houses, which we have discussed as bungalows, are, of course, built for people of limited means. Such families rarely, if ever, employ more than one servant, and frequently do not employ any at all. Their size is limited, consequently, not merely by the amount of space the family can afford to pay for, but also by the amount of space which the housewife can find time and energy to keep clean. These dwellings have to be economical in every respect. They are almost always built of wood, because if any less inflammable material were used, the space which could be obtained within the limit of cost would be very small. The number of rooms cannot be large, and the plan and the design vary within comparatively small limits. In spite, however, of the rigid restrictions which conditions impose upon the builders of these houses, it is surprising how much of an improvement has been made in their appearance and convenience by the employment on their plans of a little more care and of a little more taste. Certain of the so-called bungalow suburbs which have been built up of recent years contain many very attractive homes and are exceedingly pleasant places in which to live.

AT LARCHMONT GARDENS.

Time was when the suburban residence of this class was, in spite of certain superficial differences, absolutely stereotyped. It consisted of a two-story or two-story and attic frame building of the so-called Queen Anne style of architecture. It was built on a narrow lot, with merely an alleyway between it and its neighbor; it had a small porch on the front of the building, a yard in the rear and a grass plot separating the house from the street. Dwellings of this kind were built by tens of thousands in and around New York without differing one from another any more than one old brownstone house on a street in Manhattan differed from its neighbor.

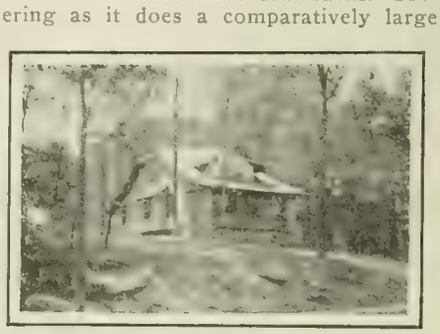
Of course many thousands of these houses are still being erected, but of late years the more enterprising companies engaged in selling the cheaper classes of suburban property have had the good sense to substittue for this old type of house a new one which first became popular in this country on the Pacific coast.

The So-Called Bungalow.



The bungalow is, properly speaking, a one-story residence consisting of large rooms with large openings between them, intended to make life tolerable in a tropical country. In California the bungalow proved popular, because, being light, it could be erected in a frostless country on wooden stilts, and so dispense with the cost of foundations. Furthermore it usually contained only one comparatively spacious living-room, which served as a dining-room as well, and which suited the informal way in which Californians lived. Some of these characteristics could not be transferred to a house built in the vicinity of New York and intended for occupation throughout the whole year; but other characteristics were preserved, and the conditions which enabled them to be preserved are interesting.

What a Bungalow Must Be.



Whatever else a bungalow is or is not, it must be a low building with plenty of roof. It cannot be more than one story or one story and attic in height, and it must occupy a very considerable area—considering its cubical contents. But a building which is limited to one story or one story and a half has at least three drawbacks. Covering as it does a comparatively large area, it demands a great deal of foundation work; it is difficult and expensive to heat with a furnace; and it can hardly be occupied by a large family, because a large family would need too many rooms. These drawbacks would some years ago have been fatal to the popularity of any such type of building; and if they are less fatal now the reason seems to be that the Manhattan apartment house has modified the requirements of many of the newer suburban residents.

Suitable for Small Families.

The newer inhabitants of the suburbs tend to be drawn, as we have seen, from families now occupying flats in Manhattan. Such families are rarely burdened with very many children, but they usually have some. They could hardly live in a bungalow in case children were numerous; but if the children are kept down to what may be called the apartment house limit, a one-story and a half building becomes possible. Furthermore, apartment house residents are accustomed to live all on one floor. They do not like to run up and down stairs; and this fact has contributed to the popularity of bungalows among people who are moving from Manhattan into the suburbs. Finally, this same class of people are accustomed to steam heat, and usually demand it. A steam-heated bungalow is much better heated than is one which depends upon a hot-air furnace, because much of the furnace heat is lost whenever the pipes are carried for long distances on one level from the source of the heat.

It is undoubtedly the case also that the bungalow appeals to the former resident of an apartment house not merely because it fits into certain of his needs and habits, but because it satisfies his taste. Bungalows are picturesque little buildings and are much more rural in appearance than are two-story and attic frame cottages of the old type. They fill a family, which is moving into the semi-country, with sentimental illusions about the real country. They are, consequently really attractive to the people for whom they are built. They add to the self-esteem and to the domestic pride of their inhabitants; and there is every reason why they should.

A Pleasantest Type of Cheap Residence.

These bungalows are assuredly the best-looking and pleasantest type of cheap residence that has ever been erected in considerable numbers in this country. In their simplicity and propriety they are comparable to the old one-story or one-story and attic New England farmhouse—a type of building which, indeed, they would resemble were it not for the fact that the bungalow is usually shingled. It differs from the early farmhouse of New England also in having a spacious porch, and in the better utilization of the opportunities for architectural effect afforded by the roof. But it is the worthy successor to a worthy type, and its increasing popularity is a matter for congratulation. Its adoption by suburban development companies as a kind of residence which would tempt urban residents into the suburbs has proved to be an emphatic success and is a salient indication of the beneficial results which have followed from the entrance of the development companies into the building business.

NORTH SHORE OPTIMISM.

Rapid Transit Situation Attracting Bronx Builders—A Big Year Expected.

The same optimism that characterized the beginning of the year 1912 is noted at the opening of 1913, and in contrast with last year, this year already shows prospects for the betterment of conditions that were lacking in the twelve months that have passed into history. This is particularly true regarding the North Shore of Long Island, which should be the centre of steady activity during the coming year.

There were no dealings of a sensational nature along the North Shore of Long Island during the year of 1912, but in the past few months builders who heretofore have been operating in The Bronx, Brooklyn and in Westchester County, have been attracted to the North Shore of Long Island by the fact of the Dual Subway System coming into that borough and the near completion of the through electrification of the North Shore Division of the Long Island Ry. as far as Port Washington.

The rapid transit situation is nearly cleared up after months of negotiation between the operating companies and the city, and the people of Queens now have the assurance that further delay in the building of Corona and Astoria extension of the Dual Subway System is not to be feared, and that by the middle of April the contracts will have been let and construction work begun.

THE REAL ESTATE BOARD OF BROKERS' DINNER

Addresses by Borough President McAneny, Public Service Commissioner Willcox and Prof. McAndrew Greeted With Enthusiasm by Some 600 Diners.

CELEBRATING its seventeenth birthday, the New York Real Estate Board of Brokers held its annual banquet last Saturday night at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. More than 600 persons attended, and the enthusiasm of the occasion did not lag a minute. E. A Tredwell, the president of the Board, presided, and he was flanked on either side by a line of prominent guests, among them Borough President George McAneny, Public Service Commissioner William R. Willcox, Elbridge Gerry Snow, Prof. William McAndrew, of Columbia University, and Clinton R. James, of the New York Title Insurance Company.

Borough President McAneny was the first speaker introduced by Mr. Tredwell. He said that he hesitated to speak about subways, but he got his courage up to the subway point.

The Borough President, before taking up the subway contracts, reviewed briefly the work of his office in eliminating encroachments on the highways, and declared that while real estate men might not like his action in this regard, nevertheless he was sure he had done property interests a good service and that he had helped to solve the problem of congestion of traffic on important streets.

Mr. McAneny on Subways.

Regarding subways, President McAneny said in part: "Our carefully laid scheme for an immense and thorough transportation system has suddenly been attacked in the eleventh hour; what the motive is behind the attack remains to be seen. There is not one argument out of the abundant stock of arguments against the dual plan that is new. They have all been threshed over again and again. There is no argument within reason that can prevail.

"We have made the very best deal possible in the name of the city of New York, and it is a good, clean, profitable business deal. In planning this large system of city railways the committee of the Board of Estimate, of which I happen to be the chairman, recognized that this city of five millions is still in its infancy; that it is going to grow far beyond its present limits.

"We must therefore have a city plan, laid on proper lines of transit, which have nothing to do with private interests or individual requirement—lines that will relieve the growing congestion when operated in conjunction with the existing lines, all of which are operated under long time franchises. It is first necessary to acquire the use of these lines as the nucleus of the great system which we wish to build up

About Competing Lines.

"We have discouraged the idea that the greatest usefulness is to be found in competing lines and in building up the present system we have given the companies the lowest terms to which we could beat them down. I want to say right here that the companies have not yielded willingly, even to the terms which were finally agreed upon.

"It is plain at the start that the city can not finance this great system which we have proposed. Two years ago the proposal had only to do with the richest lines, but it is a far cry from that day to this. We have produced a system with treble the mileage of the existing lines.

"Such a system would be impossible without carrying the losses of the outside lines. It stands to reason that many of these lines could not pay for themselves for some time to come and we must guard them through the earnings from the richer districts.

"I predict that there will come through the building of these lines an increase in values netting eight or ten millions of dollars a year more in taxes to the city treasury. Furthermore when the new system goes into operation there will be sixty million double fares which will become single, and this benefit will go into the pockets of the people each year, aside from all tax increases. That alone will justify every dollar we spend on these contracts with the Interborough system.

"Remember, the city would never be able to build these lines on its own credit. The system will cost, in round numbers, $300,000,000; we have available about $140,000,000. If we were to stop suddenly because the financial situation would not allow us to go farther at least one-half of this great system would fall to the ground.

He Prods His Critics.

"And right here I would like to ask the critics of the proposed contracts which of the lines they would prefer to withdraw. It would mean the taking out of the lower West Side lines, the 7th avenue line, the William street line, the tunnel under the East River and the line through the eastern section to the sea, the Bronxville system, the entire Steinway tunnel system and doubtless many other branches. The connection which we propose with the Broadway lines, the connection at Union square, with the vast territory across the East River—all would be lost. And in the name of what?

"The payments to be made to the operating companies are the result of the best business deal New York could possibly make. They will result in the carrying of passengers over a mileage three times as great as that covered by the existing system. These companies have our system; we can't deny that. We can't take it away from them now, even by legislation. They have grown rich, it is true, but the property is theirs. If we want it we must pay for it.

"Now we are asked to give up all the advantages of this great connecting system because certain critics hold that a so-called preference should not be given—because someone is receiving one-half of one per cent. more for underwriting the bonds than they should. I repeat we have made the best bargain we possibly could, and we will stand by it. As a matter of fact, there were two bids for the underwriting of these bonds. One was 93.5 and the other 94.2."

Mr. Willcox Speaks.

Public Service Commissioner Willcox concluded his exposition of the dual system of transit by stating that the contracts would in all probability be signed this week, and that interested the diners most. The commissioner evidently did not anticipate the action of the Supreme Court last Tuesday, when it granted a temporary injunction against the signing of the contracts.

Great credit is due to Elisha Sniffin, who, as chairman of the dinner committee, made the banquet such a great success.

BROOKLYN AND QUEENS DELEGATION AT ALBANY.

The accompanying picture illustrates the delegation from the boroughs of Brooklyn and Queens that went to Albany on January 31 to urge Governor Sulzer not to do anything that would in any way interfere with the adoption of the dual system of rapid transit for the entire city of New York. Among the delegation were Borough President Connolly, of Queens and Commissioner of Public Works Pounds, of Brooklyn. The picture shows the entire delegation from those boroughs standing at the bottom of the steps to the capitol.

A CALL TO TAXPAYERS.

Mass Meeting at the Real Estate Exchange Next Monday Afternoon Will Discuss Subways.

A mass meeting of property owners has been called for next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the Real Estate Exchange, 14 Vesey street, to consider the crisis in the subway negotiations and measures for the protection of real estate interests in connection with the pending subway contracts. Only brief remarks will be invited, and these must be directly to the point. No speaker will be permitted to monopolize the time of another or to introduce extraneous subjects. James L. Wells, president of the Auctioneers' Association, will preside.

A large number of signatures representing the principal men and interests concerned with real estate affairs have been signed to a petition to the governors of the exchange to permit of the assembly hall being opened to citizens for the discussion of municipal matters affecting property rights. This request having been granted, the call for the first meeting has been issued and the subject announced.

Among the new signatures to the petition are Walter Stabler, Comptroller of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company; J. Romaine Brown & Co., Walter Lindner, solicitor to the Title Guarantee & Trust Company; Ranald H. McDonald & Co., F. B. Wood-W. H. Dolson Company, Douglas L. Elliman & Co., De Selding Bros., Clarence H. Kelsey, president, and J. Wray Cleveland, secretary of the Title Guarantee & Trust Company, Folsom Bros., the New York Title Insurance Company, C. M. Silverman & Son, N. A. Berwin & Co., Frank Kiernan & Co., John B. Hibbard, Dubois & Taylor, William S. Patten, Robert E. Simon, James B. Stewart, George F. Moody, Wilber C. Goodale, Leonard Weill, James R. Murphy, W. D. Morgan, Herald Square Realty Company, Julius Bachrach, Fenton T. Newbury, Meyer Auerbach, David Wallace, Roosevelt & Kobbe, John Biddle Clark, William J. Hamilton, Cambridge Construction Company, William P. Rooney, J. Allen Townsend, Charles H. Bliss, Albert Erdman, John A. Evans, Duff & Conger, Gibbs & Kirby, J. Edgar Leaycraft & Co., Bing & Bing, Frederick Zittel & Sons, L. Tanenbaum, Strauss & Co., Edward B. Boynton, Frederick Johnson, David Stewart.

CERTIFIED BUILDERS.

Bill Will be Introduced to License Architects and General Contractors.

The Superintendent of Buildings in Brooklyn, Mr. P. J. Carlin, has prepared a bill for introduction in the Legislature which has for its object the licensing of architects, architectural engineers, and builders, and, by this means, the regulating to some extent of the building business. Superintendent Carlin, who is a member of the Building Trades Employers' Association, has long been an advocate of some measure which would restrict the supervision of building operations to competent men. The bill, which was introduced at Albany by Senator Wagner, provides for a Board of Master Builders' Examiners, which shall examine the qualifications of all who wish to engage in the building business, except duly qualified architects and architectural engineers. On and after the first of next year, if the bill becomes a law, nobody will be allowed to enter the building business without a certificate from the board.

According to the superintendent's bill, the board will be composed of two mason builders, one structural steel builder, one reinforced concrete builder, and one carpenter builder of not less than ten years' experience, appointed by the Mayor, and the Superintendents of Buildings in the five boroughs. The five specially appointed members are to receive $10 a day for their services, the superintendents serving without extra compensation.

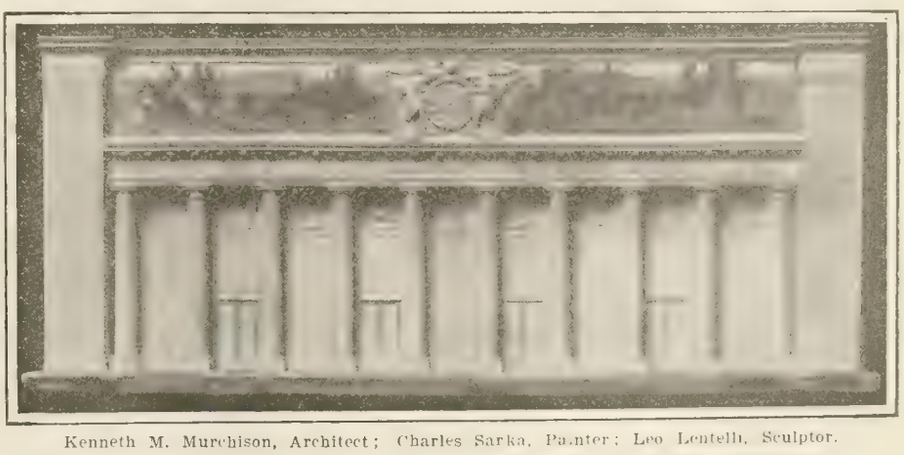
The bill further provides that every employing or master builder carrying on his trade, business or calling in any city of the first class in this State shall register his name and address at the office of the superintendent of buildings, or other official having general supervision of the construction and alteration of buildings in said city, or a borough thereof, under such rules as such officer shall prescribe, and, thereupon, he shall be entitled to receive a certificate of such registration; provided, however, that such employing or master builder, unless he shall be an architect or an architectural engineer, shall, at the time of applying for such registration, hold a certificate of competency from a board of master builders' examiners issued in the city in which such board shall be organized. It shall not be lawful for any person to engage in or carry on the trade, business or calling of employing or master builder in any city of the first class unless his name and address shall have been registered in the city or borough thereof in which he carries on or conducts such business, pursuant to the provisions of this section.

All certificates of registration issued under the provisions of this section shall expire on the 31st day of December of the year in which they shall be issued. Such certificates may be renewed within thirty days preceding such expiration, the renewal to be for one year from the 1st day of January in each year.

Other Legislative Measures.

Assemblyman Eisner has introduced a bill to amend the real property law in relation to registering titles to real property, providing that "the final judgment and decree of registration vesting a fee simple absolute in the plaintiff or in any person claiming with, by or through such plaintiff, shall be conclusive evidence that the title to said real property is good and marketable; and said judgment and decree of registration shall be binding not only upon subsequent grantees, but also upon all persons or corporations making mortgage loans upon real property; and upon all corporations organized and incorporated for the purpose of searching titles to real property and issuing their policies of guaranty or insurance thereon. It shall be the duty of the Attorney General of the State of New York to take proceedings in behalf of and in the name of the People of the State of New York to procure the forfeiture of the charter of any corporation violating the provisions of this Act."

ARCHITECTURAL EXHIBITION.



Cram, Goodhue & Ferguson Win the Annual Prize for Architecture.

While the architectural end of the exhibition of the Architectural League, now open at the Fine Arts Building, in West 57th street, may not be as noteworthy as in some previous years, the exhibition as a whole is interesting and attractive. The past year or two has not been as fruitful in architectural works of great distinction as was the period immediately preceding. This has been particularly true in New York City, and the consequence is that metropolitan examples are not so numerous in the galleries.

The opening of the exhibition was celebrated by a banquet on Friday evening, Jan. 31, at which the annual prizes were awarded. The firm of Cram, Goodhue & Ferguson, of Boston and New York, received the architectural prize, A. A. Weinman the prize for sculpture, and Colonel Goethals, of Panama Canal fame, was awarded the only prize ever given by the league for engineering. The collaborative competition was won by Kenneth M. Murchison, architect; Charles Sarka, painter, and Leo Lentelli, sculptor.

"Castlegould," at Port Washington, L. I., is possibly the most prominent architectural work in the exhibition. It has the "finish" that belongs to all dwellings designed by our foremost architects. The Black, Starr & Frost Building, by Carrere & Hastings, will stand for the best sort of store building along 5th avenue—perfect in every detail. Willauer, Shape & Bready's Building, "Fifty Broad Street," now in course of erection, stands for the latest work in office buildings. Donn Barber's office is represented by a perspective of the proposed New York Cotton Exchange, a photograph of Dr. Stone's unique house at Flushing, and by a drawing of the new Y. W. C. A. Building on Lexington avenue. Cram, Goodhue & Ferguson are represented by sketches and photographs of churches and details. Delano & Aldrich have on view a drawing of Mrs. C. B. Alexander's house at Bernardsville, N. J.; Aymar Embury II. shows a number of country houses, and among the other architects who have exhibits on the walls are J. H. Freedlander, Alfred Hopkins, E. D. Litchfield, McKenzie, Voorhees & Gmelin, McKim, Mead & White, Kenneth M. Murchison, Arthur T. Remick, Rouse & Goldstone, E. K. Rossiter, Boyd & Satterlee, School of Architecture, Columbia University; Society of Beaux Arts Architects, Tracy & Swartwout, Trowbridge & Ackerman, Upjohn & Connable, D. Everett Waid, Walker & Gillette, Wallis & Goodwille, and York & Sawyer.

Lack of sufficient space is, perhaps, one reason for the smallness of the architectural exhibit. At any rate, the painters and sculptors predominate.

Kenneth M. Murchison, Architect; Charles Sarka, Painter; Leo Lentelli, Sculptor.

FAILURES AMONG CONTRACTORS

Due to Rising Building Material Prices and the Growing Practice of "Bunching" Jobs—Credit Situation Sound and Construction Outlook Good.

RECENT failures in close sequence among building and engineering contractors of more or less prominence have inspired surmises among building material interests as to what factors could possibly be existent at this time sufficiently potent to precipitate such firms as George Vassar's Son & Co., Charles H. Peckworth, and Weatherlow & Korn, among others. Current queries betray some anxiety as to whether basic conditions are really as sound as building interests have been led to believe.

The primary factors in the troubles of firms suffering business embarrassment at this time are three: First, failure on the part of those figuring jobs to discount the steadily rising prices of building materials; second, under-estimating, and, third, taking business beyond the capacity of their resources through the process of "bunching." An attempt has been made to attribute some of these failures to slowness of steel deliveries, but those who are in close touch with the credit market say that this factor, instead of being potent, is only mildly contributive.

Basic construction conditions are excellent. The real estate market is more active than it has been in almost six months. Building money is comparatively easy, especially for gilt-edged propositions; and the building material market is firm, with mill supplies conservatively low, prices stiffening, and the distributing market well stocked. Dodge reports show a healthy tone in the matter of prospective building operations throughout the entire metropolitan district, and architects as a rule report full boards. Such being the case, delay in deliveries of structural material, while possibly temporarily embarrassing to contracting firms by reason of withholding of progress payments, should not precipitate a sound building firm. The real causes of failures, therefore, must be looked for in other quarters.

"The Unwritten Law."

Competition among building contractors and engineering companies in recent years has been very keen. So many new concerns with limited resources have entered the building field that established houses have had to depend largely upon old customers and upon their reputations for reliability for new contracts. The result has been a partial recognition, at least, of what has come to be the "unwritten law" among contractors.

This code of ethics sharply defines three important classifications of building contractors: the "big" firm, the "small" contractor, and the speculative builder. The first classification embraces those firms which have good connections, whose stability is founded upon prestige, reputation and earned dividends, while the second class refers to that army of builders, the majority of whom are financially sound, but whose resources and capacity are limited, and the last is made up by speculators who do construction work and leave a large part of their money in the finished structure.

The small contractor, pushed hard to keep enough business in hand to hold his organization together, is sometimes tempted to ape the big firms and "bunch" a number of operations simultaneously. He figures that by averaging his profits on all his jobs he can afford to accept a smaller profit on each building because his aggregate will, in a measure at least, compensate him.

Suddenly some branch of the building material market reports an advance in price between the time his bid went in and the time he specifies on his contract, or when the building is actually ready for the superstructure steel or some other commodity is delayed in delivery and his payments are held up. The material man renegs, and the result is he cannot promptly meet his obligations.

But building material and contracting interests were not inclined seriously to consider this phase of the matter at this time. They flatly put it down to a combination of circumstances that may be classified as plain bad business luck, superinduced by inevitable results of price-cutting competition and failure to take into the matter the increased cost of building materials and construction.

Building contractors are going into bids on an unprecedented material market. During the last five years, during which time no less than two hundred and twenty new construction concerns of one kind or another have come into existence, the average cost of building construction and building materials has advanced between fifteen and eighteen per cent., most of which has occurred within the last nine months.

Building Costs Advanced 15 Per Cent.

During the last two years common brick has moved up from $5.75 a thousand, wholesale, to $6.75 and $7 (summer quotations). Portland cement two years ago this spring was as low as 70 cents a barrel, Lehigh Valley, while the prospects are that it will be considerably over a dollar a barrel before the spring building season actually starts. Structural steel, two years ago, was considered high at $27, while today it is stiff at $31. Lumber, in all departments, has advanced at least five per cent. since 1909, and this week's reports show that practically all lines will move to even higher levels than have heretofore existed when the spring season opens. Stone, sand, roofing, equipment and labor all cost more today, and the increasing demand for fireproof construction only tends to make the cost of construction move higher.

In the face of this sharp rise in material prices, competition has been such as to force construction prices down, and the inevitable consequence has been smaller profits, if not actual losses.

There are three elements to every building operation, whether it be large or small: cost, quality, speed. If one of these factors is crowded out of the equation or even cramped, one of the remaining two, or both, must suffer. Slowly, but surely, this fact is coming to be realized by owners. But until it becomes universally recognized as the only sound working basis for constructing buildings, contractors are going to be caught short, owners are going to have their buildings tied up, and building material interests are going to suffer great inconvenience, if not actual loss, when inequality of building conditions and uneasiness of commodity prices undermine heavily loaded firms whose resources are not sufficient to tide them over a tight place.

MORTON BUILDING.
681 Fifth Avenue.
McKim, Mead & White, Architects.

Fifth Avenue's Latest Building.

The twelve-story business building which Hon. Levi P. Morton, of 120 Nassau street, has just completed at 681 Fifth avenue, between 53d and 54th streets in the center of Fifth avenue's most fashionable shopping district, contains store and showrooms, with open lofts above. The equipment includes two electric passenger elevators, one large electric freight elevator and one sidewalk lift. Ample facilities have been provided for receiving and shipping merchandise. The floors have a heavier live load carrying capacity per square foot than is usual in other buildings on Fifth avenue. The upper six floors have side windows, affording excellent light and ventilation.

Another feature of importance is a concealed sprinkler system, only the sprinkler-heads showing in the ceilings, all pipes being invisible. This arrangement renders each floor especially available and attractive for show purposes, and effectually reduces the insurance on the structure and its contents. The first three stories will be occupied by E. P. Dutton & Company, publishers, booksellers and stationers Pease & Elliman are the agents.

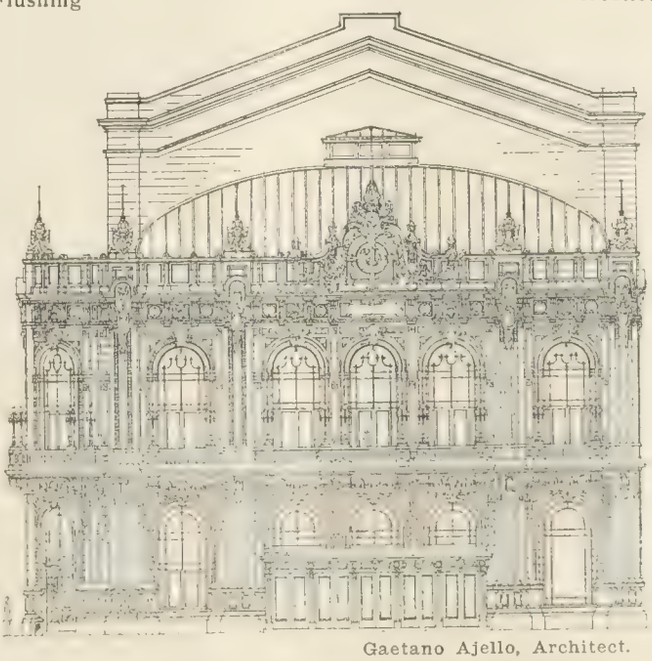
THE FLUSHING-JAMAICA CANAL.

A Legislative Bill Appropriates $40,000,000 For Its Construction.

In the bill introduced in the Assembly a few days ago providing for an issue of $40,000,000 worth of bonds for the improvements of State waterways there is an item of much interest to residents of Long Island and to those who are interested in its development; and that is the provision for the construction of a canal from Flushing Bay on the north shore to Jamaica Bay on the south. Flushing Creek in the south part of Flushing, flows due north into Flushing Bay. It is proposed to deepen and widen the creek and extend it due south past Maple Grove Cemetery through Richmond Hill to about Remsen's Creek at Jamaica Bay and thus make it an adjunct of the Jamaica Bay improvement. This canal was proposed once before in the Legislature, but that was before the Jamaica Bay improvement took concrete form. This proposed cross island canal, while it would penetrate Queens Borough, would redound to the benefit of all Long Island even beyond Queens.

The Federal government plans to build a deep water course through the bays skirting the Long Island coast east of Jamaica Bay; and, in order to join this waterway with the Jamaica Bay improvement, the government proposes to cut a waterway from Middle Bay and Hewlett Bay—south of Oceanside and East Rockaway—across the Rockaway Peninsula into Beach Channel, Jamaica Bay. Thus the south side waterway would be linked not only to Jamaica Bay but to the waterways of the country.

Benefits Expected.



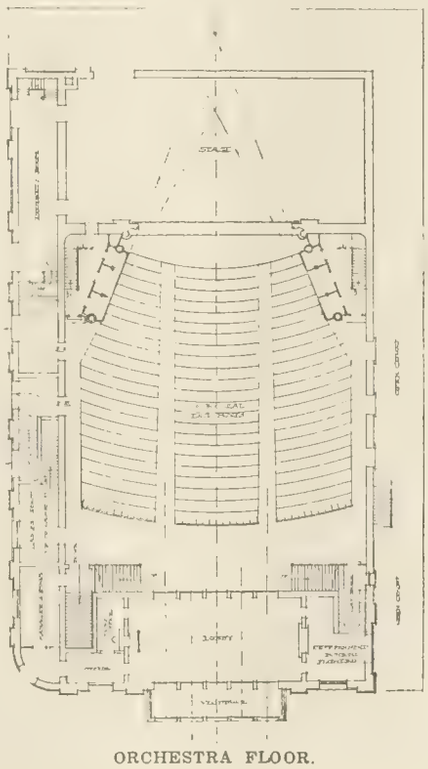
The effect of the canal across Queens Borough would be to make inland shipments between the north and south shores of Long Island easy; and, it would tend to give the villages of the south side a commercial prestige by water that they otherwise can not possess. The benefit of a deep waterway to the south shore of Long Island is amply illustrated at East Rockaway where the Windsor Land and Improvement Company of its own initiative has built a waterway nearly a mile long with a depth of six feet of water at low tide. This canal connects with Hewlett Bay, which is directly back of Long Beach and adjacent to the proposed cut across Rockaway Peninsula. The important waterways of the south side of Nassau County that flow into the bay and are susceptible of development for commercial and pleasure navigation are Mott Creek, at Rosedale, Bedell Creek, at Oceanside, and Mill Creek, at Rockville Centre.

Real estate men point out that inasmuch as the great level section of Nassau County, extending from Hempstead south to the bays, is growing rapidly in population on account of its contiguity to New York City, that the state would find it a good investment to improve these waterways the same as the Federal government has discovered the utility of creating an inside waterway from Jamaica Bay east to Shinnecock Canal; and, these village waterways, if improved, would connect directly with the Federal waterway mentioned. It is pointed out that the expenditure of money on these south side creeks is of more advantage to the State than the improvement of small streams in remote parts of the commonwealth

Large Theatre Buildings Projected.

The past two years have been years of unusual progress for theatre building in Manhattan. The marked success of Marcus Loew and William Fox is leading other managers into the field, and theatre construction cannot therefore be said to have reached its limit. Since the first of January this year there has been renewed activity to a marked degree by individuals and syndicates to assemble properties in the midtown theatre zone at desirable locations for playhouses.

The vaudeville theatre which the Mitchell H. Mark Corporation is about to erect on the Brewster factory site at Broadway and 47th street, from plans by Thomas W. Lamb, will cost half a million dollars. It will have a Broadway frontage of about 155 feet, will be of white terra cotta and have a seating capacity of 2,936. The roof garden will be, it is said, the largest in the world.



Gaetano Ajello, Architect.

UNIQUE THEATRE FOR THE MIDTOWN DISTRICT.

Another of the latest amusement enterprises was made known last week by a syndicate which is now forming for the purpose of erecting a modern theatre (a sketch of which is shown herewith) in the central theatre district to cost not less than $500,000. The plans for the latter have been tentatively prepared by Gaetano Ajello, of 1 West 34th street, and show several unique features in theatre designing. A chief factor in the scheme is the interior fire-escape arrangement enclosed in brick walls within the building.

This condition is a new departure for the most modern structures of this type now building, it being the architect's purpose to render an artistic facade unobstructed by iron stairs and landings. A full detailed announcement will soon be made giving the building site and the names of those interested. Felix Isman, of Philadelphia, who contemplates the erection of a theatre in 42d and 43d streets, between Broadway and Sixth avenue, 129 West 42d street, and 126-130 West 43d street, will take possession of the property on March 1.

A Good Business to Pursue.

"Real estate is a good business to pursue and the chance to succeed in it above the average, because it is a business of stability," said W. W. Hannan, of Detroit, in an address before the Cleveland Real Estate Board. "As a commodity, its extent is fixed. There is just so much of it and there never will be any more to serve the needs of the entire human race. If a real estate operator exercises only ordinarily good judgment in buying, or as a broker, in advising his clients to buy, he cannot fail to profit by the increase in values bound to prevail as population becomes more dense and industrial activities expand. Not only are original values bound to increase, but I believe the time is not far distant when securities supported by real estate will find a quicker market than stock and bonds."

tions of opinion entirely for the differing locations. Thus we can express our judgment—the mental side—as to the differing qualities of location without being compelled to take into consideration any reference to size and shape. When a merchant says a certain kind of cloth is worth fifty cents a yard, he is expressing the value to him of a certain definite quantity well understood by him and his customer. He is not mixing in anything with regard to quantity. Cloth at a dollar a yard is understood to be worth twice as much for the same quantity, whatever it may be.

We see, therefore, that it is more effective to know just what our task consists of before we attempt to perform it. I have only attempted in these remarks to convey to you the necessity for more study of factors and greater appreciation of what enters into a conclusion of opinion on your part or what ought to. I have not the time nor, perhaps, is this the occasion to go into the details of the mathematical side of the question. It is just as easy to compute mathematically the value of varying sizes and shapes as compared with the value of a unit foot as it is to compute the value of 10 yards of cloth when we know that one yard is worth 50 cents; that is, it is just as easy when you have all of the formulae worked out.

—The Borough of Queens during the year 1912 installed 20,505 lineal feet of concrete sewer, 39,102 lineal feet of pipe sewer and 16,650 feet of 6-inch pipe for house connection drain. Ninety receiving basins and 356 manholes have also been built. The work cost $404,891.46.

THE laws and ordinances affecting the management of buildings in this town are so numerous and scattered that it is virtually impossible to know whether or not they are being complied with in the case of any particular building. They frequently come to the attention of a manager only through some notice from a public official that such and such a provision is being violated, and that the owner is subject to a penalty; or an order may be received to make some structural alteration. Most managers are willing enough to comply with the law. There is no money in taking charge of property that is run down or antiquated, unless the manager is permitted by the owner to put it in good shape as soon as he accepts the agency. Repeated violation notices from city or State departments involve too much waste of time, as the most trivial matter, when once it becomes enmeshed in official red tape, calls for an endless series of visits, conferences, negotiations and correspondence.

To avoid loss of time, if for no other reason, managers are anxious to have as little to do with violation orders as possible. But, even with the best of intentions, it is not always possible to keep clear of them. One can't possibly be informed on the City Charter, the Building Code, the Tenement House Act, the ordinances of the Board of Aldermen and the health, fire prevention, factory, and other laws, not to speak of regulations adopted by public officials having discretionary or "legislative" power. It would be a great help both to responsible public officials and to real estate agents if all the provisions of law falling within the province of building management were brought together in a single codification. It would not be necessary, perhaps, to make such a code an official statute. It might with propriety be compiled by, for example, the Board of Estimate as a means toward economy in the city administration. Such a code, if sold at cost, would be in the hands of all real estate men, with the result that the number of unintentional violations would be reduced to practically nothing. Probably a third or even more of the clerical work of city departments connected with violation orders would fall away, so that quite a staff of tax-eating clerks could be dispensed with.

Such a code would have another important effect. It would expose the present duplications of inspection work on the part of city and State departments and, what is more, would bring into juxtaposition the many legal contradictions in the existing hodgepodge of statutes. At present a manager may, for example, be told by the Building Department to swing doors leading to halls one way, only to be informed later by the factory inspector or Fire Prevention Bureau to swing them the other way. If the Board of Estimate were to set about such a codification as the one in question, its attention would of necessity be drawn to the present legal inconsistencies in a way that might induce it to seek remedial legislation.

If the city authorities really care to have the cooperation of real estate agents and owners in obtaining sanitary and fire protective conditions, they must see to it that the desired sanitary and fire protective conditions are clearly set forth in legislation, that the responsibilities of owners and tenants are equally clearly defined, and that the knowledge of what the law requires is accessible to all concerned. With this knowledge at hand, the building manager would virtually become a public inspector. It is to his advantage that neither owner nor tenant should unintentionally come in conflict with the law, for when such conflict occurs it is generally his time that is wasted.

BEST WAY OF MANAGING APARTMENTS

By RANSOM E. WILCOX, of Wilcox & Shelton.

ANY dwelling in New York City that contains more than two families is a tenement house. The term includes the plainest three or four-room cold-water flat that rents for eight or ten dollars, and the spacious elegantly appointed houses where the monthly rent runs into hundreds. It is clear that a very large majority of the people of Manhattan and The Bronx are apartment house dwellers. The care of such property is the larger part of the business of most offices that give attention to the collection of rents. Its magnitude demonstrates its importance and proves it worthy of discussion and study.

A successful manager is an expert in rental values. He perceives, moreover, the natural level of style and appearance to be maintained, and the class of people that will be best served by what he has to offer. He knows when to pour out money freely and when to withhold. He is a student of every locality in which he has interests and he is ever on the watch to see what others in similar conditions are achieving.

Develops Mutual Respect.

He is the first to discover new conditions that necessitate changes in his property and he is acquainted with the best means of effecting such changes. He is a good judge of people and chooses wisely his servants and helpers, and when relations have been established he labors to develop a mutual respect and esteem that puts every man to his best endeavor for the success of their joint enterprise.

The character of the property has much to do in determining the success of the manager. Unfortunately, much tenement property has been produced in New York so poorly constructed or so ill adapted to its locality as to make success impossible. There are hundreds of tenement houses, and they are not all on the East Side, that have never had a successful year, and cannot be made to pay upon any basis approaching their cost.

If buyers and loaning concerns were sufficiently discriminating, the difficulty of marketing such property would be an effectual bar to its making. Happily, under the present operation of our Tenement House Law, the higher requirements of the Building Department and the conditions wisely insisted upon by the makers of building loans, a much better product is being furnished by professional builders.

A much smaller amount of it is permanently destined for the foreclosure market than was the case a decade ago. With most of this property a skillful manager has a chance to produce a satisfactory income.

Owners Want To Be Shown.

The owner has much to do with the success of an investment in tenement property. Few investors in real estate are willing to accept the returns without question, as they do their dividends on their railroad stock. They want to be shown, and they want their own ideas carried out.

The wise manager will keep close to his owner. It is the owner's right to have his property managed to suit him. The skilful agent will patiently strive to get his owner's confidence and then never to abuse it. He will endeavor to show to his owner the wisest measures and methods, but he will go no faster and no farther than he can carry the owner with him.

The best success is often achieved by the two working together with open minds. Many an owner by wise suggestion, timely encouragement and patient confidence has been rewarded by returns which he had not dared to anticipate.

Working Together.

The agent himself is, of course, the largest element in the question of his success. He must believe in the dignity and value of the business he is conducting. It is no light thing to be the means of making real estate investments safe and profitable. Millions of dollars have been put into real property in the belief that the sum so invested will be at all times secure, and that a stable income will result.

The manager of such property is in a position of trust. His industry and skill are challenged to the end that such funds shall not be wasted and such efforts to secure permanent income shall not fail. And this consideration is in force in small operations as well as in large.

The man or woman who has put a few hard-earned thousands into a small flat house is as well entitled to the best labor and skill of the manager as is the man who has invested millions. The income from trust funds by which women and children are supported, and by which benevolent institutions are maintained is in a large degree dependent upon his efforts.

Good Management Pays.

The importance of the business of managing real property is further demonstrated by the fact that it pays. It provides the means by which an office can be supported and a staff of workers maintained for an all-around real estate business. In dull periods when selling is slow and there is little doing in other lines, it furnishes a steady income. Moreover, the knowledge it gives of property is a valuable asset. In the last analysis, property is valuable in proportion to the income it will produce.

The experienced manager should be the very best appraiser of real estate values, and the wisest counselor to those who are making purchases or placing loans. It gives a valuable acquaintance among real estate owners. An office that has had a successful period of real estate managing, comes to have clients who will not purchase or sell or loan but upon its advice.

The business of managing tenement property makes heavy demands upon one's time and patience. There is a mass of detail that must have effective attention. Often trifles call for an expenditure of effort that seems out of all proportion to their value. There must be system and division of labor, but the successful manager must pervade it all. There should exist between principal and assistants a mutual respect and liking. And this should extend to the owner on one side and to the tenant upon the other. Only by such co-operation in persistent effort can the best results be achieved.

Abating the Smoke Nuisance.

The city of Chicago has a "Smoke Department," which has adopted a policy of educating the public in the methods of preventing smoke. Plant owners, engineers and firemen are shown the proper method of constructing furnaces for various kinds of service and are also instructed in the best manner of handling the equipment they have. For this educational work the department has a number of engineers whose duty it is to work with the owners and operators of plants, investigating and advising means which from the experience of the department teaches them to be best under the circumstances.

The problem in each plant is carefully investigated and thoroughly considered by the engineers, after which recommendations and suggestions are made to the owner as to the method of handling his plant or as to the reconstruction work necessary in order to operate within the smoke ordinance.

Sometimes entire boiler plants are rebuilt in order to stop smoke, and very often furnaces are reconstructed throughout. It sometimes happens that after a new plant is put in operation it smokes, and the operating crew finds it difficult to run without making objectionable smoke. The department gives such a plant special attention and stays on the job until the cause of the trouble is definitely known and changes have been made that will rectify matters.

Construction Work Supervised.

There are no certain makes or styles of furnaces that cover every case; in fact, the largest number of furnaces installed in the city since the organization of the present Smoke Department have been designed especially for the plant in which they are used.

It is the aim of the department to get automatic stokers in all plants that are large enough to warrant the expenditure. As long as furnaces are hand-fired there will be trouble in keeping the smoke down.

NEW THINGS

Anti-Window Sweating Sash.

The Detroit Show Case Company, of Detroit, Mich., has recently placed on the market a copper sash that may be used in store fronts and other windows. The moulding is fitted with ventilation ducts to prevent the glass from either frosting or sweating. Shopkeepers, generally, are demanding that their windows be installed so as to overcome frosting and sweating in the winter months. Particulars concerning this new sash may be obtained by writing the home office of the company at 491 West Fort street, Detroit, Mich.

Safeguards Elevator Passengers.

Managers of buildings are constantly liable to civil actions for damages for injuries to frequenters of their buildings resulting from falls due to the failure of the elevator operator to bring his car flush with the corridor floor. The Elevator Automatic Signal Company, of 28 Elm street, this city, is putting on the market a lighting device which throws a strong direct light on the threshold when the elevator door is open, thus permitting occupants to make sure of their footing when stepping from the elevator car to the floor at which they are alighting. The contrivance is a simple one. Each device is complete, so that any competent mechanic can install it at minimum charge.

A New Translucent Ware.

Something new in the way of illuminating glass ware is being introduced by the Gill Brothers Company, of Steubenville, Ohio. This glass has the appearance of an alabaster globe, but it is claimed for it that it has a still higher translucency. It takes its name from the celebrated Parian marble, which it resembles in appearance. This glass possesses great reflecting power, accompanied by perfect diffusion and minimum absorption of light, producing a soft effective white ray with an absence of glare. The new material is being made up into globes and shades for all purposes, including classic bowls for semi-direct lighting.

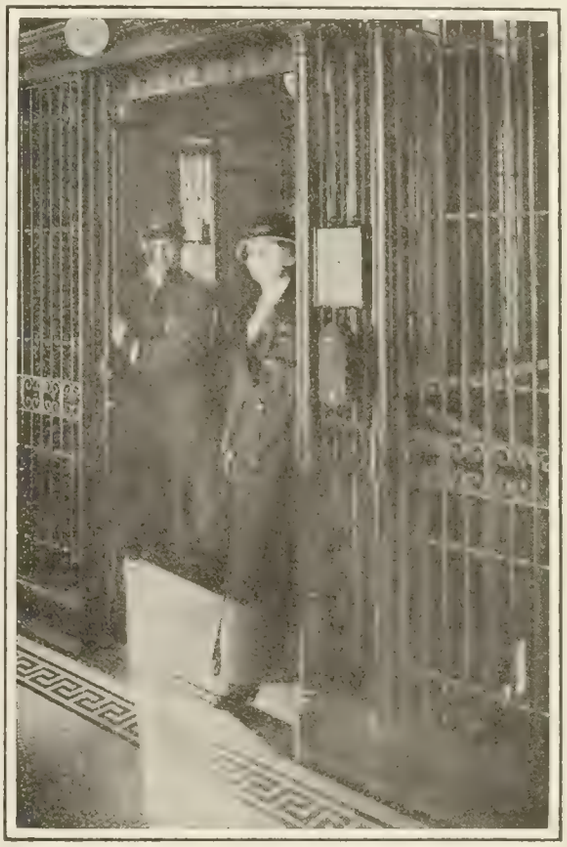
Finding the Level of an Engine.



We have an engine that does not seem to be set properly when placed on head or crank centers. With the valve stem and piston rod packing removed and all working parts connected, the crank pin rotates to the bottom of the crank case. How can I determine if the engine is out of balance?

Answer.—To determine whether the crank settles in standing balance of the engine on account of the weight of the connecting rod, detach the crank end of the connecting rod and vibrate the flywheel by hammer strokes square against the side of the wheel. If the wheel stands balanced in every position the crank is in standing balance. The lack of balance when the rod is connected up is due to the weight of the connecting rod not being balanced in standing balance. The engine may not be in standing balance, but may be in running balance. Running balance can only be adjusted by placing different weights in different positions on the flywheel when the engine is running at its proper speed. The weighting thus required is not generally suitable for standing balance.

Finishing Cypress.

We have a painter in our employ who finishes cypress by first burning the wood and then rubbing it down with a steel brush. Is this a good method?

Answer—Cypress is like cedar, very tough, but on account of its long fibre it is very troublesome to finish. This may be the reason for his process for staining it by fuming because the grain is not raised in the fuming process. Rubbing down with steel wool and waxing produces the best finish on cypress.

TH ELEVATOR STOPS FLUSH WITH THE FLOOR.

Water Heaters.

Will you please tell me through your Questions and Answers Column the difference between open and closed feed water heaters?

Answer.—In an open feed water heater the water to be heated comes in direct contact with the steam, while in a closed heater the water is pumped through a pipe which passes through the steam.

Protecting Structural Steel.

The foreman in charge of our painters has asked if there is any book published dealing with corrosion and preservation of iron and steel. Can you supply this information?

Answer.—There is a book published by Allerton S. Cushman, A. M., Ph. D., of Harvard, and Henry A. Gardner, that very fully covers this matter. It may be obtained from the Painters Magazine Publishing Co., 100 William street. Price $4.

At the annual banquet of the South Brooklyn Board of Trade last Tuesday, Mayor Gaynor, in a spirited defence of the dual subway contracts, made this interesting statement: "It is the first time in my life that any railroad operation has gone through without the issue of bonds and stocks as a bonus for those in the enterprise." The fact is that the contracts mark a new and cleaner era in the financing of public service enterprises, and a very high degree, indeed, of astigmatism is required to see the "steal" of city money we hear so much about.

An excellent account of the public markets of the United States, the British Isles, Germany, France, Austria-Hungary, Holland and Belgium is given in a pamphlet, entitled "A Terminal Market System: New York's Most Urgent Need," by Mrs. Elmer Black, of the Advisory Board of the New York Terminal Market Commission. The publication has reached us through the courtesy of Borough President Miller, chairman of the commission appointed by the Mayor to suggest a proper market system for New York.

The Bijou Theatre, which is to be sold by auction from Mr. Day's stand in the Vesey street exchange next week, is one of the few remaining landmarks of the old Broadway Rialto. Built in 1876 as the Brighton Theatre, and later known successively as Wood's Theatre, the Bijou Opera House, and the Bijou Theatre, it will have a lasting place in the history of the New York stage as the scene of such notable "runs" as the 600 performances of "Adonis," brought out by Henry Dixey, and the still longer continuance of David Belasco's "Music Master," with Warfield in the title role.

What Does It All Mean?

The hopes entertained by the people of New York that sometime early during the past week the contracts legalizing the new subway system would be signed have proved to be illusory. The prospect of immediate and favorable action appears at this writing to be worse than at any time since the current crisis began. After holding off for some days until it looked as if he would refuse to take any action about Mr. Willcox's successor which would complicate the subway situation, Governor Sulzer at the last moment sent in the name of Justice McCall, which was confirmed by the Senate with the utmost expedition. He accompanied this action by a public statement, in which he deplored the long delay that had attended the planning of a new subway system and expressed his determination not to interfere with the settlement of the matter by the local authorities. But these fine sentiments did not prevent him from endangering the plan, which had been adopted after a scrupulously careful deliberation by the municipal government and from adding still further to the delay, from which the city was suffering. The consequence has been a lively feeling of resentment and chagrin on the part of thousands of people, who had been looking forward for months to the adoption of the contracts; and these feelings will have more important political consequences than the enemies of the dual system seem to anticipate.

Just what the meaning of the events of the past week is the Record and Guide does not pretend to know. It is apparent that some kind of a political game is being played, the stakes being a more advantageous situation in relation to the municipal election next fall. It is a pity that the Governor has allowed himself to be drawn into such a business, and it is a pity that among the stakes are the inestimable advantages which the people of New York may expect to enjoy from the construction of the dual subway system. The only consolation is that nothing has yet occurred which assumes the final defeat of the official plan. The Governor's own attitude is non-committal. The new chairman of the Public Service Commission has not announced any intention of preventing the eventual signing of the contracts. So far as one can judge the attitude of the local Democratic organization is not unfavorable, because it allowed the legislation necessary to the signing of the contracts to be passed at the last session of the Legislature. It is altogether probable, consequently, the contracts will eventually be legalized, but even if they are legalized public opinion in New York will not soon forgive the unnecessary apprehensions which have been created during the crisis.

The ultimate reason for the conviction of the Record and Guide that the dual system will be authorized and built is that the plan is fundamentally right. The Record and Guide held firmly to this faith even during those dark months when it was apparently impossible to reach an agreement acceptable both to the Board of Estimate and the Interborough Company. At that time there even seemed to be a majority in the Board of Estimate opposed to any such agreement. Fortunately, one influential and open-minded member of the Board, Mr. Prendergast, became convinced of the impossibility of any of the alternatives and with his cooperation the dual system was eventually worked out. The strategic situation of that system is as strong as ever. Its advantages are as overwhelming as ever. The alternatives to it are as impossible as ever. Its popularity is more emphatic and widerspread than ever. That it will be legalized and constructed is as certain as anything can be, just as it is certain that if constructed it will accomplish more for the comfort, health and prosperity of the citizens of New York than its most sanguine friends now anticipate.

Engineers and the Public Service Commission.

The American Institute of Engineers recently made a recommendation to Governor Sulzer in respect to the appointment of Public Service Commissioners, which have not received the attention and comment, which on their merits it was entitled. The Institute advised the Governor to appoint on each of the service commissions a man of some engineering training and experience, on the ground of the extreme importance of the engineering problems connected with the work of the commission. The recommendation was ignored, but it should not have been ignored. It should have been not only accepted but enlarged. It is not only desirable that the Public Service Commission should include among its membership one competent engineer but that a majority of the commission should consist of experts, specially qualified to carry on its work. The original appointments of Governor Hughes did not measure up to a proper standard in this respect, and his successors have not improved on his example. In fact, a practice appears to be growing up of making these appointments exclusively on political grounds, and if this practice continues it may well result in the failure of the whole policy of the regulation of service corporations by New York State. That policy has achieved its most emphatic success in States like Wisconsin, whose railroad commissioners have proved to be so well qualified for their work that they have in several instances been transferred to the service of the national government. The decisions of these Wisconsin commissions are contributing substantially to the building up a code of administrative law and public policy which will have a very general application, and they are justifying the practice of regulation in the eyes of the courts, in the opinion of the officers of the corporations. No such results have as yet been obtained in New York State, and no such results can be obtained as long as the commissioners are selected chiefly because of political reasons.

Opening of the Grand Central Station.

The Record and Guide has frequently expressed the feelings of pride which possess the citizens of New York when they contemplate such local monuments of engineering and architectural skill as the Grand Central Terminal. The two railroad corporations with stations in Manhattan have done more to increase the architectural interest of the city than has the municipal government itself during its long period of building activity; and the result of their work has been profoundly to modify the business importance of the districts in which they have built. It might be hoped that other railroads would follow their examples, but so far as can be anticipated at present no other terminal will be erected in Manhattan. After the plans of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company were announced, it was expected that one or more of the other railroad companies which reached Manhattan by ferries across the Hudson river would build into Manhattan. We understand that an attempt was once made to unite the Jersey Central, the Lackawanna, the Erie and some of the minor roads upon some such plan, but it failed. It is not likely to be repeated. The expense of such a construction is is so huge that only railroads with enormous resources and with infinite possibilities in the development of traffic can afford the expense. The Pennsylvania Railroad, for instance, may never get back the interest on the capital cost of the Manhattan terminal out of the pockets of the users of the station.

The decision to underrate the enterprise was probably due chiefly to the consciousness that its prestige would always suffer in the eyes of the American public—in case it allowed the New York Central to possess the only railroad terminal on Manhattan Island. Even then its directors would probably have shrunk from the expense, in case the ownership by the Pennsylvania of the Long Island Railroad had not offered to it an indirect opportunity of meeting some of the outlay by means of the building up of that property. Moreover in 1901 railroad corporations were much more likely to engage in costly projects of development than they are during a period of systematic regulation and increased cost of living.

These terminals are magnificent, but they are an extravagance. They belonged to an epoch when the board of directors of a rich corporation could afford to permit themselves some extravagances in the expectation of re-imbursement at the public expense. But now no railroad corporation is so rich or so optimistic about its future income that it can afford to put $100,000,000 into a terminal. It is too bad that the era of big enterprises could not have continued for a period long enough to allow New York the benefit of another terminal or two, but doubtless the loss to the Borough of Manhattan is more than balanced by the gain to the country.

THE WEEK IN REAL ESTATE.

Probably no week so far this year has produced a better volume of business in the real estate market of this city than did this week. All parts of the borough of Manhattan especially were well represented; and, the Fifth avenue section figured prominently in the total. Property in the part of Fifth avenue from 34th street to 42d street is in pretty good demand just now; and, some of the activity is undoubtedly based on the coming of the firm of Lord & Taylor into Fifth avenue at 38th street and the decision on the part of the Public Service Commission to provide for a station of the Sixth Avenue Elevated Railroad at 38th street, thus making the stretch from 33d street to 42d street more directly accessible from both up and down town. A perusal of our Private Sales column will show a wide scope to the dealing in high class real estate. The purchase by Willard D. Straight of a Fifth avenue corner in the ninety streets, as a site for a fine town house for his own use, is an indication that all of the wealthy men have not abandoned New York for large landed estates in the suburbs as places of residence; and, it also marks another accretion to the improvements contemplated for Fifth avenue north of the Carnegie mansion. The Straight purchase was the banner transaction of the week, but there were other sales practically as interesting. A vacant plot, 35x100 feet, at 9 East 96th street, which adjoins a parcel that is undergoing improvement with a fine residence, changed hands. The indications are that the buyer is a prominent man, as the plot was bought through a third party, and it is even hinted that the plans for a house for this plot are in course of preparation. Three brownstone dwellings at 2 to 6 East 63d street were bought, and they occupy a plot 50x100.5 feet and adjoin the home of Joseph H. Choate. It is very likely that these houses will make way for a costly home to cover the total plot. Sold by the Sinclair and Armstrong estates, the plot was held at $200,000. Last month it was offered at auction, but the highest offer obtainable then was $187,500, at which figure it was bid in. Evidently the price at private sale was better. Another sale of interest was the purchase, by Marshall J. Dodge, of the house at 37 East 68th street, a 4-story structure, which the new owner will occupy. Another decade will witness all of Fifth avenue, north of 90th street to 110th street, built up with fine homes with a resultant improvement of tone in the intersecting streets and a consequent expansion of the Fifth avenue district. If the price reported to have been paid by Mr. Straight is correct, then his new home site cost him close to $7,000 a front foot; and, this is possible for a corner plot, of which there are very few left on Fifth avenue

A story is rife that a large hotel will be built on the east side of the Times Square block running from 45th to 46th street and that negotiations are under way for the purchase of the 18 parcels necessary for the site. Thomas B. Hidden is owner of 13 of the 18 parcels needed. His representative declares he is not aware of any negotiations in the premises. However, the real estate market is keenly interested in the report.

Most prominent of the many leases made during the week is that of the immense space reserved for restaurant purposes in the new Grand Central Station, which was leased by the John R. Thompson Company, which, while it owns many restaurants throughout the West, makes this its fourth venture in New York City, and it is only within the last year that it has sought business here at all. Its latest lease forms the largest store in the 42d street group of the station.

Probably nothing so strongly indicates the northward growth of New York City and the increment of its real estate values as the announcement made a few days ago that a theatre will be erected on a plot in the Dyckman tract. It is only about five years ago that real estate in this part of the city was beyond the pale of demand and more than one prominent operator was well tied up financially because of his holdings there; and, yet, improvements have followed on an extensive scale and are continuing. Of course, the operation of the subway north to Van Cortlandt Park had much to do with the movement of population to the neighborhood; but, the whole circumstance tends to show the wonderful recuperative power of real estate on Manhattan Island. The new theatre will be built by Gustavus L. Lawrence on a plot in 207th street, between Sherman and Vermilyea avenues. The same builder erected the Wadsworth theatre at 181st street and Wadsworth avenue.

Borough President Cromwell on the Danger of a Further Unearned Increment Tax.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

You have asked my views on three very important questions. The first is: "Do you look for a continued heavy increase in the cost of the city government that will make it necessary radically to alter our present tax laws—for example, by the adoption of a surtax on the unearned increment of real estate?" The present laws are not altogether just, and do not wholly place the burden of taxation where it belongs. If a property owner by obstinate refusal does not improve his land, waiting for its increase in value due to the energy, efforts and expenditures of neighboring owners, it would seem, on some accounts, as if he ought to be compelled to keep pace with others in development; but the general principle upon which this whole country is founded is individual freedom of action; but the courts are rather leaning to the principle that freedom of action is only permissible to the extent that it does not interfere with the paramount interests of the general public. With the advancement of that doctrine, a tax upon the unearned increment of real estate may become a necessity as a measure of justice to other property interests. I should not expect it, however, to be forced by a continued heavy increase in the cost of city government.

The second question reads: "Do you see any reason to believe that the tendency of city expenditure in New York to outrun the growth of population can be checked?" The City of New York has, to some extent, certain political and geographical limitations as to size, not yet fully reached, but reachable. Until its population reasonably covers this natural territory, the tendency will be for an increase of expenditure beyond the growth of population, so as to develop the capabilities of this area for housing the prospective population and give to it the comforts and conveniences which an urban population demands, and which the great wealth and prestige of New York City warrants. The cost of government should, however, not increase in anywhere near the same ratio. . New York possesses the governmental machine to care for a population of ten millions as readily as five millions; with, of course, increased expenditures for the necessary technical, clerical and laboring service which population would entail.

As to question No. 3: "Do you consider the growth of population as having a direct bearing upon increment?" There can be but little doubt that in the main an increase in population brings a direct increase in the value of unimproved real estate; not always, however, for the character of the locality may be so changed in the matter of population as to depreciate values rather than increase them.

While real estate is a sound fundamental basis of value for taxing purposes, average values are safer to go upon for taxing purposes than estimates of individual properties. A certain value may be there today and be gone tomorrow, due to some cause entirely beyond the control of the owner; consequently, the whole proposition of assessing upon unearned increment is a dangerous one, unless such large districts are considered as to discount purely local effect.

GEORGE CROMWELL.

St. George, Feb. 4.

Westchester County's Opportunity.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

The Grand Central Station is completed and now in readiness to take care of much additional traffic. The immediate vicinity of the station is now undergoing a most wonderful change. In fact, no section of New York has changed so rapidly in a short time as the radius of five blocks about Grand Central Station. The housing facilities for offices and business concerns, either under construction or completed, will take care of more than a quarter of a million more people than could be taken care of in the year 1912.

Forty-second street is destined to be the greatest retail street in New York City. Already some of the largest department stores are building and more are to follow. This is all brought about by reason of the centralization of traffic facilities to Grand Central Station. The Interborough Subway has a station right in the building. The Lexington Avenue Subway and McAdoo Tube will also have stations inside; the Steinway Tube ends here; the Elevated, and Broadway, Madison avenue, 34th street, 42d street and Lexington avenue cars all pass the door. There is no other spot in New York so easily reached as the Grand Central Station. To reach the trains of any other terminal requires very often a walk of blocks. No tunnels or bridges to contend with puts Westchester County in a class to compete with every suburban district about New York with its home sites.

All of these additional busine s people centering here today must live somewhere, and it is up to Westchester County to see that they move to Westchester County, because it is reached easier than any other district.

We who know the many advantages of Westchester County know it is the only place for an all year home in the suburbs. Its varied topography, with the Sound on the east and the Hudson on the west, and its myriad of lakes and streams, combine to give one anything in a most beautiful homesite with every adjunct possible.

If we do not let the public know what we have they will naturally be drawn to other sections.

I have suggested to the Board of Supervisors of Westchester County that the county inaugurate a publicity campaign—such as has been so successful in the West—the establishment of a central bureau where full information about Westchester county can be obtained. Broad publicity of facts about the county will thus draw the attention of those contemplating a change of residence to Westchester County, especially if extended in a general manner and not colored to promote private enterprise.

The City of New York grows to the extent of 250,000 every year. There is no reason why for the next few years the population of Westchester County cannot be increased 100,000 a year. The initial investment to draw these new people into our midst would be repaid a thousand fold in the increased assessments placed on your tax rolls. No one individual can do this. Every taxpayer in Westchester County is interested, and any money expended in furthering the growth of population of the county is the best use you can put the money to.

Today is the day to get busy. The moving germ is broadcast to get a business location near the Grand Central. The seed to sow is "Live in Westchester County because you can get there easier than you can get to Upper Manhattan, The Bronx, Long Island or New Jersey, and have a much more desirable home place."

CHAS. L. VAN FOSSEN.

ALLIED REAL ESTATE DINNER.

Governor Sulzer Will Attend and Speak.

The first annual banquet of the Allied Real Estate Interests will be held in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel on February 28. A notable guest of the event will be Governor Sulzer, who in accepting the invitation, is making an exception to his rule not to attend public dinners. Because the real estate interests of the entire state will be represented on the occasion is the reason for the acceptance. The Governor will probably speak of his efforts to reduce the expenses of the state government.

The dinner committee consists of Joseph P. Day, chairman; Lawrence B. Elliman, Warren Cruikshank, Albert B. Ashforth, Edward B. Boynton, Charles A. Cone, Randolph C. Hurry, ex-officio.

BUILDING MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

Recent Embarrassment of Certain Contracting Firms Fails to Upset Even Tenor of the Building Material Market.

Common Brick Slightly Stiffer as Real Winter Weather Sets in—Steel Situation Improving—Crude Oil Moves Up 3 Cents More—Linseed Oil Advances Another Cent—General Lumber Demand Good With Prices Firming—Portland Cement May Rise.

FAILURES reported by certain contracting firms had a slight tendency to unnerve the building material market this week, mainly because the failures are generally thought to be due to the neglect upon the part of the contractors affected to discount the gradual rise in the price of building materials. Dealers and distributors were inclined, however, to take an optimistic view of the market as a whole, and attributed the difficulty to individual shortcoming rather than a general weakening of the construction market.

Realty and building material interests report generally healthy conditions with competition, both in the matter of construction, contracting, and in supplying building materials exceptionally keen. The big contracting companies aver that the volume of business coming out is only normal for this time of the year, which is contrary to general supposition. Financial engagements, while unusually large, are slow in going into construction work, and an improvement in this line is not expected to develop until after the spring building season starts. At the same time, the building material market is anticipating a heavy inquiry. Practically all grades of lumber are sharply stiffening in the wholesale market, although few direct changes in list quotations are being made at present. Portland cement is being heavily ordered on prospective delivery in New York and New Jersey. Common brick stiffened as the thermometer dropped to a normal winter level. Crude oil at the Pennsylvania wells advanced another three cents. Linseed oil moved up one cent more to 50 and 51 cents for city raw American seed, and there was a stiffening tone in the steel situation.

These conditions could not prevail unless there was an inquiry sufficiently strong to warrant them. In the paint market, for instance, there is an inquiry sufficiently large to more than justify the stiffening trend of prices in certain lines of paint, especially where comparatively little lead is used, but where linseed oil and similar ingredients are important ingredients. In the brick market the stiffening may be attributable to the fact that practically all of the available bottoms are here in the market under load. Front brick is in rather unusual demand for this time of the year, and it may be that quotations will move to slightly higher levels if this inquiry results in annual orders in the next thirty or sixty days.

On the whole there is a stability about the general building material market which should inspire continued confidence, not only among distributors but among dealers.

The week closed with a determined effort on the part of the independent steel wire interests to advance prices and a very optimistic attitude among cement interests regarding the outlook. One distributor went so far as to predict dollar-and-a-quarter cement by April because the demand was growing every day and mill stocks were only moderate. There is a very general impression that Portland cement will be quoted at a dollar a barrel in the near future and that the stability of the industry is assured.

BRICK MARKET STIFFENING.

North Rivers Stiffer with Prices Firming —Newark Demand Light.

LITTLE uniformity is found in the common brick market. Here in New York the derell; secretady, R. J. Birch; financial secretary, mand is a little stronger, although sales on the whole are light. In Newark requirements for building material hitherto above minter normal fell off this week, probably because of the marked drop in temperature. Newar yard quotations on common brick are $8.25 and on Portland cement $1.35 net. This allows a 40 cent bag rebate per barrel.

Shipments into this market from Hudson River points continued unabated, although with 122 barges arriving since January first and practically all the other bottoms held under load, producers cannot ship very heavily despite the unprecedented fact that the Hudson is open as far north as Whitehall, or seventy-five miles above Troy. For the first time in history, boats arrived from Rondout in February. As far as the local market is concerned brick is moving to jobs slowly, although steel shipments are said to be coming in with more regularity and with better adherence to schedule.

Condition of market, dull. Hudson, prices $6.75 to $7. Raritans, no quotations. Total covered barges, 52. Left over, Feb. 3, 20. Quotations on covered barges, $7.50.

NOTE.—In last week's report of the Hudson River prices for 1912, the figures were erroneously given as $5.25 to $5.50. The prices should have read, $6.75 to $7. Quotations on covered cargoes were reported as $5.50. The correct quotation is $7.50.

The situation in the Raritan valley is very similar to that in the Hudson. Open weather conditions up to this week have brought in a demand somewhat above normal, but we are informed that the supply of brick is sufficient for all spring needs, both in this market and in Newark. Ice was reported in the South River, a branch of the Raritan, on Thursday, but boats were then still able to get through to the Staten Island sound and to New York. The Passaic and Hackensack rivers are still navigable.

PORTLAND CEMENT FIRMER.

Dealers Buying Conservatively—Fair Demand in East Jersey.

THE Portland cement market is firm. Dealers are buying conservatively, at the new price levels, but there is sufficient nw construction now going ahead to keep the agents here optimistic regarding the spring building season. Some expect dollar mill prices this year.

In Newark Portland cement is in normal demand for this season, but there is a prospective inquiry that probably will materialize in large business early next month. Dealers are stocked moderately in the belief that what early demand materializes, they will put squarely up to the distributors to deliver.

This is exactly what the lumber dealers have been doing with the result that lumber mills are finding themselves short and prices are advancing. Whether this also will be the case with the Portland cement mills is problematical, but the probabilities are that the producer will be able to take care of the market's requirements. Such a policy is not always safe for the dealer to maintain, because it gives the manufacturer no idea of the probable requirements of the market, and when the producer is caught short, prices are almost sure to rise.

The dealer, however, argues that prices have advanced sharply within the recent past, and that he has had experience before with overstocks; in fact, he does not have to stretch his money more than twelve months to pick up mementos of costly overstocks. He is therefore assuming the position of letting the market show him, first. This is the sort of conservatism that prevails throughout the district today; not because there is any doubt regarding the volume of building that is going to come out next spring, but he does not want to tie up money unnecessarily.

CRUDE OIL GOES STILL HIGHER.

Touches $2.50 at Pennsylvania Wells—May Affect Floor Oils and Lubricants.

CRUDE oil advanced three cents at Pennsylvania wells this week making the current price $2.50 for second sand and Tiona, thus establishing a new high level exceeded only by the $2.69 price ruling in April, 1895. The market for refined petroleum continued strong, but no change has so far ben reported in prices, although there is a good consuming movement reported in prospect. This week's quotations (Thursday) are as follows:

Pennsylvania, $2.50 per bbl.; second sand, $2.50; Tiona, $2.50; Mercer, black, $2; Corning, $2; New Castle, $2; Cabbell, $2.07; North Lima, $1.31; South Lima, $1.26; Indiana, $1.26; Princeton, $1.14; Illinois, above 20 gravity, $1.14; Kansas and Oklahoma, 30 gravity and over, $.88; Cado, La., light, $.91; Caddo, La., heavy, $.89; Canada, $1.65; Somerset, 32 gravity and above, $1.35; Ragland, for 22 and 28 gravity, $.70.

The market in linseed oil advanced another cent this week, the current prices ranging now at 50 and 51 cents for city raw, American seed. The local demand was stronger and while no change in card quotations has been made, an advance in the schedule is believed to be impending. There is still available in this market oil at 48 to 49 cents and a moderate business was reported, but there is no question that a rise is due.

A firmer tone has prevailed in the lubricant market all week. This was thought to reflect the advance in the price of crude oil at the wells but increased demand was more generally attributed as the cause. Building managers, painting contractors and fabricators using petroleum products in large quantities will do well to get into the market early.

China wood oil is now quoted at 7½ and 8 cents.

BUILDING METALS EASY.

Structural Demand Somewhat Lighter—Steel Boiler Tubes Advance $2.

STRUCTURAL steel was in demand principally by car interests this week. Fabricators are reporting a slight falling off in construction tonnage, but inasmuch as they are figuring on a fair quantity of prospective operations that will come out after the spring building season starts, they are not worrying over the temporary lull.

The fact that the United States Steel Corporation is buying from 8,000 to 10,000 tons of billets is looked upon by fabricators as a favorable sign that the stability of the heavy construction market is not a matter of concern. Shipments are being made closer to schedule and, in fact, store deliveries cannot be used much longer as a contributing cause of delay in building construction. New mill capacity has been added and the unfilled tonnage is being rapidly reduced.

Contractors are preparing bids for the third section of the Queens elevated road extension, but it is a matter of considerable gratitude among building interests that the steel companies are more cautious in giving options on large tonnages without a guarantee that the prices they quote will be used in the bidding and that in the event of the general contract being awarded to the contractors thus favored, they shall secure the steel tonnage at the prices quoted prior to the submitting of bids.

Steel boiler tubes are up another $2 per ton, but iron boiler tubes have not followed the upward trend.

LUMBER PRICES STIFFENING.

Most of the Mill Supplies Low—Maine Logging Hampered by Lack of Snow.

THE general lumber market is exceedingly active. Prices show an upward tendency in all departments. Mills are filling heavy spring orders, but early deliveries are hard to get. Local and suburban lumber dealers' stocks are being seriously depleted, because of open building weather, and wholesalers are looking forward to an active spring market despite promised higher prices.

Eastern spruce is firm. West Virginia mills have ample sawing in hand, inquiries and orders are plentiful and prices show a slight advance over those prevailing thirty days ago. Short spruce is in good call at 50 cents to $1.50 increase over the previous list. Supplies are only nominal. The lack of snow is hindering Maine logging operations.

Yellow pine is in good demand, and inquiries continue to increase. Twelve-inch and up show a slight advance with the strong conditions prevailing at manufacturing points. Prices are moving upward. Yellow pine flooring is firm. Grades in "A" sap and lower show an advance of fifty cents to one dollar over prices quoted thirty days ago. Hemlock is firm on a $23.50 base for both Pennsylvania and West Virginia stock. Higher prices are predicted with the opening of the spring trade.

Hardwoods continue to hold their own in all departments. Good lumber is not over plentiful and is bringing its price. Low-grade stock is enjoying its full share of trade. Cypress is moving fairly active and the spring market will be strong. There is no change in prices.

White pine stocks at wholesale points are fair, but the demand at mill points already warrants higher prices.

Fifth Avenue and Its Neighborhood the Scene of Many Sales This Week.

The dealing in real property throughout the greater city this week was good, while in Manhattan it quite surpassed expectations. The Fifth avenue district was prolific in transactions. Some good dwellings in the Upper West Side changed hands. Selling was by no means slow in Brooklyn, while a valuable commercial plot in Long Island City was bought. This column shows the activity that prevails in the suburban districts beyond the city limits, and there appears to be strength there, much of which may be atttributed to the open winter.

The Manhattan sales totaled 45, against 37 last week and 48 a year ago.

The number below 59th street was 15, against 14 last week and 18 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregated 30, compared with 23 last week and 13 a year ago.

From the Bronx 14 sales at private contract were reported, against 21 last week and 17 a year ago.

The amount involved in the Manhattan and Bronx auction sales this week was $759,887, compared with $638,108 last week, making a total since January 1 of $5,190,129. The figure for the corresponding week last year was $788,160, making the total from Jan. 1, 1912, $4,570,416.

brownstone dwelling, on a lot 24.8x100, between 34th and 35th sts. For many years the dwelling was the home of Dr. Jas. E. Janvrin. Mrs. Goodhue owns the property on either side of her latest purchase. When the Cameron building, at the northeast corner of 34th st and Madison av, was built a few years ago, Mrs. Goodhue sought to restrain its erection on the ground that the site was restricted against business uses. Many other property owners on Madison av sympathized with the suit; but the courts declared that because the restrictions covered less than one-third of the lot in question the future of the whole could not be affected thereby. Therefore the Murray Hill restrictions did not apply to the 34th st corner. Beside the Madison av frontage mentioned, Mrs. Goodhue also owns 43 East 34th st and 20 East 35th st.

5TH AV.—Maria H. Dehon sold 310 5th av, a 4-sty and basement dwelling, on a lot 24.8x100. It is understood that the buyer is Jacques Krakauer, a linen dealer at 308 5th av. The buyer now owns a combined plot of 49.4x100.

5TH AV.—The trustees of Columbia University sold through Taylor Bros. to Klein & Jackson the plot 100.5x250 at the northwest corner of 5th av and 47th st. The land is covered now with 580 5th av, occupied by the Windsor Trust Co.; 582 5th av, occupied by Dreyfus & Co.; 584 5th av, a new building in course of construction, which has been leased to Lichtenstein & Co. for a term of years; 586 5th av, occupied by Lowebein & Co.; 1 West 47th st, occupied by Mrs. Rionda; 3 West 47th st, occupied by J. W. Sterling; 5 West 47th st, occupied by Harvey Durand; 7 West 47th st, occupied by Mrs. Seccombe; 9 West 47th st, occupied by a daughter of Isaac Brokaw; and 11 West 47th st, occupied by Mrs. Edwards. The university has owned the property since 1814 when it was bequeathed to it by the State of New York. There will be no renewal of present leases to the property.

Manhattan—North of 59th Street.

61ST ST.—Gustavus W. Rader sold through B. Flanagan & Son 157 West 61st st, a 4-sty and basement dwelling, on a lot 20x100.5. It is the first sale of the property since it was built 40 years ago.

70TH ST.—Wm. S. Coe sold to David W. Bucklin 50 West 70th st, a 4-sty and basement dwelling, on a lot 23x100.5. The buyer will occupy the dwelling.

60TH ST.—The New Amsterdam Realty Co. sold through John T. Wall and John K. Moors 143 West 60th st, a 5-sty cold water tenement house.

72D ST.—Lloyd C. Griscom sold to Marshall J. Dodge, who was the tenant, 111 East 72d st, a 4-sty dwelling, on a lot 25x102.2.

74TH ST.—Slawson & Hobbs sold for Theresa A. Ellinger 33 West 74th st, a 4-sty and basement dwelling, on a lot 20x102.2, between Central Park West and Columbus av. The buyer will occupy the house.

84TH ST.—Pease & Elliman, in conjunction with J. J. Kavanagh, sold for Anson W. Hard, of the firm of Hard & Rand, the 3-sty private garage at 51 East 84th st, on a lot 25x100.8½.

85TH ST.—Esther W. Dryfoos bought through N. A. Berwin & Co. 108 and 110 East 85th st, two 3-sty dwellings, on a plot 36.2x102.2. The buyer also owns 106 adjoining, and she new controls a plot 59.4x102.2.

85TH ST.—John J. Meenan sold for L. J. Anger to a buyer, for occupancy, 118 East 85th st, a 3-sty and basement dwelling, on a lot 18.9x102.2.

88TH ST.—Wm. Rosenberg sold to E. S. Levy 14 West 88th st, a 4-sty and basement dwelling, on a lot 17.6x100.8.

92D ST.—Philip L. Liebmann bought from M. L. Blumberg 129 East 92d st, a 3-sty and basement dwelling, on a lot 17x100.8.

92D ST.—Frank S. Bond sold to a buyer, for occupancy, 52 West 92d st, a 4-sty dwelling, on a lot 18x100.8.

95TH ST.—Casriel Benjamin sold through Paul A. McGoldrick to Jos. B. Peck 220 East 95th st, a 5-sty flat, on a lot 25x100.

100TH ST.—Chas. F. Noyes Co. resold for Ennis & Sinnott, 233 West 100th st, adjoining the northwest corner of Broadway, a 3-sty and basement dwelling, on a lot 25x100.11. The buyer will remodel the building for business purposes.

108TH ST.—John Cullen sold through M. W. Del Gaudio the 1-sty market, on a plot 50x100, in the south side of East 108th st, 125 ft. west of 1st av.

111TH ST.—Dr. Samuel Schneider resold to Wm. Wolff 63 to 67 East 111th st, a 6-sty tenement house, on a plot 46.9x100.11.

120TH ST.—Max Kurzrok sold 235 and 237 East 120th st, a 5-sty tenement house, on a plot 37.6x100.11. Mr. Kurzrok recently transferred this property together with other holdings to the Columbus Holding Co.

The Renewal of a

in a loft building involves the question of maintenance cost on floor or floor covering. Up to date merchants demand the best.

is a dustless, fireproof composition flooring which requires no up-keep, except cleaning. It is laid in plastic form in attractive designs—like a rug. It is a practical "leader" to offer merchants as an inducement on renewal leases.

We will submit specifications and prices—plain or ornamental designs—furnish the material—lay the floor—and guarantee the job—just write or telephone.

FREDERICK SOUTHACK and Alwyn Ball, Jr., negotiated the recently reported lease of the property at the southwest corner of 4th av and 28th st for the Goelet estate to the United Cigar Stores Co.

PROPERTIES owned by Adolphus Busch at Broadway and 98th st, 11th av and 36th st and Northern av, north of 181st st, were attached last Wednesday and a lis pendens filed against them to that effect. This is part of an action going on in Rochester against Busch.

THE FIRST MEETING to be held in the Real Estate Salesroom, 14 Vesey st, in accordance with the plan to make that place a sort of forum for the discussion of matters affecting real estate, will be held on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The matter to be discussed will be the present effort to block an early settlement of the subway problem.

THE NEW YORK TITLE INSURANCE CO. is making a building loan of $300,000 to the Riverside Drive & 150th Street Realty Co. for the purpose of erecting a 10-sty fireproof apartment house at the northeast corner of 150th st and Riverside Drive. It is proposed to have the building ready for occupancy the latter part of the coming summer.

TITLE to Durland Farms, located near Warwick, Orange County, N. Y., passed, last Wednesday, to the city of New York for the new Inebriate Home. The property contains nearly 800 acres and includes a part of Wickham Lake. The tract was purchased from Major T. D. Landon, the sale being negotiated by Howard Goldsmith.

THE M. MORGENTHAU, JR., CO. has placed $80,000 on first mortgage loans on Far Rockaway property, has placed a first mortgage of $30,000 on the Shelbourne Hotel property on Hudson av, between Fulton av and the Atlantic Ocean at Edgemere, L. I., and $50,000 on the property of the Stiner Leasing Co. at the northwest corner of Broadway and Oak st, Far Rockaway, a plot about 430 ft. on Broadway by about 350 ft. on Oak st, improved with two dwellings.

MATERIAL DEALERS who supplied the substance of which are made the Fitzgerald Building and Cohan Theatre at the southeast corner of Broadway and 43d st, form the corporation known as the 1482 Broadway Co. which, as was recently reported in these columns, has taken over the property. The original lessees of the land who erected the office and theatre building became involved in financial troubles and to settle them the material dealers formed the new company and assumed ownership of the building.

ELISHA SNIFFIN, secretary of the New York Real Estate Board of Brokers, has received many congratulations both by mail and telegraph on the splendid success of the annual dinner, held at the Waldorf last Saturday night. Many have assured him that it was positively the premier affair of the kind of the season. Mr. Sniffin is making his plans for another trip to Europe this summer. On his last tour, it will be remembered, he carefully studied real estate conditions in Germany and upon his return gave the readers of the Record and Guide a most interesting account of his observations and conclusions.

ON FEB. 1 the firm of A. L. Mordecai & Son was reorganized, and Mr. Edwin Goldsmith was admitted into the corporation. The officers of the corporation now are Mr. B. Mordecai, President; Mr. G. Richard Davis, Treasurer, and Mr. Edwin Goldsmith, Secretary. The company announces its intention of retiring entirely from the real estate brokerage business and devoting its time and capital exclusively to the buying and selling of real estate for its own account, building for its own account and building under contract for others. The firm of A. L. Mordecai & Son is one of the oldest in the real estate business in the city, having been established in the year 1867 by the late Allen L. Mordecai. On May 1 they will remove their offices from 135 Broadway to the 42d Street and Madison Avenue building.

HOGGSON BROS., contracting designers at 7 East 44th st, have taken title to the southwest corner of Lexington av and 40th st, two dwellings covering a plot fronting 39.6 ft. on Lexington av and 85 ft. in 40th st, where they will erect a building for their own use. The improvement is the first of its kind planned in that section and is to be made because the buyers believe that 40th st and Lexington av are to be important thoroughfares; 40th st because the Park av viaduct from the Grand Central Station will end at that street and is likely to cause it to be one of heavy traffic, and Lexington av because of the subway. Details of the proposed building have not been decided. It is likely to be of 12 stories. For the opposite or northeast corner of Lexington av and 40th st, the Women's Cosmopolitan Club is negotiating. They would like to lease it for a clubhouse site. Pease & Elliman negotiated the sale of the southwest corner.

ELISHA SNIFFIN, of No. 135 Broadway, has negotiated the following building and permanent mortgage loans: $800,000 on the Borchardt 12-sty apartment building southeast corner of Broadway and 98th st; $400,000 on the 9-sty apartment building at No. 104 East 40th st for Ferguson Bros. and Forshay; $170,000 for the Fox Square Building Company on the southeast corner of Hoe av and East 163d st, which is the first fireproof steel constructed 8-sty apartment building in the Bronx, and a fine success from the beginning; $165,000 on the 6-sty apartment building on the north side of 157th st, 200 ft. east of Broadway, for the Irving Judis Building and Construction Company; $375,000 on the National Realty Company's 19-sty office building at Tacoma, Washington; $1,500,000 for the Musgrave Realty Company on the 20-sty office building, known as the "Madison Avenue Building," southeast corner of Madison av and 25th st, and also several large second mortgages, each in an amount over $100,000.

Big Chicago Lease.

ARTHUR TRUSLOW in conjunction with Chandler, Hildreth and Co. of Chicago, leased from the plans to The Hilton Co., men's clothiers and outfitters, the large corner store (33½ x144) in the 21-sty building recently erected by Jacob L. Kesner at the northwest corner of State and Quincy sts, Chicago. The store will be located on one of the busiest thoroughfares in the world and is in the very centre of the retail clothing district of Chicago. The term of the lease is 12 years beginning May 1, 1913.

Climax of the Northward Business Movement.

Herbert A. Sherman believes the craze for moving northward has about reached its top notch mark and that the future will see old established firms remaining where they have been for years and expanding there, in a building sense, to meet their needs. There might have been cause for old firms deserting their old premises some years ago, he says, but the transit facilities of Manhattan are such that one district is almost as well located as another.

Automatic Sprinklers.

Comparatively few local agents now oppose the installation of automatic sprinklers, regardless of the effect upon their income, realizing that they are a highly desirable improvement so far as the public and private interests are concerned, says the Insurance Press. Very frequently, however, the local agent suffers severely. In one case an agent placing a line of $700,000, with an average rate above 3 per cent., had the rate cut to 65 cents by the installation of sprinklers and other improvements, reducing the premium on that risk $16,000 a year.

Must Build New Station.

The Public Service Commission adopted a resolution this week calling upon the Interborough Rapid Transit Company to construct an elevated railroad station at 38th street and Sixth avenue, to be ready for use on December 31.

The order directs the company to obtain the consents of abutting property owners or to extinguish such rights by condemnation. If such proceedings are necessary the company is ordered to institute them immediately. Plans for the new station must be submitted to the commission for its approval.

Favor Dual Subway System.

At a meeting of the Chester Taxpayers' Alliance, held in Wagner Hall, at Westchester and Castle Hill avenues, Bronx, last Monday evening, a resolution was adopted favoring the dual system of subways. A lively discussion followed pertaining to the paving of various streets in the Chester section.

J. Vincent Ganley was re-elected president; George Hefter, vice-president; Charles Maier, recording secretary; Thomas Murray, corresponding secretary; Harry A. Cokely, financial secretary, and Leon Losere, treasurer.

An Income Tax Assured.

Ratification of the income tax was announced in the U. S. Senate on Monday. The text of the income tax amendment to the U. S. Constitution is as follows:

"Article XVI—The Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived, without apportionment among the states, and without regard to any census or enumeration."

It is understood that a bill will be introduced providing for a tax of 1 per cent. on all earned incomes of $5,000 or more, a tax of 1½ per cent. on unearned incomes above that figure and a still higher but graduated tax on incomes from swollen fortunes and large real estate holdings.

The London, Liverpool and Globe's Statement.

The Liverpool & London & Globe Insurance Co., Ltd., a stock company, has issued the 65th annual statement of its United States Branch for the calendar year 1912. It shows total assets of $13,739,218, which includes real estate amounting to $1,401,958; United States Government 4 per cent. bonds, $229,140; state and city bonds and railroad stocks and bonds, $5,896,110; bonds and mortgage loans, $3,244,696; bank balances and all other assets $2,967,314. The company reports unearned premiums and all other liabilities $9,723,246.05, leaving a surplus of $4,015,972.92. The New York directors are: John A. Stewart, chairman; Edmund D. Randolph, Thatcher M. Brown, Walter C. Hubbard and Seymour J. Hyde. Henry W. Eaton is manager; George W. Hoyt, deputy manager; J. B. Kremer, assistant deputy manager, and T. A. Weed, agency superintendent.

The Fire Record of 1912.

A record in the number of fires, but a smaller average loss during 1912, are noted by Fire Commisisoner Johnson in his annual report to the Mayor. Another record was set in the number of convictions for arson—forty in all.

The average loss for each fire was reduced from $855 in 1911 to $580 in 1912, despite the Equitable building fire. The fire marshals report the estimated actual loss in 1912 as $9,069,580, as against $12,470,806 in 1911, a reduction of $3,401,226. In the entire city 15,633 fires occurred in 1912, while in 1911 there were 14,547 fires. In 1912 there were 7,808 in tenement houses, as against 7,297 in 1911.

The budget for 1913 is $8,945,945, as against $8,537,365 for 1912. Of the 1913 appropriation, $8,156,976 is for salaries and $788,968 for supplies.

Contracts for the erection of twenty-one new fire houses were let in 1912, and the plans are now being drawn for nine other houses. By Dec. 31, the commissioner says, there should be forty-three new fire houses ready for occupancy.

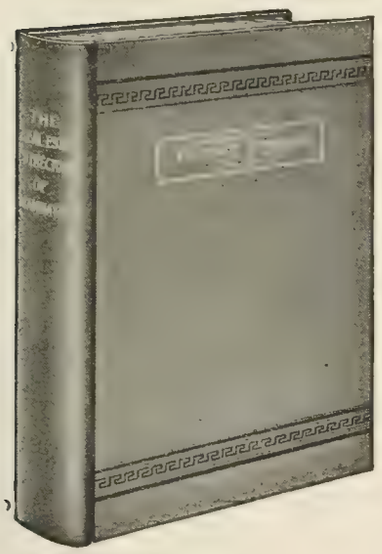
New Colony At Steinway.

Operations about to be undertaken by the McKnight Realty Company are the opening of Steinway Park, a tract of 1,000 lots in Long Island City and in Elmhurst; the work of development of 750 lots is now in progress. This development will be known as Elmhurst-South and according to the plans of the dual subway both properties are in close proximity to the elevated structures, and when the rapid transit projects are finished these properties will aid in solving the problem of increasing congestion of population, formerly confined to downtown East side districts, due largly to emigrant settlement.

The problem of housing this class of population, which pays a minimum and is compelled to live within walking distance of the work shop, or an area of the five cent fare, has engaged the attention of charity organizations and municipalities of this country and abroad for the past ten years to a greater degree than ever before, caused by the increasing congestion, and, consquently in increased death rate, more particularly of infants. It is proposed to take a section of the Long Island City or the Elmhurst tracts, construct a central utility plant, which will supply electric lights, heat and hot water to a model tenement, and, as the cost of the lots will be about $1,500 each (as against $15,000 in Manhattan) and as the cost of heat, light and hot water will not exceed $1.50 per week average for the year, a rental rate, it is argued, will be established far below the minimum of the Manhattan rate.

The Foreign-Born Population.



The Population Research Bureau of the New York Federation of Churches finds that in the section bounded by West 62d street, Sixth avenue, West 14th street and the North River, 24,-192 immigrants have been added since 1905 to a population of 261,951, based on the census of 1910. The Irish outnumber any other foreign born nationality, with 32,210; the German, 13,-181; Italian, 14,107; English, 6,242; Russian, 4,443; Finnish, 158; Austro-Hungarian, 4,551; Swedish, 1,268; Norwegian, 341, and all others, 16,821.

The district bounded by East 64th street, Fifth avenue, East 14th street and the East River has a census population of 239,280, of which 31,828 were immigrants since 1905. The Irish led the foreign born, with 30,868; Italian, 20,564; German, 16,455; Austro-Hungarian, 12,-386; Russian, 6,654; Finnish, 671; English, 5,175; Swedish, 4,045; Norwegian, 692, and all others, 12,294. The whites showed a percentage of 45.89 out of 109,804 foreign born.

The percentage of natives born of foreign parentage in the West Side section was 27.65, against 28.29 for the East Side section.

OF THE

Real Estate Directory

Our Cumulative Bulletin obviates all labor of posting records, and gives a complete transcript of the deed including a description of the property.

We can't explain all the advantages of the Cumulative Bulletin on a postcard but a sample copy will give you the idea—one will be sent free on request.

There are six other exclusive features of THE REAL ESTATE DIRECTORY, any one of which is worth the full subscription price.

A Summary of the Proceedings of the Local Boards, the Board of Estimate, the Supreme Court and Various Commissions and Bureaus Relating to Street and Other City and Borough Improvements.

The news collected here under the general head of Municipal Improvements is intended to be of service to property owners as well as contractors and brokers. It covers every measure looking toward a change in the City Map, toward the acquisition of title to real estate by the city or toward construction work, including the grading of streets, the laying of sewers, the building of schools, etc. Each such measure is acted upon by one or more—generally by several—official bodies before it becomes a valid ordinance. In these columns the successive official acts pertaining to it are noted from the time it is introduced in a Local Board or in the Board of Estimate. Wherever public hearings on it are granted, the fact is also announced.

Municipal improvements may be divided into two classes—those that are paid for out of the general tax levy and those that are paid for wholly or in part by special assessments on the property owners benefited. The latter, which are the more important to real estate owners, originate in the Local Boards. However, every local improvement, except certain street improvements calling for an expenditure of not more than $2,000, must be submitted to the Board of Estimate for authorization.

The news is classified and is printed in this order: Local Board Calendars, Local Board Resolutions, Proceedings of the Board of Estimate, Public Hearings, Assessments Due and Payable.

LOCAL BOARD CALENDARS.

As regards the majority of city improvements, including all that call for special assessments, the Local Boards are in a sense neighborhood legislatures. They have absolute authority over certain street improvements, costing not more than $2,000. With respect to all other local improvements, they exercise full legislative functions, subject to approval by the Board of Estimate. The Board of Estimate seldom vetoes a measure coming from a Local Board It is before the latter that the property owner should be most watchful to make himself heard concerning proposed improvements. When a Local Board resolution comes before the Board of Estimate, the presumption of expediency is on the side of the measure, as this has been adopted after open consideration by a body supposed to be familiar with local sentiment.

There are twenty-five Local Improvement Districts in the city, each with its Local Board. This is composed of the Borough President and of the Aldermen who represent the Aldermanic districts within the Local Improvement District. The Borough President's secretary acts as secretary of the several boards. Each board has jurisdiction over matters relating to its district. In the case of matters relating to two or more districts, the boards of the districts affected sit in common. The meetings are subject to call by the Borough President

PUBLIC HEARINGS.

One or more hearings are granted in connection with all proposed improvements. In the case of local improvements, the first hearing is by the Local Board. Such hearings are noted in this news department of the Record and Guide under the general head of Local Board Calendars. Hearings by all other bodies are noted in the present column.

In acquiring title to land for streets, sewers, parks, approaches to bridges, etc., condemnation proceedings are commonly resorted to. A proceeding having been authorized by the Board of Estimate, the Corporation Counsel makes application to the Supreme Court for the appointment of three commissioners. If the cost of the land is to be paid wholly or in part by property owners benefited, the commissioners are known as commissioners of estimate and assessment. They hold their meetings at the Bureau of Street Openings, a clerical and legal organization under the supervision of the Corporation Counsel charged with the management of all legal proceedings which involve awards for damages or assessments for benefit to land.

If the cost of the land is to be paid by the city as a whole, as in the case of school sites, dock property, etc., the commissioners are known as commissioners of estimate and appraisal, whose place of meeting is at 258 Broadway.

In the case of assessments for local improvements of a physical nature which do not have to be confirmed by a court of record, the assessments come before three permanent commissioners appointed by the Mayor. They constitute the Board of Assessors, which has to do with assessments for such improvement as the regulating and grading of streets, the laying of sewers, etc.

By the Board of Estimate.

At a meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, to be held in the City Hall, Manhattan, on Feb. 13, at 10.30 a. m., the following matters, among other matters, will be considered:

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

Including Contemplated Construction, Bids Wanted, Contracts Awarded, Plans Filed and Government, State and Municipal Work

Cauldwell-Wingate Co.'s Big Contract.

The Cauldwell-Wingate Co., 381 4th avenue, has just signed the general contract to erect the twelve-story office and loft building which the Bradstreet Company, of 346 Broadway will build at the northwest corner of Lafayette and Howard streets, with frontages of 114 feet in Lafayette street and 90 feet in Howard street, containing about 10,500 square feet. The architects, McKenzie, Voorhees & Gmelin, 1123 Broadway, estimate the cost at about $450,000. Clark MacMullen & Riley, of 80 Maiden lane, will be the steam and electrical engineers. Directors of the Bradstreet company include, Henry E. Dunn, president, Charles L. Beckwith, secretary, and Charles Martin Clark, treasurer. Building operations are to be started at once. There were five 3-story and basement buildings and a frame stable on the property, two of the lots are vacant. Together they were assessed at $127,000.

Several New Residences Planned.

Willard D. Straight, 22 East 67th street, of the firm of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co., 3 Broad street, contemplates the erection of a fine residence at the northeast corner of 5th avenue and 94th street, on a plot 35x100 feet. No architect has yet been retained. Another residence in this neighborhood is about to be erected at 9 East 96th street, for a client of the Reliance Realty Company, of 149 Broadway, F. De R. Wissman, president. This structure will be either five or six stories in height, and no architect has been selected. Another fine residence to be erected, for which property has just been purchased at 2-6 East 63rd street, a plot 50x100 feet, will be built this spring by a client of Strong & Cadwalader, lawyers, of 40 Wall street. The owner's name for the present is withheld.

Architects for Newark Bank Building.

Crow, Lewis & Wickenhoefer, of 200 Fifth avenue, Manhattan, were commissioned this week to prepare plans for an expensive marble and terra cotta bank building, to be erected at the southwest corner of Springfield avenue and High street, Newark, N. J., for the West Side Trust Company, of 59 Springfield avenue, Newark. The award was made in an open competition, in which several well known architects took part.

Departmental Building Contemplated.

Herman W. Hoefer, Capitol Building, Albany, N. Y., has plans in hand for the construction of a departmental building to be erected on Capitol Hill, Albany, for the State of New York, to cost in the neighborhood of $2,500,000. The matter has already been presented to the State Legislature for approval. Further details of construction cannot be announced at this time.

Empire Hotel for Showrooms.

George & Edward Blum, 505 Fifth avenue, have prepared plans for extensive alterations to the Empire Hotel, at Broadway and 63rd street, to cost approximately $20,000. The hotel, which is owned by the Marewood Realty Holding Company, will convert the entire first floor of the building into stores probably for automobile purposes. A dining room will be located in the Columbus avenue corner of the building. The architects are now taking estimates on the general contract.

Cadillac Motor Company to Build.

The Cadillac Motor Car Company, of 1819 Broadway, Manhattan, contemplates the erection of a salesroom building, three or four stories in height, about 75x100 feet in size, at 3-7 Lafayette avenue, Brooklyn, at a cost of about $36,000. No plans have yet been started, and no architect has been selected.

The Money Wasted By Private Plants

A large amount of business is offset by the cost of operating private power plants to turn out the work. What portion of this unnecessary loss of profits do you bear? Is your power plant giving you a service that compensates for its expense?

The Great Economy of Central Station Service

Edison Service decreases expense and increases profits to a very marked degree. We can show you the proved record of this result, in instance after instance, under conditions similar to your own. Why not ask for further information?
